Landlord and Tenant Act 1936

PART 1
FORFEITURE AND RELIEF

Recovery of Premises

Proceedings by landlord for non-payment of rent

4. (1) In every case between a landlord and tenant, if—

(a) one half-year's rent is in arrear; and

(b) the landlord has by law the right to re-enter for non-payment thereof, the landlord may bring an action for recovery of the demised premises without making any formal demand for the rent or any re-entry, and the service of the writ in that action shall have the effect of a demand and re-entry.

(2) If the lessee or his assignees or other person claiming or deriving under the lease permits and suffers judgment to be recovered in the action and execution to be executed thereon without paying the rent and arrears together with full costs and without proceeding for relief on equitable grounds within six months after such execution executed, the said lessee, his assignees, and all other persons claiming under the lease shall be barred and foreclosed from all relief or remedy legal or equitable other than by appeal, and the landlord shall thereafter hold the demised premises discharged from the lease.

(3) Nothing in this section shall bar the right of any mortgagee of the lease or any part thereof who is not in possession, if such mortgagee within six months after such execution executed pays all rent in arrear, and all costs and damages sustained by the landlord, and performs all the covenants and agreements which on the part and behalf of the first lessee are and ought to be performed.

Tenant, paying all rent, proceedings to cease

5. If the tenant or his assignee at any time before the hearing of the action for recovery of the land pays or tenders to the landlord, or his executors, or administrators, or his or their solicitor in the action or pays into the court all the rent and arrears due at the time of such payment, together with the costs, all further proceedings in the action shall thereupon cease and be discontinued.

Damages for mesne profits

6. On the hearing of any action brought by a landlord against a tenant for recovery of the demised premises the judge, if satisfied that the defendant has been served with due notice of the hearing, shall, whether the defendant appears on the trial or not, permit the plaintiff, after proof of his right to recover possession of the whole or of any part of the demised land, to adduce evidence of the mesne profits thereof, which accrued or might have accrued from the day of the expiration or determination of the tenant's interest in the land, down to the time of the judgment given in the action, or to some preceding day to be specially mentioned therein; and judgment shall be given upon the whole matter, both as to the recovery of the whole or any part of the land, and also as to the amount of the damages to be paid for such mesne profits; and in such case the landlord shall have judgment, not only for the recovery of possession and costs, but also for the mesne profits found:

Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed to bar any landlord from bringing any action for the mesne profits which accrue from the time of the judgment or the day so specified therein, down to the day of the delivery of possession of the premises recovered in the action.

Saving of former remedies

7. Nothing in the preceding three sections shall prejudice or affect any other right of action or remedy which landlords possess in any of the cases provided for, in these sections, except as therein expressly enacted.

Notice of writs by lessee to landlord

8. Every tenant to whom there is delivered any writ for the recovery of the premises demised to or held by him, or to whose knowledge any such writ comes, shall (except where the landlord is the plaintiff named in the writ) forthwith give notice thereof to the landlord or his agent; and if he fails to do so shall be liable to forfeit to the person of whom he holds the premises an amount equal to the value of three years improved or rack rent of the premises, to be recovered by action in any court having jurisdiction in respect of claims for that amount.

Relief Against Forfeiture

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent

9. (1) In the case of any action in the Supreme Court for recovery of land on forfeiture for non-payment of rent, the court or a judge may, upon motion or summons, give relief on equitable grounds in a summary manner, up to and within the same time after execution executed, and subject to the same terms and conditions in all respects as to payment of rent, costs, and otherwise, as would have applied in the Supreme Court in its equitable jurisdiction before the passing of the Supreme Court Act 1878.

(2) If the lessee, his executors, administrators, or assigns are so relieved, they shall hold the demised lands according to the terms of the lease and without any new lease.

(3) If such relief is granted, the court or judge shall direct a minute thereof to be made, by endorsement on the lease or otherwise.

No re-entry till notice to tenant to remedy breach

10. A right of re-entry or forfeiture under any proviso or stipulation in a lease for a breach of any covenant or condition in the lease shall not be enforceable by action or otherwise, unless and until—

- (a) the lessor serves on the lessee a notice specifying the particular breach complained of, and, if the breach is capable of remedy, requiring the lessee to remedy the breach, and in any case requiring the lessee to make compensation in money for the breach; and
- (b) the lessee fails within a reasonable time thereafter to remedy the breach, if it is capable of remedy, and to make reasonable compensation in money to the satisfaction of the lessor for the breach.

