- (2b) Subsection (2a) does not limit the ways in which a person may identify himself or herself as belonging to, or being associated with, a criminal organisation.
- (3) If a person is charged with an aggravated offence, the circumstances alleged to aggravate the offence must be stated in the instrument of charge.
- (4) If a jury finds a person guilty of an aggravated offence, and 2 or more aggravating factors are alleged in the instrument of charge, the jury must state which of the aggravating factors it finds to have been established (but a failure to comply with this subsection does not affect the validity of the jury's verdict).
- (4a) Two people will be taken to be in a relationship for the purposes of subsection (1)(g) if—
- (a) they are married to each other; or
 - (b) they are domestic partners; or
 - (c) they are in some other form of intimate personal relationship in which their lives are interrelated and the actions of 1 affects the other; or

- (d) 1 is the child, stepchild or grandchild, or is under the guardianship, of the other (regardless of age); or
 - (e) 1 is a child, stepchild or grandchild, or is under the guardianship, of a person who is or was formerly in a relationship with the other under paragraph (a), (b) or (c) (regardless of age); or
 - (f) 1 is a child and the other is a person who acts in loco parentis in relation to the child; or
 - (g) 1 is a child who normally or regularly resides or stays with the other; or
 - (h) they are brothers or sisters or brother and sister; or
 - (i) they are otherwise related to each other by or through blood, marriage, a domestic partnership or adoption; or
 - (j) they are related according to Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander kinship rules or are both members of some other culturally recognised family group; or
 - (k) 1 is the carer (within the meaning of the Carers Recognition Act 2005) of the other.
- (5) In this section—
- CFS means the South Australian Country Fire Service;
- child means a person under 18 years of age;
- circumstances of heightened risk, in relation to the driving of a motor vehicle, means—
- (a) driving the motor vehicle between sunset on one day and sunrise on the next day; or
 - (b) driving the motor vehicle in circumstances where traction between the vehicle and the surface being driven on is adversely affected; or
 - (c) driving the motor vehicle in circumstances where visibility is adversely affected;
- cognitive impairment includes—
- (a) a developmental disability (including, for example, an intellectual disability, Down syndrome, cerebral palsy or an autistic spectrum disorder);
 - (b) an acquired disability as a result of illness or injury (including, for example, dementia, a traumatic brain injury or a neurological disorder);
 - (c) a mental illness;
- major defect—a motor vehicle has a major defect if use of the motor vehicle constitutes a serious risk to the safety of any person;
- street race has the meaning given in section 19AD.
- (6) This section does not prevent a court from taking into account, in the usual way, the circumstances of and surrounding the commission of an offence for the purpose of determining sentence.

Examples—

- 1 A person is charged with a basic offence and the court finds that the offence was committed in circumstances that would have justified a charge of the offence in its aggravated form. In this case, the court may, in sentencing, take into account the circumstances of aggravation for the purpose of determining penalty but must (of course) fix a penalty within the limits appropriate to the basic offence.
- 2 A person is charged with an aggravated offence and the court finds a number (but not all) of the circumstances alleged in the instrument of charge to aggravate the offence have been established. In this case, the court may, in sentencing, take into account the established circumstances of and surrounding the aggravated offence (whether alleged in the instrument of charge or not) but must not (of course) take account of circumstances alleged in the instrument of charge that were not established.

5A—Abolition of capital punishment

- (1) Notwithstanding any provision of any Act or law, no sentence of death shall be—
 - (a) imposed on, or recorded against, any person; or
 - (b) carried into execution on any person.
- (2) Where any person is liable to sentence of death under any Act or law, the court before which that person is convicted shall, instead of sentencing him to death, sentence him to be imprisoned for life.
- (3) Any sentence of death that was imposed or recorded before the commencement of the Statutes Amendment (Capital Punishment Abolition) Act 1976 shall (whether or not that sentence has been commuted to a sentence of imprisonment for life) be deemed to be a sentence of imprisonment for life imposed by a court of competent jurisdiction.
- (4) Any direction or order made by the Governor on, or in relation to, the commutation of a sentence of death to a sentence of imprisonment for life shall be deemed to be a direction or order given or made by a court of competent jurisdiction.

5B—Proof of lawful authority or lawful or reasonable excuse

In proceedings for an offence against this Act in which it is material to establish whether an act was done with or without lawful authority, lawful excuse or reasonable excuse the onus of proving the authority or excuse lies on the defendant and in the absence of such proof it will be presumed that no such authority or excuse exists.

5D—Abolition of historical classifications

- (1) The classification of offences as felonies is abolished.
- (2) The classification of offences as misdemeanours is abolished.

Part 1A—Territorial application of the criminal law

5E—Interpretation

- (1) In this Part—
necessary territorial nexus—see section 5G(2);
State includes the Northern Territory and the Australian Capital Territory; relevant act in relation to an offence means—
- (a) an act or omission that is, or causes or contributes to, an element of the offence; or
 - (b) an act or omission that is, or causes or contributes to, something that would, assuming the necessary territorial nexus existed, be an element of the offence; or
 - (c) a state of affairs that is an element of the offence, or would, assuming the necessary territorial nexus existed, be an element of the offence.
- (2) The question whether the necessary territorial nexus exists in relation to an alleged offence is a question of fact to be determined, where a court sits with a jury, by the jury.

5F—Application

- (1) The law of this State operates extra-territorially to the extent contemplated by this Part.
- (2) However—
- (a) this Part does not operate to extend the operation of a law that is expressly or by necessary implication limited in its application to this State or a particular part of this State; and
 - (b) this Part operates subject to any other specific provision as to the territorial application of the law of the State; and
 - (c) this Part is in addition to, and does not derogate from, any other law providing for the extra-territorial operation of the criminal law.¹

Note—

- 1 For example, the Crimes at Sea Act 1998.

5G—Territorial requirements for commission of offence against a law of this State

- (1) An offence against a law of this State is committed if—
- (a) all elements necessary to constitute the offence (disregarding territorial considerations) exist; and
 - (b) the necessary territorial nexus exists.
- (2) The necessary territorial nexus exists if—
- (a) a relevant act occurred wholly or partly in this State; or

- (b) it is not possible to establish whether any of the relevant acts giving rise to the alleged offence occurred within or outside this State but the alleged offence caused harm or a threat of harm in this State; or
- (c) although no relevant act occurred in this State—
 - (i) the alleged offence caused harm or a threat of harm in this State and the relevant acts that gave rise to the alleged offence also gave rise to an offence against the law of a jurisdiction in which the relevant acts, or at least one of them, occurred; or
 - (ii) the alleged offence caused harm or a threat of harm in this State and the harm, or the threat, is sufficiently serious to justify the imposition of a criminal penalty under the law of this State; or
 - (iii) the relevant acts that gave rise to the alleged offence also gave rise to an offence against the law of a jurisdiction in which the relevant acts, or at least one of them, occurred and the alleged offender was in this State when the relevant acts, or at least one of them, occurred; or
- (d) the alleged offence is a conspiracy to commit, an attempt to commit, or in some other way preparatory to the commission of another offence for which the necessary territorial nexus would exist under one or more of the above paragraphs if it (the other offence) were committed as contemplated.

5H—Procedural provisions

- (1) In proceedings for an offence against a law of the State, the existence of the necessary territorial nexus will be presumed and the presumption is conclusive unless rebutted under subsection (2).
- (2) If a person charged with an offence disputes the existence of the necessary territorial nexus, the court will proceed with the trial of the offence in the usual way and if at the conclusion of the trial, the court is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the necessary territorial nexus does not exist, it must, subject to subsection (3), make a finding to that effect and the charge will be dismissed.
- (3) If the court would, disregarding territorial considerations, find the person not guilty of the offence, the court must—
 - (a) if the finding is based on the defendant's mental impairment—record a finding of not guilty on the ground of mental impairment; and
 - (b) in any other case—record a finding of not guilty.
- (4) The issue of whether the necessary territorial nexus exists must, if raised before the trial, be reserved for consideration at the trial.
- (5) A power or authority exercisable on reasonable suspicion that an offence has been committed may be exercised in the State if the person in whom the power or authority is vested suspects on reasonable grounds that the elements necessary to constitute the offence exist (whether or not that person suspects or has any ground to suspect that the necessary territorial nexus exists).

5I—Double criminality

- (1) If—
 - (a) an offence against the law of another State (the external offence) is committed wholly or partly in this State; and
 - (b) a corresponding offence (the local offence) exists under the law of this State, an offence (an auxiliary offence) arises under the law of this State.
- (2) The maximum penalty for an auxiliary offence is the maximum penalty for the external offence or the maximum penalty for the local offence (whichever is the lesser).
- (3) If a person is charged with an offence (but not specifically an auxiliary offence) and the court finds that the defendant has not committed the offence as charged but has committed the relevant auxiliary offence, the court may make or return a finding that the defendant is guilty of the auxiliary offence.

Part 2—Treason

6—Repeal

The Acts 36 George III C. 7 and 57 George III C. 6 of the Imperial Parliament, except those provisions which relate to the compassing, imagining, inventing, devising or intending of the death or destruction, or any bodily harm tending to the death or destruction, maiming or wounding, imprisonment or restraint, of the person of Her Majesty, and the expressing, uttering or declaring of such compassings, imaginations, inventions, devices or intentions, are repealed.

 - (i) by force or constraint, to compel Her to change Her measures or counsels; or
 - (ii) to put any force or constraint on, or to intimidate or overawe, both Houses or either House of the Parliament of the United Kingdom or the Parliament of this State; or

8—Time within which prosecution shall be commenced and warrant issued

- (1) No person shall be prosecuted under section 7 in respect of any compassings, imaginations, inventions, devices or intentions which are expressed, uttered or declared by open and advised speaking only, unless—
 - (a) information of the compassings, imaginations, inventions, devices or intentions and of the words by which they were expressed, uttered or declared is given on oath to a justice within six days after the words were spoken; and
 - (b) a warrant for the apprehension of the person by whom the words were spoken is issued within ten days after that information was given.
- (2) No person shall be convicted of any such compassings, imaginations, inventions, devices or intentions which are expressed, uttered or declared by open or advised speaking except on his own confession in open court or unless the words so spoken are proved by two credible witnesses.

