APPENDIX LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

The Parliament of South Australia enacts as follows:

Short title

1. This Act may be cited as the Parliamentary Remuneration Act 1990.

* * * * *

Interpretation

3. In this Act, unless the contrary intention appears—

"basic salary" means annual salary at a rate equal to $2 000 less than the rate from time to time of Commonwealth basic salary;

"benefits" includes non-monetary benefits;

"Commonwealth basic salary" means the annual allowance by way of salary from time to time payable under the law of the Commonwealth to a member of the House of Representatives of the Parliament of the Commonwealth who is not entitled to any additional allowance for holding any office, or performing any function, in, or in relation to, that Parliament or that House.

Remuneration of members of Parliament

4. (1) The remuneration of a member of Parliament comprises—

- (a) the basic salary; and
- (b) if the member holds an office specified in the Schedule—additional annual salary at a rate equal to the percentage of the basic salary specified in the Schedule in relation to that office; and
- (c) such electorate allowances and other allowances, expenses and benefits as are determined from time to time by the Remuneration Tribunal.

(2) A person who holds more than one office as a Minister of the Crown may be paid additional salary and receive allowances, expenses and benefits in respect of one only of those offices.

- (3) Additional salary must be calculated to the nearest dollar.

(4) The Remuneration Tribunal must, in determining electorate allowances and other allowances, expenses and benefits for members of Parliament, have regard not only to their parliamentary duties but also to—

- (a) their duty to be actively involved in community affairs; and
- (b) their duty to represent and assist their constituents in dealings with governmental and other public agencies and authorities.

(5) The electorate allowances and other allowances, expenses and benefits determined by the Remuneration Tribunal for members of Parliament may vary according to—

- (a) the office held by a member; or
- (b) the electorate represented by a member; or

- (c) the place at which a member usually resides; or
- (d) subject to section 4A(3), any other factor that the Tribunal considers relevant.

Non-monetary benefits

4A. (1) A determination of the Remuneration Tribunal, in accordance with section 4, with respect to the provision of non-monetary benefits for members of Parliament may—

- (a) provide for the provision (at the option of a member) of any article, motor vehicle, equipment or service to members; and
- (b) specify the terms and conditions which are to apply to the provision and use of such articles, motor vehicles, equipment or services; and
- (c) provide for the calculation and imposition of any contribution which the member is required to make towards the cost of providing the article, motor vehicle, equipment or service; and
- (d) make any other provision necessary to give effect to the determination.

(2) If the Remuneration Tribunal determines that a contribution is payable by a member of Parliament towards the cost of providing an article, motor vehicle, equipment or service, a member of Parliament may, in accordance with the determination of the Tribunal and despite any other provision of this Act, choose to pay the contribution by any of the following means, or by a combination of the following means:

- (a) by way of a salary sacrifice by the member;
- (b) by way of a reduction in the allowances and expenses that would otherwise be payable to the member;
- (c) by a direct payment by the member to the Treasurer.

(3) Except as provided by subsection (2), a determination of the Remuneration Tribunal must not provide for any reduction in the electorate allowances and other allowances and expenses payable to members of Parliament by reason of the provision of any non-monetary benefits to members.

(4) In making a determination with respect to the provision of non-monetary benefits for members of Parliament, the Remuneration Tribunal must have regard to any non-monetary benefits provided under the law of the Commonwealth to senators or members of the House of Representatives of the Parliament of the Commonwealth, and to the terms and conditions on which such benefits are provided.

(5) A determination of the Remuneration Tribunal with respect to the provision of motor vehicles to members of Parliament must specify a motor vehicle, or range of motor vehicles, that will constitute the standard motor vehicle to be provided to members in accordance with the determination.

(6) A member of Parliament who is, in accordance with a determination of the Remuneration Tribunal, entitled to be provided with a motor vehicle may request the provision of a motor vehicle that is other than a standard motor vehicle specified in the determination, provided that any extra cost involved in the provision of such a motor vehicle is to be borne by the member in accordance with guidelines determined by the Remuneration Tribunal (and is payable in a manner determined under those guidelines).

Cessation of entitlement to remuneration

5. The entitlement of a member of Parliament to remuneration under this Act does not cease by reason of the fact that he or she has ceased to be a member—

- (a) on the dissolution of the House of which he or she is a member; or
- (b) on the expiry of the member's term by the effluxion of time, but such entitlement does cease—

- (c) in the case of the additional salary and allowances, expenses and benefits in respect of an office specified in the schedule—when the person ceases to hold that office; and
- (d) in the case of other remuneration—when a successor is elected as a member of Parliament in his or her place.

Payment from Consolidated Account

6. A member of Parliament is entitled to the remuneration fixed by or under this Act and this section is sufficient authority for the payment from the Consolidated Account of the amounts required for that purpose.

Ability to provide other allowances and benefits

6A. This Act does not limit or affect the ability of the Parliament or the Crown to provide allowances and other benefits that are additional or supplementary to the awards of the Remuneration Tribunal under this Act.

Regulations

7. The Governor may make such regulations as are contemplated by this Act or as are necessary or expedient for the purposes of this Act.