Court or judge may grant relief

11. (1) Where a lessor is proceeding by action or otherwise to enforce such a right of re-entry or forfeiture the lessee may, in the lessor's action (if any), or in any action brought by himself, apply to the Supreme Court or a judge thereof for relief, and the court or judge may grant or refuse relief as such court or judge, having regard to the proceedings and conduct of the parties under the last preceding section and to all other circumstances, may think fit.

(2) If the court or judge grants relief it or he may grant it on such terms (if any) as to costs, expenses, damages, compensation, penalty, or otherwise, including the granting of an injunction to restrain any like breach in the future, as the court or judge in the circumstances of each case thinks fit.

Interpretation and application of preceding sections

12. (1) For the purposes of the two preceding sections a lease includes an original lease or a derivative under-lease, or a grant securing a rent by condition, and a lessee includes an original lessee or derivative under-lessee, and the heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns of a lessee, also a grantee under such a grant as aforesaid, his heirs and assigns; and a lessor includes an original lessor or derivative under-lessor, and his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, also a grantor as aforesaid, and his heirs and assigns.

(2) The said sections shall apply, although the provision or stipulation under which the right of re-entry or forfeiture accrues is inserted in the lease in pursuance of any Act.

(3) For the purposes of the said sections a lease limited to continue as long only as the lessee abstains from committing a breach of covenant shall be and take effect as a lease to continue for any longer term for which it could subsist, but determinable by a proviso for re-entry on such a breach.

(4) The said sections shall extend to a covenant or condition against assigning, under-letting, parting with the possession, or disposing of the land leased, when the consent of the lessor has been vexatiously or capriciously withheld.

(5) The said sections shall not apply to Crown leases nor affect the law relating to re-entry and forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

(6) The said sections shall apply to leases made either before or after the commencement of this Act, and shall have effect notwithstanding any stipulation to the contrary.

(2) Any person refusing or neglecting so to supply such copy shall be guilty of an offence, and liable to a penalty not exceeding ten dollars.

Rights of owner of agisted cattle, under-tenant, or lodger

19. (1) If any landlord levies, or threatens to levy, or authorises to be levied, a distress on any cattle agisted on the demised premises, or on any goods being the property or in the lawful possession otherwise than as sub-tenant of any under-tenant other than the immediate tenant, or of any lodger, for arrears of rent due to such landlord by his immediate tenant, the owner of such agisted cattle, or his agent, or such under-tenant or lodger, or his agent, may serve the landlord or the person authorised by him to levy such distress, with a declaration in writing in or to the effect of the form in Schedule C hereto, signed by such owner or his agent, or such under-tenant or lodger or his agent.

(2) The declaration shall—

- (a) set forth that the immediate tenant has no right of property or beneficial interest in such cattle other than his lien for agistment, if any, or that he has no right of property or beneficial interest in such goods, and that such cattle are the property of such under-tenant or owner, or that such goods are the property of such lodger, or are, or immediately prior to being distrained were, in his lawful possession; and
- (b) state whether any and what money is due for agistment, rent, or lodging, and for what period, from such owner, under-tenant, or lodger to the immediate tenant, and if no such money is due, then stating that fact; and
- (c) have annexed thereto a correct inventory signed by the declarant of the cattle or goods referred to in the declaration.

(3) And such owner, under-tenant, or lodger, may pay to the landlord, or to the person authorised by him as aforesaid, the amount so due for agistment, rent, or lodging, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to discharge the claim of such landlord and his lawful charges.

Effect of payment to landlord

20. Any payment made by an owner of agisted cattle, or an under-tenant, or lodger, pursuant to the last preceding section, shall be deemed a valid payment on account of any moneys due for agistment, rent, or lodging from him to the immediate tenant.

Duty of landlord after being served with declaration

21. Subject to the provisions of section 26, if any landlord, or any person authorised by a landlord, after being served with the said declaration and inventory, and in case any money is at the time of making such declaration due for agistment, rent, or lodging, as mentioned in section 19 of this Act, after payment to him of the money which by such section the owner of the agisted cattle, or the under-tenant, or lodger, is authorised to pay, levies or proceeds with a distress on such cattle, being the property of the person by or on whose behalf they have been claimed, or on the goods of the under-tenant or lodger, or goods which immediately prior to being distrained were in his lawful possession, that landlord, and the person so authorised, if any, shall if the immediate tenant had at the time of the service of the said declaration and inventory no right of property or beneficial interest in such agisted cattle other than his lien for agistment, if any, or in such goods, be deemed guilty of an irregular distress, and shall be liable to an action at the suit of such under-tenant or lodger, but shall not be deemed trespassers ab initio.