9—In informations more than one overt act may be charged

- (1) It shall be lawful in any information under section 7 to charge against the offender any number of the matters, acts or deeds by which the compassings, imaginations, inventions, devices or intentions were expressed, uttered or declared.
- (2) If the facts or matters alleged in an information under section 7 amount in law to treason, the information shall not for that reason be deemed void, erroneous or defective and, if the facts or matters proved on the trial of any person so informed against amount in law to treason, the accused person shall not for that reason be entitled to be acquitted of the offence charged, but no person tried for that offence shall be afterwards prosecuted for treason on the same facts.

10—Nothing herein to affect 25 Edward III Stat. 5, c. 2

The provisions of this Part shall not lessen the force of, or in any manner affect, anything enacted by the Statute passed in the twenty-fifth year of King Edward the Third: "A Declaration which Offences shall be adjudged Treason".

10A—Penalty for treason

Any person who is convicted of treason shall be imprisoned for life.

12A—Causing death by an intentional act of violence

A person who commits an intentional act of violence while acting in the course or furtherance of a major indictable offence punishable by imprisonment for ten years or more (other than abortion¹), and thus causes the death of another, is guilty of murder.

Note—

- 1 ie an offence against section 81(2).

13—Manslaughter

- (1) Any person who is convicted of manslaughter shall be liable to be imprisoned for life or to pay such fine as the court awards or to both such imprisonment and fine.
- (2) If a court convicting a person of manslaughter is satisfied that the victim's death was caused by the convicted person's use of a motor vehicle, the court must order that the person be disqualified from holding or obtaining a driver's licence for 10 years or such longer period as the court orders.
- (3) Where a convicted person is disqualified from holding or obtaining a driver's licence—
 - (a) the disqualification operates to cancel any driver's licence held by the convicted person as at the commencement of the period of disqualification; and
 - (b) the disqualification may not be reduced or mitigated in any way or be substituted by any other penalty or sentence.

13A—Criminal liability in relation to suicide

- (1) It is not an offence to commit or attempt to commit suicide.

- (2) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1), a person who finds another committing or about to commit an act which he believes on reasonable grounds would, if committed or completed, result in suicide is justified in using reasonable force to prevent the commission or completion of the act.
- (3) If on the trial of a person for the murder of another the jury is satisfied that the accused killed the other, or was a party to the other being killed by a third person, but is further satisfied that the acts or omissions alleged against the accused were done or made in pursuance of a suicide pact with the person killed, then, subject to subsection (11), the jury shall not find the accused guilty of murder but may bring in a verdict of manslaughter.
- (4) The killing of another or an attempt to kill another in pursuance of a suicide pact shall, for the purposes of determining the criminal liability of a person who was a party to the killing or attempt but not a party to the suicide pact, be regarded as murder or attempted murder, as the case may require.
- (5) A person who aids, abets or counsels the suicide of another, or an attempt by another to commit suicide, shall be guilty of an indictable offence.
- (6) The penalty for an offence against subsection (5) shall be—

- (7) A person who, by fraud, duress or undue influence, procures the suicide of another or an attempt by another to commit suicide shall (whether or not he was a party to a suicide pact with the other person) be guilty of murder or attempted murder, as the case may require.
- (8) If on the trial of a person for murder or attempted murder the jury is not satisfied that the accused is guilty of the offence charged but is satisfied that he is guilty of an offence against subsection (5), the jury may bring in a verdict that he is guilty of an offence against that subsection.
- (9) In any criminal proceedings in which it is material to establish the existence of a suicide pact and whether an act was done, or an omission made, in pursuance of the pact, the onus of proving the existence of the pact and that the act was done, or the omission made, in pursuance of the pact shall lie on the accused.
- (10) For the purposes of this section—

 - (b) the defendant had, at the time of the act, a duty of care to the victim; and

- (c) the defendant was, or ought to have been, aware that there was an appreciable risk that harm would be caused to the victim by the act; and
- (d) the defendant failed to take steps that he or she could reasonably be expected to have taken in the circumstances to protect the victim from harm and the defendant's failure to do so was, in the circumstances, so serious that a criminal penalty is warranted.

Maximum penalty:

- (a) where the victim dies—imprisonment for life; or
 - (b) in any other case—imprisonment for 15 years.
- (2) If a jury considering a charge of criminal neglect against a defendant finds that—
- (a) there is reasonable doubt as to the identity of the person who committed the act that caused the victim's death or harm; but
 - (b) the act can only have been the act of the defendant or some other person who, on the evidence, may have committed the act, the jury may find the defendant guilty of the charge of criminal neglect even though of the opinion that the act may have been the act of the defendant.

- (3) If a defendant is charged with an offence against this section in respect of a course of conduct—
- (a) it is not necessary to prove that the defendant was, or ought to have been, aware that there was an appreciable risk that harm would be caused to the victim by each act making up the course of conduct; and
 - (b) the information need not—
 - (i) allege particulars of each act with the degree of particularity that would be required if the act were charged as an offence under a different section of this or any other Act; or
 - (ii) identify particular acts or the occasions on which, places at which or order in which acts occurred; or
 - (iii) identify particular acts as causing, wholly or partly, particular harm to the victim.

- (2) To avoid doubt, the common law defences abolished by subsection (1) remain available in respect of offences allegedly committed before the commencement of that subsection.

15—Self defence

- (1) It is a defence to a charge of an offence if—
 - (a) the defendant genuinely believed the conduct to which the charge relates to be necessary and reasonable for a defensive purpose; and
 - (b) the conduct was, in the circumstances as the defendant genuinely believed them to be, reasonably proportionate to the threat that the defendant genuinely believed to exist¹.
- (2) It is a partial defence to a charge of murder (reducing the offence to manslaughter) if—
 - (a) the defendant genuinely believed the conduct to which the charge relates to be necessary and reasonable for a defensive purpose; but
 - (b) the conduct was not, in the circumstances as the defendant genuinely believed them to be, reasonably proportionate to the threat that the defendant genuinely believed to exist.²
- (3) For the purposes of this section, a person acts for a defensive purpose if the person acts—
 - (a) in self defence or in defence of another; or
 - (b) to prevent or terminate the unlawful imprisonment of himself, herself or another.
- (4) However, if a person—
 - (a) resists another who is purporting to exercise a power of arrest or some other power of law enforcement; or
 - (b) resists another who is acting in response to an unlawful act against person or property committed by the person or to which the person is a party,the person will not be taken to be acting for a defensive purpose unless the person genuinely believes, on reasonable grounds, that the other person is acting unlawfully.
- (5) If a defendant raises a defence under this section, the defence is taken to have been established unless the prosecution disproves the defence beyond reasonable doubt.

Notes—

- 1 See, however, section 15C. If the defendant establishes that he or she is entitled to the benefit of that section, this paragraph will be inapplicable.
- 2 See, however, section 15C. If the defendant establishes that he or she is entitled to the benefit of that section, the defendant will be entitled to a complete defence.

15A—Defence of property etc

- (1) It is a defence to a charge of an offence if—
 - (a) the defendant genuinely believed the conduct to which the charge relates to be necessary and reasonable—
 - (i) to protect property from unlawful appropriation, destruction, damage or interference; or
 - (ii) to prevent criminal trespass to land or premises, or to remove from land or premises a person who is committing a criminal trespass; or
 - (iii) to make or assist in the lawful arrest of an offender or alleged offender or a person who is unlawfully at large; and
 - (b) if the conduct resulted in death—the defendant did not intend to cause death nor did the defendant act recklessly realising that the conduct could result in death; and
 - (c) the conduct was, in the circumstances as the defendant genuinely believed them to be, reasonably proportionate to the threat that the defendant genuinely believed to exist¹.
- (2) It is a partial defence to a charge of murder (reducing the offence to manslaughter) if—
 - (a) the defendant genuinely believed the conduct to which the charge relates to be necessary and reasonable—
 - (i) to protect property from unlawful appropriation, destruction, damage or interference; or
 - (ii) to prevent criminal trespass to land or premises, or to remove from land or premises a person who is committing a criminal trespass; or
 - (iii) to make or assist in the lawful arrest of an offender or alleged offender or a person who is unlawfully at large; and
 - (b) the defendant did not intend to cause death; but
 - (c) the conduct was not, in the circumstances as the defendant genuinely believed them to be, reasonably proportionate to the threat that the defendant genuinely believed to exist.²
- (3) For the purposes of this section, a person commits a criminal trespass if the person trespasses on land or premises—
 - (a) with the intention of committing an offence against a person or property (or both); or
 - (b) in circumstances where the trespass itself constitutes an offence or is an element of the offence.

- (4) If a defendant raises a defence under this section, the defence is taken to have been established unless the prosecution disproves the defence beyond reasonable doubt.

Notes—

- 1 See, however, section 15C. If the defendant establishes that he or she is entitled to the benefit of that section, this paragraph will be inapplicable.
- 2 See, however, section 15C. If the defendant establishes that he or she is entitled to the benefit of that section, the defendant will be entitled to a complete defence.

15B—Reasonableness etc where offence committed in circumstances of family violence

- (1) A requirement under this Division that the defendant's conduct be (objectively) reasonably proportionate to the threat that the defendant genuinely believed to exist does not imply that the force used by the defendant cannot exceed the force used against him or her.
- (2) In a trial for an offence in which the defendant raises a defence under this Division, the question of whether—
 - (a) the defendant genuinely believed that particular conduct was necessary and reasonable (either for a defensive purpose or for the purposes referred to in section 15A(1)(a)); or
 - (b) particular conduct was reasonably proportionate to a particular threat; or
 - (c) the defendant reasonably believed that a particular threat would be carried out; or
 - (d) the defendant reasonably believed that particular conduct was the only reasonable way a particular threat could be avoided; or
 - (e) particular conduct was a reasonable response to a particular threat, is, if the defendant asserts that the offence occurred in circumstances of family violence, to be determined having regard to any evidence of family violence admitted in the course of the trial.

- (3) In this section—

circumstances of family violence has the same meaning as in section 34V of the Evidence Act 1929; evidence of family violence has the same meaning as in section 34W of the Evidence Act 1929.

15C—Requirement of reasonable proportionality not to apply in case of an innocent defence against home invasion

- (1) This section applies where—
 - (a) a relevant defence would have been available to the defendant if the defendant's conduct had been (objectively) reasonably proportionate to the threat that the defendant genuinely believed to exist (the perceived threat); and
 - (b) the victim was not a police officer acting in the course of his or her duties.

- (2) In a case to which this section applies, the defendant is entitled to the benefit of the relevant defence even though the defendant's conduct was not (objectively) reasonably proportionate to the perceived threat if the defendant establishes, on the balance of probabilities, that—
- (a) the defendant genuinely believed the victim to be committing, or to have just committed, home invasion; and
 - (b) the defendant was not (at or before the time of the alleged offence) engaged in any criminal misconduct that might have given rise to the threat or perceived threat; and
 - (c) the defendant's mental faculties were not, at the time of the alleged offence, substantially affected by the voluntary and non-therapeutic consumption of a drug.

- (3) In this section—

relevant defence means a defence under section 15(1) or section 15A(1).

15D—Duress

- (1) It is a defence to a charge of an offence (other than a prescribed offence) if—
- (a) at the time of carrying out the conduct constituting the offence, the defendant reasonably believed that—
 - (i) a threat had been made that would be carried out unless the person engaged in the conduct; and
 - (ii) carrying out the conduct was the only reasonable way that the threat could be avoided; and
 - (b) the conduct was a reasonable response to the threat.
- (2) However, this section does not apply if the threat referred to in subsection (1)(a) was made by or on behalf of a person with whom the defendant was voluntarily associating for the purpose of carrying out conduct of the kind actually carried out.
- (3) If a defendant raises a defence under this section, the defence is taken to have been established unless the prosecution disproves the defence beyond reasonable doubt.

- (4) In this section—

prescribed offence means—

- (a) murder; or
- (b) attempted murder; or
- (c) conspiring or soliciting to commit murder; or
- (d) aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of murder; or

- (a) the defendant carried out the conduct constituting the offence in response to circumstances of sudden or extraordinary emergency; and
 - (b) at the time of carrying out the conduct, the defendant reasonably believed that—
 - (i) circumstances of sudden or extraordinary emergency existed; and
 - (ii) carrying out the conduct constituting the offence charged was the only reasonable way to deal with the emergency; and
 - (c) the conduct was a reasonable response to the emergency.
- (2) To avoid doubt, an emergency need not involve a risk of death or serious harm.
- (3) If a defendant raises a defence under this section, the defence is taken to have been established unless the prosecution disproves the defence beyond reasonable doubt.
- (4) In this section—

prescribed offence means—

- (a) murder; or
- (b) attempted murder; or
- (c) conspiring or soliciting to commit murder; or
- (d) aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of murder; or

Division 7A—Causing physical or mental harm

21—Interpretation

In this Division—

cause—a person causes harm if the person's conduct is the sole cause of the harm or substantially contributes to the harm;

If a victim suffers serious harm as a result of multiple acts of harm and those acts occur in the course of the same incident, or together constitute a single course of conduct, a person who commits any of the acts causing harm is taken to cause serious harm even though the harm caused by the act might not, if considered in isolation, amount to serious harm.

harm means physical or mental harm (whether temporary or permanent);

lesser offence, in relation to an offence against this Division, means—

- (a) in relation to an aggravated offence—the basic offence or another offence against this Division, Division 7AB or section 32A, for which a lesser maximum penalty is prescribed;
- (b) in any other case—another offence against this Division, Division 7AB or section 32A for which a lesser maximum penalty is prescribed;

mental harm means psychological harm and does not include emotional reactions such as distress, grief, fear or anger unless they result in psychological harm;

physical harm includes—

- (a) unconsciousness;
- (b) pain;
- (c) disfigurement;
- (d) infection with a disease;

recklessly—a person is reckless in causing harm or serious harm to another if the person—

- (a) is aware of a substantial risk that his or her conduct could result in harm or serious harm (as the case requires); and
- (b) engages in the conduct despite the risk and without adequate justification;

serious harm means—

- (a) harm that endangers a person's life; or
- (b) harm that consists of, or results in, serious and protracted impairment of a physical or mental function; or
- (c) harm that consists of, or results in, serious disfigurement.

22—Conduct falling outside the ambit of this Division

- (1) This Division does not apply to the conduct of a person who causes harm to another if the victim lawfully consented to the act causing the harm.
- (2) A lawful consent given on behalf of a person who is not of full age and capacity by a parent or guardian will be taken to be the consent of the person for whom the consent was given.
- (3) A person may consent to harm (including serious harm) if the nature of the harm and the purpose for which it is inflicted fall within limits that are generally accepted in the community.

Examples—

- 1 A person may (within the limits referred to above) consent to harm that has a religious purpose (eg male circumcision but not female genital mutilation).
- 2 A person may (within the limits referred to above) consent to harm that has a genuine therapeutic purpose (eg a person with 2 healthy kidneys may consent to donate 1 for the purpose of transplantation to someone with kidney disease).
- 3 A person may (within the limits referred to above) consent to harm for the purpose of controlling fertility (eg a vasectomy or tubal ligation).

- 4 A participant in a sporting or recreational activity may (within the limits referred to above) consent to harm arising from a risk inherent in the nature of the activity (eg a boxer may accept the risk of being knocked unconscious in the course of a boxing match and, hence, consent to that harm if it in fact ensues).
- (4) If a defendant's conduct lies within the limits of what would be generally accepted in the community as normal incidents of social interaction or community life, this Division does not apply to the conduct unless it is established that the defendant intended to cause harm.
- (5) If the defendant's conduct caused only mental harm, this Division does not apply to the defendant's conduct unless—
- (a) the defendant's conduct gave rise to a situation in which the victim's life or physical safety was endangered and the mental harm arose out of that situation; or
 - (b) the defendant's primary purpose was to cause such harm.

Examples—

- 1 An examiner fails a student in an examination knowing that the student has been diagnosed with schizophrenia and that failure to pass is likely to precipitate a schizophrenic episode. The student in fact suffers such an episode.
- 2 An employer legally terminates an employee's employment knowing that the employee suffers from a mental illness and that the termination is likely to exacerbate the mental illness. The employee in fact suffers an exacerbation of the mental illness.

In both the above examples, it is not sufficient for the prosecution to prove that the defendant acted intentionally knowing that harm would inevitably, probably or possibly result from his or her act. It would be necessary for the prosecution to establish that the defendant wanted to cause harm and that desire was the sole or a significant motivation for the defendant's conduct.

 - (a) after the receipt of a report of the Committee in relation to the entity under section 83GB (and, in such a case, the recommendation must include a statement as to the opinion of the Committee on whether or not the entity should be declared a criminal organisation for the purposes of this Division); or

- (8) A change in the name or membership of a criminal organisation does not affect its status as a criminal organisation.
- (9) If the members of a criminal organisation (the original organisation) substantially re-form themselves into another organisation, that organisation is taken to form a part of the original organisation (whether or not the original organisation is dissolved).

- (5) A requirement under subsection (4)(b) for a court to make a record of reasons for fixing a non-parole period that is longer or shorter than a standard non-parole period does not require the court to identify the extent to which the seriousness of the offence for which the non-parole period is set differs from that of an offence to which the standard non-parole period is referable.
- (6) A failure of a court to comply with subsection (4) does not invalidate a sentence.

- (a) a person who has a proprietary interest in the property other than an equitable interest arising under—
 - (i) an agreement to transfer or grant an interest in the property; or

- (b) in relation to property subject to a trust (other than a trust arising from an agreement to transfer or grant an interest in the property or a constructive trust)—a person who has a right to enforce the trust; or
- (c) in relation to property received from or on account of another by a person who is under an obligation to deal with the property or its proceeds in a particular way—the person from whom, or on whose account, the property was received; or

131—Dishonesty

- (1) A person's conduct is dishonest if the person acts dishonestly according to the standards of ordinary people and knows that he or she is so acting.
- (2) The question whether a defendant's conduct was dishonest according to the standards of ordinary people is a question of fact to be decided according to the jury's own knowledge and experience and not on the basis of evidence of those standards.
- (3) A defendant's willingness to pay for property involved in an alleged offence of dishonesty does not necessarily preclude a finding of dishonesty.
- (4) A person does not act dishonestly if the person—
 - (a) finds property; and
 - (b) keeps or otherwise deals with it in the belief that the identity or whereabouts of the owner cannot be discovered by taking reasonable steps; and
 - (c) is not under a legal or equitable obligation with which the retention of the property is inconsistent.
- (5) The conduct of a person who acts in a particular way is not dishonest if the person honestly but mistakenly believes that he or she has a legal or equitable right to act in that way.

Example—

A takes an umbrella violently from B honestly but mistakenly believing that B has stolen A's umbrella and that A is entitled to use force to get it back. In fact, it belongs to B. A is charged with robbery. A cannot be properly convicted on this charge because of his honest but mistaken belief (however unreasonable). However, he may still be guilty of an assault.

- (6) A person who asserts a legal or equitable right to property that he or she honestly believes to exist does not, by so doing, deal dishonestly with the property.

Example—

A takes an umbrella violently from B honestly believing that the umbrella belongs to A and that A is entitled to possession of the umbrella (but knowing that she is not entitled to use force to get it back). The assertion of that possessory right (whether or not correctly founded in law) is not dishonest (and therefore cannot amount to theft) although the means used to get the umbrella back may well amount to some other offence.

132—Consent of owner

- (1) A reference to the consent of the owner of property extends to—
 - (a) the implied consent of the owner (or owners); or
 - (b) the actual or implied consent of a person who has actual or implied authority to consent on behalf of the owner (or owners).
- (2) A person is taken to have the implied consent of another if the person honestly believes, from the words or conduct of the other, that he or she has the other's consent.
- (3) However, a person who knows that another's consent was obtained by dishonest deception is taken to act without consent.

133—Operation of this Part

- (1) This Part operates to the exclusion of offences of dishonesty that exist at common law or under laws of the Imperial Parliament.
- (2) However, the common law offence of conspiracy to defraud continues as part of the criminal law of the State.

Division 2—Theft

134—Theft (and receiving)

- (1) A person is guilty of theft if the person deals with property—
 - (a) dishonestly; and
 - (b) without the owner's consent; and
 - (c) intending—
 - (i) to deprive the owner permanently of the property; or
 - (ii) to make a serious encroachment on the owner's proprietary rights.