Duty of landlord after service of declaration

23. Subject to the provisions hereinafter contained and to the person who claims the goods proceeding, as provided in the next section before the sale thereof, and obtaining a decision in his favour, if any landlord or any person authorised by a landlord, after being served with the declaration and inventory provided for by the last preceding section, levies or proceeds with a distress on the goods mentioned in the inventory, being the property of the person by whom or on whose behalf the declaration and inventory was served, or having been immediately prior to such distress in his lawful possession, that landlord, and the person so authorised, if any, shall, if the immediate tenant had at the time of such service no right of property or beneficial interest in the goods, be deemed guilty of an irregular distress, and be liable to an action therefor, but shall not be deemed trespassers ab initio.

Power of justices to adjudicate on adverse claims

24. (1) When any claim is made by service of a declaration and inventory, by any person other than the immediate tenant, to or in respect of any agisted cattle or goods distrained, or threatened to be distrained, by any landlord for rent, any justice of the peace, upon complaint in writing by either the landlord or the claimant preferred before the sale of such goods under the distress (where the cattle or goods have been actually distrained) by the person making the claim, may—

- (a) issue a summons in the form in Schedule E hereto, or in a form to the like effect, directed as well to the landlord as to the person making the claim; and
- (b) in his discretion order such sale to be postponed until the summons has been disposed of.

(2) Any two or more justices may adjudicate on such claim in a summary manner, and make an order in, or to the effect of, the form in schedule F hereto, and such order as to costs to be paid by either party as to them shall seem just.

Landlord and Tenant Act 1936

(3) Service of the summons or order on a person authorised by the landlord to distrain shall be deemed service on the landlord, and service of the summons or order on a person who has made a claim on behalf of another shall be deemed service on the principal.

Decision of justices

25. If it appears upon the hearing of the complaint that—

- (a) the agisted cattle claimed were the property of the person alleged to be the owner thereof, or that the goods claimed, or part of them, were the property or in the lawful possession of the claimant, being an under-tenant or lodger; and
- (b) the immediate tenant had no right of property or beneficial interest in such cattle, other than his lien for agistment, if any, or in such goods; but
- (c) the claimant did not, before the complaint was preferred, pay to the landlord, or the person authorised by him to distrain, all moneys due by the owner of the cattle, or by the under-tenant or lodger to the immediate tenant for agistment, rent, or lodging, or so much thereof as was sufficient to discharge the claim of such landlord and his lawful charges, the justices before whom the complaint is heard shall find accordingly, and their decision shall be deemed to be in favour of the landlord.

Power of landlord to hold goods

26. Where any complaint is preferred as in section 24 mentioned, the landlord may, at his option, where the agisted cattle or the goods have been distrained before the making of the claim, hold the cattle or goods claimed until the claim has been adjudicated upon; and the costs of such holding, and of holding possession from the making of the claim until the adjudication, or such part thereof as the justices adjudicating upon such claim shall think fit, shall, if the justices so order, be added to the costs of the distress, or paid by the claimant to the landlord.

Power of landlord to sell goods if claim in his favour

27. The landlord may seize or reseize any agisted cattle or any goods as to which the decision is in his favour wherever they may be found, and, if necessary, may, between sunrise and sunset only, break into any premises where those cattle or goods may be, or may reasonably be supposed to be, and may deal with any such cattle or goods as if no such claim had been made, although he may have previously sold other cattle or goods distrained at the same time, and no fresh claim has been made by the same claimant.

False declarations

28. If any person wilfully makes or signs any false declaration or inventory under this Part he shall be guilty of an offence, punishable by imprisonment for any term not exceeding twelve calendar months, with or without hard labour.

Person entitled to take declarations

29. A declaration under this Part may be made before a justice of the peace, notary public, commissioner for taking affidavits in the Supreme Court, or practitioner of the Supreme Court or clerk of a local court.

Sale of distrained goods

30. Where goods are distrained for rent, and are not replevied within five days next after the delivery or affixing of the copy of the inventory provided for by section 17, the landlord may, at the expiration of those five days, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, and unless payment or tender of the rent and the charges in respect of the distress be made to him by or on behalf of the tenant before sale, sell the goods distrained for the best price that can be obtained.