Maximum penalty:

- (a) for a basic offence—imprisonment for 10 years;
 - (b) for an aggravated offence—imprisonment for 15 years.
- (2) A person intends to make a serious encroachment on an owner's proprietary rights if the person intends—
 - (a) to treat the property as his or her own to dispose of regardless of the owner's rights; or
 - (b) to deal with the property in a way that creates a substantial risk (of which the person is aware)—
 - (i) that the owner will not get it back; or
 - (ii) that, when the owner gets it back, its value will be substantially impaired.
- (3) It is possible to commit theft as follows:
 - (a) a person may commit theft of property that has come lawfully into his or her possession;

- (b) a person may commit theft of property by the misuse of powers that are vested in the person as agent or trustee or in some other capacity that allows the person to deal with the property.

Example—

Suppose that land is vested in a trustee in a fiduciary capacity. She is empowered under the instrument of trust to mortgage the land for the purposes of the trust. The trustee dishonestly mortgages the land as security for a personal liability that is unrelated to the trust. In this case, the trustee commits theft of the interest created by the mortgage.

- (4) If a person honestly believes that he or she has acquired a good title to property, but it later appears that the title is defective because of a defect in the title of the transferor or for some other reason, the later retention of the property, or any later dealing with the property, by the person cannot amount to theft.
- (5) Theft committed by receiving stolen property from another amounts to the offence of receiving but may be described either as theft or receiving in an instrument of charge and is, in any event, punishable as a species of theft.
- (6) If a person is charged with receiving, the court may, if satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of theft but not that the theft was committed by receiving stolen property from another, find the defendant guilty of theft.

135—Special provision with regard to land and fixtures

- (1) A trespass to land, or other physical interference with land, cannot amount to theft of the land (even if it results in acquisition of the land by adverse possession).
- (2) A thing attached to land, or forming part of land, can be stolen by severing it from the land.

136—General deficiency

- (1) A person may be charged with, and convicted of, theft by reference to a general deficiency in money or other property.
- (2) In such a case, it is not necessary to establish any particular act or acts of theft.

137—Robbery

- (1) A person who commits theft is guilty of robbery if—
- (a) the person—
- (i) uses force, or threatens to use force, against another in order to commit the theft; or
- (ii) uses force, or threatens to use force, against another in order to escape from the scene of the offence; and
- (b) the force is used, or the threat is made, at the time of, or immediately before or after, the theft.

Maximum penalty:

- (a) for a basic offence—imprisonment for 15 years;
- (b) for an aggravated offence—imprisonment for life.

- (3) If 2 or more persons jointly commit robbery in company, each is guilty of aggravated robbery.

Example—

Suppose that A and B plan to steal from a service station. A assaults the attendant while B takes money from the till. In this case, each is guilty of robbery on the principle enunciated by the High Court in McAuliffe v R ((1995) 183 CLR 108). Robbery committed in these circumstances is to be treated as aggravated robbery. In other words, the principle that, where robbery is committed jointly, each participant in the offence is guilty of aggravated robbery applies irrespective of whether all elements of robbery can be established against a particular person.

Division 4—Money laundering and dealing in instruments of crime

138—Money laundering

268—Mental element of offence to be presumed in certain cases

- (1) If the objective elements of an alleged offence are established against a defendant but the defendant's consciousness was (or may have been) impaired by intoxication to the point of criminal irresponsibility at the time of the alleged offence, the defendant is nevertheless to be convicted of the offence if it is established that the defendant—
- (a) formed an intention to commit the offence before becoming intoxicated; and
 - (b) consumed intoxicants in order to strengthen his or her resolve to commit the offence.
- (2) If the objective elements of an alleged offence are established against a defendant but the defendant's consciousness was (or may have been) impaired by self-induced intoxication to the point of criminal irresponsibility at the time of the alleged offence, the defendant is nevertheless to be convicted of the offence if the defendant would, if his or her conduct had been voluntary and intended, have been guilty of the offence.

the defendant may be convicted of manslaughter and liable to imprisonment for life.

(5) If—

- (a) the objective elements of an alleged offence are established against a defendant but the defendant's consciousness was (or may have been) impaired by self-induced intoxication to the point of criminal irresponsibility at the time of the alleged offence; and
- (b) the defendant's conduct resulted in serious harm (but not death); and
- (c) the defendant is not liable to be convicted of the offence under subsection (1) or (2); and
- (d) the defendant's conduct, if judged by the standard appropriate to a reasonable and sober person in the defendant's position, falls so short of that standard that it amounts to criminal negligence, the defendant may be convicted of causing serious harm by criminal negligence.

Maximum penalty: Imprisonment for 4 years.

- (6) A defendant's consciousness is taken to have been impaired to the point of criminal irresponsibility at the time of the alleged offence if it is impaired to the extent necessary at common law for an acquittal by reason only of the defendant's intoxication.

269—Question of intoxication must be specifically raised

- (1) On the trial of a defendant who was (or may have been) intoxicated at the time of the alleged offence, the question whether the defendant's consciousness was, or may have been, impaired by intoxication to the point of criminal irresponsibility—
 - (a) is not to be put to the jury by the judge, the prosecutor or the defendant; and
 - (b) if raised by the jury itself, is to be withdrawn from the jury's consideration, unless the defendant or the prosecutor specifically asks the judge to address the jury on that question.
- (2) A defendant's consciousness is taken to have been impaired to the point of criminal irresponsibility at the time of an alleged offence if, because of impairment of consciousness, a subjective element of the alleged offence cannot be established against the defendant.

objective element of an offence means an element of an offence that is not a subjective element; prescribed authority means—

- (a) the person for the time being performing the duties, or holding or acting in the position, of the Clinical Director, Forensic Mental Health Service South Australia; or
- (b) if no such position exists—the person declared by the regulations to be the prescribed authority for the purposes of this Part;

psychiatrist means a person registered under the Health Practitioner Regulation National Law as a specialist in psychiatry; recreational use of a drug—consumption of a drug is to be regarded as recreational use of the drug unless—

- (a) the drug is administered against the will, or without the knowledge, of the person who consumes it; or
- (b) the consumption occurs accidentally; or
- (c) the person who consumes the drug does so under duress, or as a result of fraud or reasonable mistake; or
- (d) the consumption is therapeutic;

self-induced—see subsections (2a) and (2b);

subjective element of an offence means voluntariness, intention, knowledge or some other mental state that is an element of the offence;

supervision order—see section 269O;

therapeutic—the consumption of a drug is to be regarded as therapeutic if—

- (a) the drug is prescribed by, and consumed in accordance with the directions of, a medical practitioner; or
- (b) the drug—
 - (i) is a drug of a kind available, without prescription, from registered pharmacists; and
 - (ii) is consumed for a purpose recommended by the manufacturer and in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions;

training centre means a training centre established for the detention of youths; victim, in relation to an offence or conduct that would, but for the perpetrator's mental impairment, have constituted an offence, means a person who suffered significant mental or physical injury as a direct consequence of the offence or the conduct;

youth has the same meaning as in the Young Offenders Act 1993.

(2) For the purposes of this Part—

- (a) the question whether a person was mentally competent to commit an offence is a question of fact;
- (b) the question whether a person is mentally unfit to stand trial on a charge of an offence is a question of fact.

- (2a) Intoxication resulting from the recreational use of a drug is to be regarded as self-induced.
- (2b) If a person becomes intoxicated as a result of the combined effect of the therapeutic consumption of a drug and the recreational use of the same or another drug, the intoxication is to be regarded as self-induced even though in part attributable to therapeutic consumption.
- (3) In applying a provision of this Part to a youth who is being or has been dealt with as a youth (and not as an adult)—
 - (a) a reference to custody in a prison is to be read as detention in a training centre; and
 - (b) a reference to the Parole Board is to be read as a reference to the Training Centre Review Board.

Note—

- 1 A condition that results from the reaction of a healthy mind to extraordinary external stimuli is not a mental illness, although such a condition may be evidence of mental illness if it involves some abnormality and is prone to recur (see R v Falconer (1990) 171 CLR 30).

269B—Distribution of judicial functions between judge and jury

- (1) An investigation under this Part by the Supreme Court or the District Court into—
 - (a) a defendant's mental competence to commit an offence or a defendant's mental fitness to stand trial; or
 - (b) whether elements of the offence have been established, is to be conducted before a jury unless the defendant has elected to have the matter dealt with by a judge sitting alone.
- (2) The same jury may deal with issues arising under this Part about a defendant's mental competence to commit an offence, or fitness to stand trial, and the issues on which the defendant is to be tried, unless the trial judge thinks there are special reasons to have separate juries.
- (3) Any other powers or functions conferred on a court by this Part are to be exercised by the court constituted of a judge sitting alone.
- (4) The defendant's right to elect to have an investigation under this Part conducted by a judge sitting alone is not subject to any statutory qualification.¹

Note—

- 1 The intention is to ensure that the right to elect for trial by judge alone is unfettered by the statutory qualifications on that right imposed by the Juries Act 1927 (thus preserving the principle enunciated in R v T [1999] SASC 429 on this point).

269BA—Charges on which alternative verdicts are possible

- (1) A person charged with an offence is taken, for the purposes of this Part, to be charged in the alternative with any lesser offence for which a conviction is possible on that charge.

- (2) It follows that a trial of a charge on which an alternative verdict for a lesser offence is possible is taken to be a trial of a charge of each of the offences for which a conviction is possible.

Division 2—Mental competence to commit offences

269C—Mental competence

- (1) A person is mentally incompetent to commit an offence if, at the time of the conduct alleged to give rise to the offence, the person is suffering from a mental impairment and, in consequence of the mental impairment—
- (a) does not know the nature and quality of the conduct; or
 - (b) does not know that the conduct is wrong; that is, the person could not reason about whether the conduct, as perceived by reasonable people, is wrong; or

Note—

Paragraph (b) adopts the test as stated and excludes from consideration whether the defendant could reason with a moderate degree of sense and composure as set out in R v Porter (1936) 55 CLR 182.

- (c) is totally unable to control the conduct.
- (2) If, on an investigation under this Division, a person is found to be mentally incompetent to commit an offence and the trial judge is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the mental impairment at the time of the conduct alleged to give rise to the offence was substantially caused by self-induced intoxication (whether the intoxication occurred at the time of the relevant conduct or at any other time before the relevant conduct), the person may not be dealt with under this Part but may (if appropriate) be dealt with under Part 8.
- (3) However, despite the fact that the judge is satisfied that the person's mental impairment at the time of the conduct alleged to give rise to the offence was substantially caused by self-induced intoxication, the judge may nevertheless make an order that the person be dealt with under this Part after taking into account—
- (a) the time and circumstances of when and how the intoxication caused the mental impairment; and
 - (b) the interests of justice; and
 - (c) whether the making of such an order would affect public confidence in the administration of justice.

269D—Presumption of mental competence

A person's mental competence to commit an offence is to be presumed unless the person is found, on an investigation under this Division, to have been mentally incompetent to commit the offence.

269E—Reservation of question of mental competence

- (1) If, on the trial of a person for an offence—
- (a) the defendant raises a defence of mental incompetence; or

- (b) the court decides, on application by the prosecution or on its own initiative, that the defendant's mental competence to commit the offence should be investigated in the interests of the proper administration of justice, the question of the defendant's mental competence to commit the offence must be separated from the remainder of the trial.
- (2) The trial judge has a discretion to proceed first with the trial of the objective elements of the offence or with the trial of the mental competence of the defendant.
- (3) If, at committal proceedings for a charge of an indictable offence, the question of the defendant's mental competence to commit the offence arises, the question must be reserved for consideration by the court of trial.

269F—What happens if trial judge decides to proceed first with trial of defendant's mental competence to commit offence

If the trial judge decides that the defendant's mental competence to commit the offence is to be tried first, the court proceeds as follows.

A—Trial of defendant's mental competence

- (1) The court—
 - (a) must hear relevant evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence on the question of the defendant's mental competence to commit the offence; and
 - (b) may require the defendant to undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert and require the results of the examination to be reported to the court.
- (2) The power to require an examination and report under subsection (1)(b) may be exercised—
 - (a) on the application of the prosecution or the defence; or
 - (b) if the judge considers the examination and report necessary to prevent a possible miscarriage of justice—on the judge's own initiative.
- (3) At the conclusion of the trial of the defendant's mental competence, the court must decide whether it has been established, on the balance of probabilities, that the defendant was at the time of the alleged offence mentally incompetent to commit the offence and—
 - (a) if so—must record a finding to that effect;
 - (b) if not—must record a finding that the presumption of mental competence has not been displaced and proceed with the trial in the normal way.
- (5) The court may, if the prosecution and the defence agree—
 - (a) dispense with, or terminate, an investigation into a defendant's mental competence to commit an offence; and
 - (b) record a finding that the defendant was mentally incompetent to commit the offence.

B—Trial of objective elements of offence

- (1) If the court records a finding that the defendant was mentally incompetent to commit the offence, the court must hear evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence relevant to the question whether the court should find that the objective elements of the offence are established.
- (2) If the court is satisfied that the objective elements of the offence are established beyond reasonable doubt, the court must record a finding that the objective elements of the offence are established.
- (3) If the court finds that the objective elements of the offence are established, the court must find the defendant not guilty of the offence, and (subject to Division 3A) declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2; but otherwise the court must find the defendant not guilty of the offence and discharge the defendant.
- (4) On the trial of the objective elements of an offence, the court is to exclude from consideration any question of whether the defendant's conduct is defensible.

269G—What happens if trial judge decides to proceed first with trial of objective elements of offence

If the trial judge decides to proceed first with the trial of the objective elements of the offence, the court proceeds as follows.

A—Trial of objective elements of offence

- (1) The court must first hear evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence relevant to the question whether the court should find that the objective elements of the offence are established against the defendant.
- (2) If the court is satisfied that the objective elements of the offence are established beyond reasonable doubt, the court must record a finding that the objective elements of the offence are established; but otherwise the court must find the defendant not guilty of the offence and discharge the defendant.
- (3) On the trial of the objective elements of an offence, the court is to exclude from consideration any question of whether the defendant's conduct is defensible.

B—Trial of defendant's mental competence

- (1) If the court records a finding that the objective elements of the offence are established, the court—
 - (a) must hear relevant evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence on the question of the defendant's mental competence to commit the offence; and

- (b) may require the defendant to undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert and require the results of the examination to be reported to the court.
- (2) The power to require an examination and report under subsection (1)(b) may be exercised—
 - (a) on the application of the prosecution or the defence; or
 - (b) if the judge considers the examination and report necessary to prevent a possible miscarriage of justice—on the judge's own initiative.
- (3) At the conclusion of the trial of the defendant's mental competence, the court must decide whether it has been established, on the balance of probabilities, that the defendant was at the time of the alleged offence mentally incompetent to commit the offence and—
 - (a) if so—must declare that the defendant was mentally incompetent to commit the offence, find the defendant not guilty of the offence, and (subject to Division 3A) declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2;
 - (b) if not—must record a finding that the presumption of mental competence has not been displaced and proceed with the trial in the normal way.
- (4) If the trial is to proceed under subsection B(3)(b), the objective elements of the offence are to be accepted as established.
- (5) The court may, if the prosecution and the defence agree—
 - (a) dispense with, or terminate, an investigation into a defendant's mental competence to commit an offence; and
 - (b) declare that the defendant was mentally incompetent to commit the offence, find the defendant not guilty of the offence, and (subject to Division 3A) declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2.

Division 3—Mental unfitness to stand trial

269H—Mental unfitness to stand trial

A person is mentally unfit to stand trial on a charge of an offence if the person's mental processes are so disordered or impaired that the person is—

- (a) unable to understand, or to respond rationally to, the charge or the allegations on which the charge is based; or
- (b) unable to exercise (or to give rational instructions about the exercise of) procedural rights (such as, for example, the right to challenge jurors); or
- (c) unable to understand the nature of the proceedings, or to follow the evidence or the course of the proceedings.

269I—Presumption of mental fitness to stand trial

A person's mental fitness to stand trial is to be presumed unless it is established, on an investigation under this Division, that the person is mentally unfit to stand trial.

269J—Order for investigation of mental fitness to stand trial

- (1) If there are reasonable grounds to suppose that a person is mentally unfit to stand trial, the court before which the person is to be tried may order an investigation under this Division of the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial.
- (2) The court's power to order an investigation into the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial may be exercised—
 - (a) on the application of the prosecution or the defence; or
 - (b) if the judge considers the investigation necessary to prevent a possible miscarriage of justice—on the judge's own initiative.
- (3) If a court orders an investigation into the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial after the trial begins, the court may adjourn or discontinue the trial to allow for the investigation.
- (4) If a court before which committal proceedings for an indictable offence are conducted is of the opinion that the defendant may be mentally unfit to stand trial, the committal proceedings may continue, but the court must raise for consideration by the court of trial the question whether there should be an investigation under this Division of the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial.

269K—Preliminary prognosis of defendant's condition

- (1) Before formally embarking on an investigation under this Division of a defendant's mental fitness to stand trial, a court may require production of psychiatric or other expert reports that may exist on the defendant's mental condition and may, if it thinks fit, itself have a report prepared on the defendant's mental condition.
- (2) If it appears from a report that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial but there is a reasonable prospect that the defendant will regain the necessary mental capacity over the next 12 months, the court may adjourn the defendant's trial for not more than 12 months.
- (3) If after the adjournment the court is of the opinion that the grounds on which the investigation was thought to be necessary no longer exist, the court may revoke the order for the investigation and the trial will then proceed in the normal way.

269L—Trial judge's discretion about course of trial

If the court orders an investigation into a defendant's mental fitness to stand trial, the question of the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial may, at the discretion of the trial judge, be separately tried before any other issue that is to be tried or after a trial of the objective elements of the alleged offence.

269M—What happens if trial judge decides to proceed first with trial of defendant's mental fitness to stand trial

If the trial judge decides that the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial is to be tried first, the court proceeds as follows.

A—Trial of defendant's mental fitness to stand trial

- (1) The court—
 - (a) must hear relevant evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence on the question of the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial; and
 - (b) may require the defendant to undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert and require the results of the examination to be reported to the court.
- (2) The power to require an examination and report under subsection (1)(b) may be exercised—
 - (a) on the application of the prosecution or the defence; or
 - (b) if the judge considers the examination and report necessary to prevent a possible miscarriage of justice—on the judge's own initiative.
- (3) At the conclusion of the trial of the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial, the court must decide whether it has been established, on the balance of probabilities, that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial and—
 - (a) if so—must record a finding to that effect;
 - (b) if not—must proceed with the trial in the normal way.
- (5) The court may, if the prosecution and the defence agree—
 - (a) dispense with, or terminate, an investigation into a defendant's fitness to stand trial; and
 - (b) record a finding that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial.

B—Trial of objective elements of offence

- (1) If the court records a finding that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial, the court must hear evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence relevant to the question whether a finding should be recorded under this section that the objective elements of the offence are established.
- (2) If the court is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the objective elements of the offence are established, the court must record a finding to that effect, and (subject to Division 3A) declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2; but otherwise the court must find the defendant not guilty of the offence and discharge the defendant.
- (3) On the trial of the objective elements of an offence under this section, the court is to exclude from consideration any question of whether the defendant's conduct is defensible.

269N—What happens if trial judge decides to proceed first with trial of objective elements of offence

If the trial judge decides to proceed first with the trial of the objective elements of the offence, the court proceeds as follows.

A—Trial of objective elements of offence

- (1) The court must first hear evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence relevant to the question whether the court should find that the objective elements of the offence are established.
- (2) If the court is satisfied beyond reasonable doubt that the objective elements of the offence are established, the court must record a finding to that effect; but otherwise the court must find the defendant not guilty of the offence and discharge the defendant.
- (3) On the trial of the objective elements of an offence under this section, the court is to exclude from consideration any question of whether the defendant's conduct is defensible.