Power to distrain corn and hay

31. Any landlord or his agent may distrain any sheaves of corn, or corn loose, or in the straw, or hay lying on the ground, or being in any barn, granary, hovel, stock, or rick, or otherwise upon any part of the land subject to the rent, and may deal therewith as he might have dealt with any other goods distrained for rent, except that corn or hay so distrained shall not be removed by the landlord or his agent out of the place where it was seized, if such removal would depreciate its value, but shall be kept there (as impounded) until it is replevied or sold.

Distress may be secured and sold on premises

32. (1) Any landlord or his agent may impound or otherwise secure goods distrained for rent, in such place, or on such part of the premises subject to the rent, as are most fit and convenient for impounding and securing them, and may sell and dispose of them upon the premises, or, where the goods cannot be advantageously disposed of upon the said premises, may remove them to some more convenient place for disposal.

(2) Any other person or persons may, after the expiration of the five days hereinbefore mentioned, come and go to and from the place or part of the said premises where the goods are impounded and secured in order to view or buy the goods, or remove them on account of the purchaser thereof.

PART 3
MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Effect of licences granted to lessees

47. (1) Where a licence is granted to a lessee or his assigns to do any act which without the licence would create a forfeiture, or give a right to re-enter, the licence, unless otherwise expressed, shall extend only—

- (a) to the permission actually given; or
- (b) to the specific breach of any proviso or covenant made or to be made; or
- (c) to the actual assignment under lease or other matter specifically authorised by the licence to be done, and the licence shall not prevent any proceeding for any subsequent breach unless otherwise specified in the licence.

(2) Notwithstanding any such licence—

- (a) all rights under covenants and powers of re-entry contained in the lease shall remain in full force, and be available as against any subsequent breach of covenant, or condition or assignment under lease or other matter not specifically authorised or waived, in the same manner as if no licence had been granted; and
- (b) the condition or right of entry remains in force in all respects as if the licence had not been granted, save in respect of the particular matter authorised to be done.

Effect of restricted licence

48. Where in any lease there is a power or condition of re-entry on the lessee assigning, subletting, or doing any other specified act without a licence, and a licence is granted—

- (a) to one of two or more lessees or co-owners to do any act; or
- (b) to any lessee or owner, or to any one of two or more lessees or owners to assign or underlet part only of the property, or to do any act in respect of part only of the property;

the licence does not operate to extinguish the right of entry in case of any breach of covenant or condition by any co-lessee or owner of any other share or interest in the property, or by any lessee or owner of the rest of the property (as the case may be), in respect of such shares or interests or remaining property, but the right of entry remains in force in respect of the shares, interests, or property not the subject of the licence.

Application of preceding sections

49. The two preceding sections apply to licences granted after the first day of November, 1860, in respect of leases whether granted before or after that date.

Protection of purchaser against forfeiture under covenant for insurance against fire in certain cases

51. (1) Where on the bona fide purchase of a leasehold interest, under a lease containing a covenant on the part of the lessee to insure against loss or damage by fire, the purchaser is furnished with the written receipt of the person entitled to receive the rent, or his agent, for the last payment of rent accrued due before the completion of the purchase, and there is subsisting at the time of the completion of the purchase an insurance in conformity with the covenant, the purchaser or any person claiming under him shall not be subject to any liability by way of forfeiture or damages, or otherwise, in respect of any breach of the covenant committed at any time before the completion of the purchase of which the purchaser had not notice before the completion of the purchase: but this provision is not to take away any remedy which the lessor or his legal representatives may have against the lessee or his legal representatives for breach of covenant.

(2) This section applies to all purchases made after the first day of November, 1860.

Preceding provisions to apply to leases for a term of years absolute, etc.

- (b) the tenant assigns his or her rights under the agreement, or sublets the premises subject to the agreement; and
- (c) the premises continue to be used for a business of the same kind, the person who obtains a right to occupy the premises by virtue of the assignment or subletting may sue on the warranty in his or her own right.

(4) In any proceedings for breach of the warranty referred to in subsection (1), it is a defence for the landlord to prove—this section applies to the agreement.