B—Trial of defendant's mental fitness to stand trial

- (1) If the court records a finding that the objective elements of the offence are established, the court—
 - (a) must hear relevant evidence and representations put to the court by the prosecution and the defence on the question of the defendant's mental fitness to stand trial; and
 - (b) may require the defendant to undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert and require the results of the examination to be reported to the court.
- (2) The power to require an examination and report under subsection (1)(b) may be exercised—
 - (a) on the application of the prosecution or the defence; or
 - (b) if the judge considers the examination and report necessary to prevent a possible miscarriage of justice—on the judge's own initiative.
- (3) If the court is satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial, the court must record a finding to that effect, and (subject to Division 3A) declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2.
- (4) If the court is not satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial, the court must proceed with the trial of the remaining issues (or may, at its discretion, re-start the trial).
- (5) The court may, if the prosecution and the defence agree—
 - (a) dispense with, or terminate, an investigation into a defendant's mental fitness to stand trial; and

- (b) declare that the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial, and declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under this Part.

Division 3A—Disposition of persons with mental impairment charged with summary and minor indictable offences

Subdivision 1—Principle on which court is to act

269NA—Principle on which court is to act

- (1) The paramount consideration of the court in determining whether to release a defendant under this Division, or the conditions of a licence, must be to protect the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).
- (2) The paramount consideration of the safety of the community outweighs the principle that restrictions on the defendant's freedom and personal autonomy should be kept to a minimum.

Subdivision 2—Making, variation and revocation of Division 3A orders

269NB—Division 3A orders

- (1) This section applies in respect of a defendant who has been charged with a summary offence or a minor indictable offence in relation to which the court has found—
 - (a) on an investigation under Division 2—that the objective elements of the offence are established but the defendant is not guilty of the offence because the defendant was mentally incompetent to commit the offence; or
 - (b) on an investigation under Division 3—that the objective elements of the offence are established but the defendant is mentally unfit to stand trial for the offence.
- (2) The court may—
 - (a) dismiss the charge and release the defendant unconditionally; or
 - (b) declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2; or
 - (c) make an order (a Division 3A order) releasing the defendant on licence for the period (which must not exceed 5 years) specified by the court in the licence; or
 - (d) adjourn the proceedings; or
 - (e) remand the defendant on bail; or
 - (f) make any other order that the court thinks fit.
- (3) If a Division 3A order is made releasing the defendant on licence, the licence is subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) the conditions imposed by subsection (4);
 - (b) any other condition decided by the court and specified in the licence.

- (4) Subject to this Act, every licence under subsection (2)(c) is subject to the following conditions:
- (a) a condition prohibiting the defendant from possessing a firearm or ammunition (both within the meaning of the Firearms Act 2015) or any part of a firearm;
 - (b) a condition requiring the defendant to submit to such tests (including testing without notice) for gunshot residue as may be reasonably required by a person or body specified by the court.
- (5) A court may only vary or revoke the conditions imposed by subsection (4) if the defendant satisfies the court, by evidence given on oath, that—
- (a) there are cogent reasons to do so; and
 - (b) the possession of a firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm by the defendant does not represent an undue risk to the safety of the public.
- (6) Without limiting the generality of subsection (3)(b), release on licence under a Division 3A order may, for example, be subject to—
- (a) a condition that the defendant reside at specified premises; or
 - (b) a condition that the defendant be under the care of a responsible person (who must be specified in the licence); or
 - (c) a condition that the defendant undergo assessment or treatment (or both) relating to the defendant's mental condition; or
 - (d) a condition that the defendant be monitored by use of an electronic device approved under section 4 of the Correctional Services Act 1982; or
 - (e) any other condition that the court thinks fit.
- (7) For the purpose of assisting a court to determine proceedings under this Division, the court may require the Crown to provide the court with a report setting out, so far as reasonably ascertainable, the views of—
- (a) the next of kin of the defendant; and
 - (b) the victim (if any) of the defendant's conduct.

269NC—Court may direct defendant to surrender firearm etc

- (1) The court by which a defendant is declared to be liable to a Division 3A order may, in relation to the condition imposed by section 269NB(4)(a), direct the defendant to immediately surrender at a police station specified by the court any firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm owned or possessed by the defendant.
- (2) No criminal liability attaches to a person to the extent that the person is complying with a direction under this section.
- (3) The Commissioner of Police must deal with any surrendered firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm in accordance with the scheme set out in the regulations.
- (4) No compensation is payable by the Crown or any other person in respect of the exercise of a function or power under this section.
- (5) The regulations may provide for the payment, recovery or waiver of fees in respect of this section.

269ND—Variation or revocation of condition of Division 3A order

At any time during the period that a defendant is subject to a Division 3A order, the court may, on the application of the Crown, the defendant, the Parole Board, the Public Advocate or another person with a proper interest in the matter (including a person who has been specified in the licence as a responsible person), vary or revoke the order and, if the order is revoked, make, in substitution for the order, any other order that the court might have made under this Division in the first instance.

269NDA—Revision of Division 3A orders

- (1) If a person who has been released on licence under this Division contravenes or is likely to contravene a condition of the licence, the court by which the Division 3A order was made may, on application by the Crown (which may be made, in a case of urgency, by telephone), review the order.
- (2) On an application for a review being made, the court may make an interim order in such terms as the court thinks appropriate in the circumstances, including an order that the person be detained in a specified place for a specified period pending the determination of the review.
- (3) After allowing the Crown and the person subject to the order a reasonable opportunity to be heard on the application for review, the court may do 1 or more of the following:
 - (a) confirm the present terms of the Division 3A order;
 - (b) amend the order by varying the conditions of the licence;
 - (c) revoke the order and declare the defendant to be liable to supervision under Division 4 Subdivision 2;
 - (d) make any further order or direction that may be appropriate in the circumstances.

Subdivision 3—Administrative detention for defendant released on licence under this Division269NE—Administrative detention for defendant released on licence under this Division

- (1) If a defendant who has been released on licence under a Division 3A order contravenes or is likely to contravene a condition of the licence, the prescribed authority may issue an order (an administrative detention order) that the defendant be detained in a specified place for a specified period (which must not exceed 14 days).
- (2) An administrative detention order must—
 - (a) be directed to the Commissioner of Police and police officers generally; and
 - (b) be in writing in the form approved by the Minister.
- (3) A person in respect of whom an administrative detention order has been issued who is taken into the care and control of a police officer under this Subdivision must be given a copy of the order as soon as practicable.

- (4) The progress and circumstances of a person detained under an administrative detention order must be reviewed as soon as reasonably practicable after the person is so detained—
 - (a) to determine whether an application should be made to the court for a review of the Division 3A order to which the person is subject; and
 - (b) for any other purpose as the prescribed authority thinks fit in the circumstances.
- (5) Despite subsection (1), a person who has been detained under an administrative detention order cannot be detained under another such order unless a period of at least 14 days has elapsed since the expiry of the previous administrative detention order.

269NF—Powers of police officers relating to persons in respect of whom an administrative detention order has been issued

- (1) This section applies to a person in respect of whom an administrative detention order has been issued under section 269NE.
- (2) A police officer may, subject to this section, exercise the following powers in relation to a person to whom this section applies:
 - (a) the police officer may take the person into the officer's care and control;
 - (b) the police officer may transport the person from place to place;
 - (c) the police officer may restrain the person and otherwise use force in relation to the person as reasonably required in the circumstances;
 - (d) the police officer may enter and remain in a place where the officer reasonably suspects the person may be found;
 - (e) the police officer may use reasonable force to break into a place when that is reasonably required in order to take the person into the officer's care and control;
 - (f) the police officer may search the person's clothing or possessions and take possession of anything in the person's possession that the person may use to cause harm to the person's self or others or property.
- (3) A police officer who takes the person into the officer's care and control must, as soon as practicable, transport the person, or arrange for the person to be transported by some other police officer, in accordance with the administrative detention order.
- (4) The powers conferred by this section continue to be exercisable as reasonably required for the purpose of enabling or facilitating the medical examination or treatment of the person.
- (5) A search of a person must be carried out expeditiously and in a manner that avoids, as far as reasonably practicable, causing the person any humiliation or offence.
- (6) Anything taken into the possession of a police officer under this section may be held for as long as is necessary for reasons of safety, but must otherwise be returned to the person from whom it was taken or dealt with according to law.

Subdivision 4—Custody, supervision and care269NG—Custody, supervision and care

- (1) If a defendant is committed to detention under this Division, the defendant is in the custody of the Minister and the Minister may give directions for the custody, supervision and care of the defendant the Minister considers appropriate.
- (2) The Minister may—
 - (a) place the defendant under the custody, supervision and care of another; and
 - (b) if there is no practicable alternative—direct that a defendant be kept in custody in a prison.
- (3) Supervisory responsibilities arising from conditions on which a person is released on licence are to be divided between the Parole Board and the Minister in the following way:
 - (a) the supervisory responsibilities are to be exercised by the Minister insofar as they relate to treating or monitoring the mental condition of the person; and
 - (b) the supervisory responsibilities are in all other respects to be exercised by the Parole Board.
- (4) The Minister or the Parole Board (as the case may be) may delegate a power or function under this section—
 - (a) to a person for the time being performing particular duties or holding or acting in a particular position; or
 - (b) to any other person or body that, in the delegator's opinion, is competent to perform or exercise the relevant functions or powers.
- (5) A delegation under subsection (4)—
 - (a) must be by instrument in writing; and
 - (b) may be absolute or conditional; and
 - (c) does not derogate from the ability of the delegator to act in any matter; and
 - (d) is revocable at will by the delegator.

Subdivision 5—Effect of supervening imprisonment on Division 3A order269NH—Effect of supervening imprisonment on Division 3A order

- (1) If a person who has been released on licence under this Division commits an offence while subject to the licence and is sentenced to imprisonment for the offence, the Division 3A order is suspended for the period the person is in prison serving the term of imprisonment.
- (2) In determining when the term of a Division 3A order comes to an end, the period of a suspension under subsection (1) is not to be taken into account.

Division 4—Disposition of persons declared to be liable to supervision under this Division

Subdivision 1—Principle on which court is to act

269NI—Principle on which court is to act

- (1) The paramount consideration of the court in determining whether to release a defendant under this Division, or the conditions of a licence, must be to protect the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).
- (2) The paramount consideration of the safety of the community outweighs the principle that restrictions on the defendant's freedom and personal autonomy should be kept to a minimum.