(2) This section does not apply to a commercial tenancy agreement—

- (a) if the term of the tenancy is two months or less and the tenant has before entering into the agreement sought and received independent advice from a legal practitioner and the legal practitioner has signed a certificate in the prescribed form as to the giving of that advice; or

- (b) if no such notice has been served—not later than three months before the expiration of the term of the tenancy conferred by the commercial tenancy agreement, unless the Commercial Tribunal is satisfied that the failure to make the application within time was occasioned by mistake, absence from the State, or other reasonable cause.

(5) The landlord under a commercial tenancy agreement to which this section applies may serve on the tenant—

- (a) if the tenancy is for a term of six months or less—on or before the commencement of the tenancy;

(7) If—

- (a) a tenant applies to the landlord under subsection (3); and
- (b) at the expiration of one month from the date of the application the landlord and the tenant have not agreed to an extension of the tenancy on mutually agreed terms, either may apply to the Commercial Tribunal.

(8) On an application under subsection (7), the Tribunal may extend the tenancy for such term (being a term that expires on or before the fifth anniversary of the date on which the tenancy first took effect) and on such terms and conditions as it considers just.

(9) The Tribunal should, in considering an application under subsection (7), take into account—

- (a) the relative bargaining positions of the landlord and tenant at the time the commercial tenancy agreement was entered into;
- (b) any proposals of the landlord for a new tenancy between the landlord and the tenant;
- (c) any plans of the landlord for the future use or development of the premises;

(10) Where an application is made to the Commercial Tribunal under this section, the tenancy to which the application relates continues upon the same terms and conditions (subject to any modifications stipulated by the Tribunal) until the application is determined.

Ability of landlord to move tenant to other premises

66AB. (1) Where—

- (a) the term of a tenancy is extended under section 66A; and

(2) Where—

- (a) a landlord proposes to require a tenant to move his or her business to other premises in pursuance of subsection (1); or
- (b) a landlord has (apart from this section) the right under the commercial tenancy agreement to require the tenant to move his or her business to other premises and proposes to exercise that right, then the landlord must, at least three months before the business is to be moved, notify the tenant of the requirement, of the premises to which the business is to be moved, and of the date on or before which the business is to be moved.

(3) A tenant may, within one month after receiving notice under subsection (2) or such longer period as the Commercial Tribunal may allow, apply to the Tribunal for relief against the requirement.

(4) On an application under subsection (3), the Tribunal may—

- (a) annul the requirement; or
- (b) make any adjustment of rights between the landlord and tenant that may be just in view of the requirement (and for any proposed commercial tenancy agreement that is to take effect in substitution).

(5) The Tribunal should in considering an application under subsection (3), take into account the interests of the landlord, the tenant, and the other tenants that have premises in the shopping complex.

(6) The Tribunal cannot annul the requirement unless satisfied that the proposed move would have a seriously adverse, and enduring, effect on the tenant's business.

Tenancy to continue while extensions or renewals are negotiated

67. (1) Where—

- (a) a commercial tenancy agreement makes provision for extension or renewal of the term of the tenancy upon its expiration (other than provision for the case where a tenant holds over after its expiration);
- (b) the tenant gives written notice to the landlord within the period provided in the agreement, or, if no such period is provided, not later than three months before the expiration of the term of the tenancy, that he desires an extension or renewal of the term of the tenancy; but
- (c) at the expiration of the term agreement has not been reached between the parties in relation to an extension or renewal, the tenancy shall be deemed to continue upon the same terms and conditions until the matter is resolved by the parties or by determination of the Tribunal made having regard to the terms of the agreement.

(2) Where, on the extension or renewal of a commercial tenancy agreement that is continued after its expiration under subsection (1), there is a variation in the rent that is payable under the agreement, that variation shall be deemed to have applied from the date of expiration of the agreement and, where the rent is increased, the amount of the increase shall be payable by the tenant to the landlord and, where the rent decreased, the landlord shall refund to the tenant any amount overpaid.

67A. (1) Where a commercial tenancy agreement is terminated and goods are left on the premises that were subject to the agreement, the landlord may, after the expiration of two days from the termination of the agreement, remove and destroy or dispose of the goods if—

(11) Where goods are sold by public auction under this section, the purchaser will, unless he or she has actual notice of any interest in the goods of any person other than the tenant, acquire a good title to the goods in defeasance of any such interest.

(12) Where a dispute arises between a landlord and a tenant in respect of goods to which this section applies, the Tribunal may, upon application by either party to the dispute, order the payment of any amount or make such other order as the Tribunal considers appropriate in the circumstances.