Subdivision 2—Making, variation and revocation of supervision orders

269O—Supervision orders

- (1) The court by which a defendant is declared to be liable to supervision under this Subdivision may—
 - (a) release the defendant unconditionally; or
 - (b) make an order (a supervision order)—
 - (i) committing the defendant to detention under this Subdivision; or
 - (ii) releasing the defendant on licence on the following conditions:
 - (A) the conditions imposed by subsection (1a);
 - (B) any other condition decided by the court and specified in the licence.
- (1aa) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1)(b)(ii)(B), release on licence under a supervision order may, for example, be subject to—
 - (a) a condition that the defendant reside at specified premises; or
 - (b) a condition that the defendant undergo assessment or treatment (or both) relating to the defendant's mental condition; or
 - (c) a condition that the defendant be monitored by use of an electronic device approved under section 4 of the Correctional Services Act 1982; or
 - (d) any other condition that the court thinks fit.
- (1a) Subject to this Act, every licence under subsection (1)(b)(ii) is subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) a condition prohibiting the defendant from possessing a firearm or ammunition (both within the meaning of the Firearms Act 2015) or any part of a firearm;
 - (b) a condition requiring the defendant to submit to such tests (including testing without notice) for gunshot residue as may be reasonably required by a person or body specified by the court.

- (1b) A court may only vary or revoke the conditions imposed by subsection (1a) if the defendant satisfies the court, by evidence given on oath, that—
- (a) there are cogent reasons to do so; and
 - (b) the possession of a firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm by the defendant does not represent an undue risk to the safety of the public.
- (2) If a court makes a supervision order, the court must fix a term (a limiting term) equivalent to the period of imprisonment or supervision (or the aggregate period of imprisonment and supervision) that would, in the court's opinion, have been appropriate if the defendant had been convicted of the offence of which the objective elements have been established¹.
- (3) At the end of the limiting term, a supervision order in force against the defendant under this Division lapses.

Note—

- 1 The court should fix a limiting term by reference to the sentence that would have been imposed if the defendant had been found guilty of the relevant offence and without taking account of the defendant's mental impairment.

269OA—Court may direct defendant to surrender firearm etc

- (1) The court by which a defendant is declared to be liable to supervision under this Subdivision may, in relation to a supervision order that is subject to the condition imposed by section 269O(1a)(a), direct the defendant to immediately surrender at a police station specified by the court any firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm owned or possessed by the defendant.
- (2) No criminal liability attaches to a person to the extent that he or she is complying with a direction under this section.
- (3) The Commissioner of Police must deal with any surrendered firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm in accordance with the scheme set out in the regulations.
- (4) No compensation is payable by the Crown or any other person in respect of the exercise of a function or power under this section.
- (5) The regulations may provide for the payment, recovery or waiver of fees in respect of this section.

269P—Variation or revocation of supervision order

- (1) At any time during the limiting term, the court may, on the application of the Crown, the defendant, Parole Board, the Public Advocate, the Commissioner for Victims' Rights or another person with a proper interest in the matter, vary or revoke a supervision order.
- (1a) On an application under subsection (1), the court may do 1 or more of the following:
 - (a) confirm the present terms of the supervision order;
 - (b) vary the terms of the order;
 - (c) revoke the order and make in substitution for the order any other order that the court might have made under this Subdivision in the first instance;
 - (d) make any further order or direction that may be appropriate in the circumstances.

- (2) If the court refuses an application by or on behalf of a defendant for variation or revocation of a supervision order, a later application for variation or revocation of the order cannot be made by or on behalf of the defendant for six months or such greater or lesser period as the court may direct on refusing the application.

269Q—Report on mental condition of defendant

- (1) If a defendant is declared to be liable to supervision under this Subdivision, the Minister must, within 30 days after the date of the declaration, prepare and submit to the court by which the declaration was made a report, prepared by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert, on the mental condition of the defendant containing—
 - (a) a diagnosis and prognosis of the condition; and
 - (b) a suggested treatment plan for managing the defendant's condition.
- (2) If a supervision order is made against the defendant, the Minister must arrange to have prepared and submitted to the court, at intervals of not more than 12 months during the limiting term, a report containing—
 - (a) a statement of any treatment that the defendant has undergone since the last report; and
 - (b) any changes to the prognosis of the defendant's condition and the treatment plan for managing the condition.

269R—Reports and statements to be provided to court

- (1) For the purpose of assisting the court to determine proceedings under this Subdivision, the Crown must provide the court with a report setting out, so far as reasonably ascertainable, the views of—
 - (a) the next of kin of the defendant; and
 - (b) the victim (if any) of the defendant's conduct; and
 - (c) if a victim was killed as a result of the defendant's conduct—the next of kin of the victim.
- (2) A report is not, however, required under subsection (1) if the purpose of the proceeding is—
 - (a) to determine whether a defendant who has been released on licence should be detained or subjected to a more rigorous form of supervision; or
 - (b) to vary, in minor respects, the conditions on which a defendant is released on licence.
- (3) If a court is fixing a limiting term in proceedings under this Subdivision relating to an alleged indictable offence or prescribed summary offence, a person who has suffered injury, loss or damage resulting from the defendant's conduct may furnish the court with a statement of a kind referred to in section 14 of the Sentencing Act 2017 (a victim impact statement), as if the defendant had been convicted of the offence and the court was determining sentence (and the court must deal with the statement in all respects as if it were a statement furnished under that section).
- (4) However, the court need not comply with section 14(4) and (5) of the Sentencing Act 2017 if the court is satisfied that—
 - (a) the defendant is incapable of understanding the victim impact statement; or

- (b) having regard to the nature of the defendant's mental impairment, it would be inappropriate for the defendant to be present.
- (5) If a court is fixing a limiting term in proceedings under this Subdivision, the Crown or the Commissioner for Victim's Rights may furnish the court with a statement of a kind referred to in section 15 of the Sentencing Act 2017 (a neighbourhood impact statement or a social impact statement) as if the court were determining sentence for an offence (and the court must deal with the statement in all respects as if it were a statement furnished under that section).
- (6) In this section—
prescribed summary offence has the same meaning as in section 14 of the Sentencing Act 2017.

269T—Matters to which court is to have regard

- (1) In deciding proceedings under this Subdivision, the court should have regard to—
 - (a) the nature of the defendant's mental impairment; and
 - (b) whether the defendant is, or would if released be, likely to endanger another person, or other persons generally; and
 - (c) whether there are adequate resources available for the treatment and support of the defendant in the community; and
 - (d) whether the defendant is likely to comply with the conditions of a licence; and
 - (e) other matters that the court thinks relevant.
- (2) The court cannot release a defendant under this Subdivision, or significantly reduce the degree of supervision to which a defendant is subject unless the court—
 - (a) has considered a report (an expert report) prepared by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert who has personally examined the defendant, on—
 - (i) the mental condition of the defendant; and
 - (ii) the possible effects of the proposed action on the behaviour of the defendant; and
 - (b) has considered the report most recently submitted to the court by the Minister under this Subdivision; and
 - (ba) is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the safety of the person or any member of the public will not be seriously endangered by the person's release; and
 - (c) has considered the report on the attitudes of victims and next of kin prepared under this Subdivision; and
 - (d) is satisfied that—
 - (i) the defendant's next of kin; and
 - (ii) the victim (if any) of the defendant's conduct; and
 - (iii) if a victim was killed as a result of the defendant's conduct—the next of kin of the victim, have been given reasonable notice of the proceedings.

- (2a) The court may, if it considers it necessary for the purpose of assisting the court to decide proceedings under this Subdivision, require further additional expert reports to be provided to the court.
- (3) Notice need not be given under subsection (2)(d) to a person whose whereabouts have not, after reasonable inquiry, been ascertained.

269U—Revision of supervision orders

- (1) If a person who has been released on licence under this Subdivision contravenes or is likely to contravene a condition of the licence, the court by which the supervision order was made may, on application by the Crown (which may be made, in a case of urgency, by telephone), review the supervision order.
- (1a) On an application for a review being made, the court may make an interim order in such terms as the court thinks appropriate in the circumstances, including an order that the person be detained in a specified place for a specified period pending the determination of the review.
- (2) After allowing the Crown and the person subject to the order a reasonable opportunity to be heard on the application for review, the court may do 1 or more of the following:
 - (a) confirm the present terms of the supervision order;
 - (b) amend the order so that it ceases to provide for release on licence and provides instead for detention;
 - (c) amend the order by varying the conditions of the licence;
 - (d) make any further order or direction that may be appropriate in the circumstances.
- (3) When an application for review of a supervision order is made, the court may issue a warrant to have the person subject to the order arrested and brought before the court and may, if appropriate, make orders for detention of that person until the application is determined.

Subdivision 3—Continuing supervision orders

269UA—Application for continuing supervision

- (1) If a defendant is declared to be liable to supervision under Subdivision 2, whether before or after the commencement of this section, the Crown may, while the defendant remains liable to supervision, apply to the Supreme Court to have the defendant declared to be liable to supervision under a continuing supervision order.
- (2) An application cannot be made under subsection (1) more than 12 months before the end of the limiting term fixed in respect of the relevant supervision order (and the limiting term will be taken to continue until the application is determined by the Court).
- (3) The Court must give the defendant at least 14 days written notice of the date on which it intends to conduct the proceedings to determine the application.

- (4) The Court must, before determining an application under this section, direct that 1 or more legally qualified medical practitioners (to be nominated by a prescribed authority for the purpose) inquire into the mental condition of the defendant and report to the Court on the mental condition of the defendant, including—
 - (a) a diagnosis and prognosis of the condition; and
 - (b) a suggested treatment plan for managing the defendant's condition.
- (5) Each of the following persons is entitled to appear and be heard in proceedings under this section and must be afforded a reasonable opportunity to call and give evidence, to examine or cross-examine witnesses, and to make submissions to the Court:
 - (a) the defendant (personally or by counsel);
 - (b) the Director of Public Prosecutions;
 - (c) the Commissioner for Victims' Rights;
 - (d) with the permission of the Court—any other person with a proper interest in the matter.
- (6) The Court may also take the following matters into consideration when determining an application under this section:
 - (a) any relevant remarks made by the court by which the defendant was declared to be liable to supervision under Subdivision 2;
 - (b) the behaviour of the defendant while under supervision;
 - (c) any treatment, care and rehabilitation of the defendant while under supervision;
 - (d) any reports tendered, and submissions made, to the Court under this section;
 - (e) the likelihood of the defendant committing an offence of a violent nature should the defendant no longer be liable to supervision;
 - (f) the character, antecedents, age, means and physical and mental condition of the defendant;
 - (g) the probable circumstances of the defendant should the defendant no longer be liable to supervision;
 - (h) any other matters that the Court thinks are relevant.
- (7) If the Court is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the defendant to whom the application relates could, if unsupervised, pose a serious risk to the safety of the community or a member of the community, the Court must declare that, on the expiry of the supervision order under Subdivision 2, the defendant is liable to continuing supervision under this Subdivision.

269UB—Continuing supervision orders

- (1) If, under section 269UA, the Supreme Court declares a defendant to be liable to continuing supervision, the Court may make an order (a continuing supervision order)—
 - (a) committing the defendant to detention under this Subdivision; or
 - (b) releasing the defendant on licence.

- (2) If a continuing supervision order is made releasing the defendant on licence, the licence is subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) the conditions imposed by subsection (3);
 - (b) any other condition decided by the Court and specified in the licence.
- (3) Subject to this Act, every licence under this Subdivision is subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) a condition prohibiting the defendant from possessing a firearm or ammunition (both within the meaning of the Firearms Act 2015) or any part of a firearm;
 - (b) a condition requiring the defendant to submit to such tests (including testing without notice) for gunshot residue as may be reasonably required by a person or body specified by the Court.
- (4) Without limiting the generality of subsection (2)(b), release on licence under a continuing supervision order may, for example, be subject to—
 - (a) a condition that the defendant reside at specified premises; or
 - (b) a condition that the defendant undergo assessment or treatment (or both) relating to the defendant's mental condition; or
 - (c) a condition that the defendant be monitored by use of an electronic device approved under section 4 of the Correctional Services Act 1982; or
 - (d) any other condition that the Court thinks fit.
- (5) The Court may only vary or revoke the conditions imposed by subsection (3) if the defendant satisfies the Court, by evidence given on oath, that—
 - (a) there are cogent reasons to do so; and
 - (b) the possession of a firearm, ammunition or part of a firearm by the defendant does not represent an undue risk to the safety of the public.
- (6) A continuing supervision order remains in force against the defendant until the order is revoked by the Court.

269UC—Variation or revocation of continuing supervision order

- (1) At any time after a continuing supervision order has been made in respect of a defendant, the Supreme Court may, on the application of the Crown, the defendant, the Parole Board, the Public Advocate or another person with a proper interest in the matter, vary or revoke the order.
- (2) If the Court refuses an application by or on behalf of a defendant for variation or revocation of a continuing supervision order, a later application for variation or revocation of the order cannot be made by or on behalf of the defendant for 12 months or such greater or lesser period as the Court may direct on refusing the application.

 - (a) to determine whether an application should be made to the court for a review of the supervision order or continuing supervision order to which the person is subject; and
 - (b) for any other purpose as the prescribed authority thinks fit in the circumstances.
- (5) Despite subsection (1), a person who has been detained under an administrative detention order cannot be detained under another such order unless a period of at least 14 days has elapsed since the expiry of the previous administrative detention order.

Subdivision 6—Effect of supervening imprisonment on an order under Division 4

269VA—Effect of supervening imprisonment

Division 5—Miscellaneous

269W—Counsel to have independent discretion

- (1) If the defendant is unable to instruct counsel on questions relevant to an investigation under this Part, the counsel may act, in the exercise of an independent discretion, in what he or she genuinely believes to be the defendant's best interests.

- (2) If the counsel for the defendant in criminal proceedings (apart from proceedings under this Part) has reason to believe that the defendant is unable, because of mental impairment, to give rational instructions on questions relevant to the proceedings (including whether to be tried by judge alone), the counsel may act, in the exercise of an independent discretion, in what the counsel genuinely believes to be the defendant's best interests.

269WA—Power to order examination etc in pre-trial proceedings

- (1) If in pre-trial proceedings it appears to the court that it might expedite the trial to order the examination of the defendant under this section in anticipation of trial, the court may, by order—
- (a) require the defendant to undergo an examination by a psychiatrist or other appropriate expert; and
 - (b) require that the results of the examination be reported to the court.
- (2) The prosecution and the defence are entitled to access to the report.

269X—Power of court to deal with defendant before proceedings completed

- (1) If there is to be an investigation into a defendant's mental competence to commit an offence, or mental fitness to stand trial, or a court conducting committal proceedings reserves the question whether there should be such an investigation for consideration by the court of trial, the court by which the investigation is to be conducted, or the court reserving the question for consideration, may—
- (a) release the defendant on bail to appear later for the purposes of the investigation; or
 - (b) commit the defendant to custody (in which case the defendant will, subject to subsections (4) and (5), be detained as if the defendant had been remanded in custody awaiting trial or sentence) until the conclusion of the investigation.
- (2) If a court declares a defendant to be liable to supervision under this Part, but unresolved questions remain about how the court is to deal with the defendant, the court may—
- (a) release the defendant on bail to appear subsequently to be dealt with by the court; or
 - (b) commit the defendant to custody (being an appropriate form of custody determined, from time to time, by the Minister) until some subsequent date when the defendant is to be brought again before the court.
- (3) A defendant committed to custody under subsection (1)(b) is in the custody of the CE (regardless of where the defendant is detained or the form of custody in which the defendant is detained) and, subject to subsections (4) and (5), the CE may give such directions as to the custody, supervision and care of the defendant as the CE considers appropriate.

- (4) If, at the time at which a defendant is committed to custody under subsection (1)(b), the defendant is an involuntary inpatient at a treatment centre in accordance with the Mental Health Act 2009 (because the defendant is subject to an inpatient treatment order under that Act)—
- (a) the defendant must continue to be confined at the treatment centre for the duration of the inpatient treatment order and each subsequent inpatient treatment order that follows on from that order (if any); and
 - (b) at the conclusion of the confinement referred to in paragraph (a), the defendant will (subject to subsection (5)) be detained as if the defendant had been remanded in custody awaiting trial or sentence.
- (5) If, at any time during the detention of a defendant under subsection (1)(b), the designated officer is satisfied that the defendant is not being detained in an appropriate form of custody, the designated officer may determine an appropriate form of custody and that determination is sufficient authorisation for the detention of the defendant in that alternative form of custody.
- (6) The regulations may make provision in relation to the manner in which the designated officer is to determine an appropriate form of custody for the purposes of subsection (5).
- (7) In this section—
- CE* has the same meaning as in the Correctional Services Act 1982;
- designated officer means the person, or holder of the office, prescribed by the regulations for the purposes of this section.

 - (c) if a victim was killed as a result of the defendant's conduct—the next of kin of the victim.
- (2) A person does not, in disclosing information about the defendant during the course of providing counselling under this section, breach any code or rule of professional ethics.

269ZA—Exclusion of evidence

A finding made on an investigation into a defendant's fitness to stand trial does not establish an issue estoppel against the defendant in any later (civil or criminal) proceedings, and evidence of such a finding is not admissible against the defendant in criminal proceedings against the defendant.

269ZB—Arrest of person who escapes from detention etc

- (1) If a person who is committed to detention under this Part—
 - (a) escapes from the detention; or
 - (b) is absent, without proper authority, from the place of detention,the person may be arrested without warrant, and returned to the place of detention, by a police officer or an authorised person.

The Act 36 George III C. 7 reads as follows:

An Act for the Safety and Preservation of His Majesty's Person and Government against treasonable and seditious Practices and Attempts.—[18th December 1795.]

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, of Great Britain, in this present Parliament assembled, duly considering the daring Outrages offered to your Majesty's most Sacred Person, in your Passage to and from your Parliament at the Opening of this present Session, and also the continued Attempts of wicked and evil-disposed Persons to disturb the Tranquility of this your Majesty's Kingdom, particularly by the Multitude of seditious Pamphlets and Speeches daily printed, published, and dispersed, with unremitted Industry, and with a transcendent boldness, in Contempt of your Majesty's Royal Person and Dignity, and tending to the Overthrow of the Laws, Government, and happy Constitution of these Realms, have judged that it is become necessary to provide a further Remedy against all such treasonable and seditious Practices and Attempts: We, therefore, calling to Mind the good and wholesome Provisions which have at different Times been made by the Wisdom of Parliament for the averting such Dangers, and more especially for the Security and Preservation of the Persons of the Sovereigns of these Realms, do most humbly beseech your Majesty that it may be enacted; and be it enacted by the King's most Excellency Majesty, by and with the Advice and Consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the Authority of the same, That if any Person or Persons whatsoever, after the Day of the passing of this Act, during the natural Life of our most Gracious Sovereign Lord the King, (whom Almighty God preserve and bless with a long and prosperous Reign,) and until the End of the next Session of Parliament after a Demise of the Crown, shall, within the Realm or without, compass, imagine, invent, devise, or intend Death or Destruction, or any bodily Harm tending to Death or Destruction, Maim or Wounding, Imprisonment or Restraint, of the person of the same our Sovereign Lord the King, his Heirs and Successors, or to deprive or depose him or them from the Style, Honour, or Kingly Name of the Imperial Crown of this Realm, or of any other of his Majesty's Dominions or Countries; or to levy War against his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors, within this Realm, in order, by Force or Constraint, to compel him or them to change his or their Measures or Counsels, or in order to put any Force or Constraint upon, or to intimidate, or overawe, both Houses, or either House of Parliament; or to move or stir any Foreigner or Stranger with Force to invade this Realm, or any other his Majesty's Dominions or Countries, under the Obeisance of his Majesty, his Heirs and Successors; and such Compassings, Imaginations, Inventions, Devices, or Intentions, or any of them, shall express, utter or declare, by publishing any Printing or Writing, or by any overt Act or Deed; being legally convicted thereof, upon the Oaths of two lawful and credible Witnesses, upon Trial, or otherwise convicted or attainted by due Course of Law, then every such Person and Persons, so as aforesaid offending, shall be deemed, declared, and adjudged to be a Traitor and Traitors, and shall suffer Pains of Death, and also lose and forfeit as in Cases of High Treason.

- (c) for the avoidance of doubt, the sentencing court need not ask any question of the trier of fact directed to ascertaining which acts of sexual exploitation, or which particulars of the offence as alleged, the trier of fact found to have been proved beyond a reasonable doubt and, unless it has so determined in accordance with paragraph (b), need not sentence the person on the view of the facts most favourable to the person.
