- (2) Nothing in this Act affects the powers of a court to punish a person for contempt of that court.

8—Court may not impose bond except under this Act

Despite any other Act or law to the contrary, a defendant may not enter into a bond except under this Act.

Part 2—Sentencing purposes, principles and factors

Division 1—Purposes, principles and factors

9—Primary purpose to be considered

For the avoidance of doubt, the primary purpose for sentencing a defendant for an offence must be the paramount consideration when a court is determining and imposing the sentence.

10—General principles of sentencing

- (1) Subject to this Act or any other Act, in determining a sentence for an offence, a court must apply (although not to the exclusion of any other relevant principle) the common law concepts reflected in the following principles:
 - (a) proportionality;
 - (b) parity;
 - (c) totality;
 - (d) the rule that a defendant may not be sentenced on the basis of having committed an offence in respect of which the defendant was not convicted.
- (2) Subject to this Act or any other Act, a court must not impose a sentence of imprisonment on a defendant unless the court decides that—
 - (a) the seriousness of the offence is such that the only penalty that can be justified is imprisonment; or
 - (b) it is required for the purpose of protecting the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).

11—Individual sentencing factors

- (1) In determining a sentence for an offence, a court must take into account such of the factors as are known to the court that relate to the following matters as may be relevant:
 - (a) the nature, circumstances and seriousness of the offence;
 - (b) the personal circumstances and vulnerability of any victim of the offence whether because of the victim's age, occupation, relationship to the defendant, disability or otherwise;
 - (c) the extent of any injury, emotional harm, loss or damage resulting from the offence or any significant risk or danger created by the offence, including any risk to national security;
 - (d) the defendant's character, general background and offending history;
 - (e) the likelihood of the defendant re-offending;
 - (f) the defendant's age, and physical and mental condition (including any cognitive impairment);
 - (g) the extent of the defendant's remorse for the offence, having regard in particular as to whether—

- (i) the defendant has provided evidence that the defendant has accepted responsibility for the defendant's actions; and
 - (ii) the defendant has acknowledged any injury, loss or damage caused by the defendant's actions, or voluntarily made reparation for any such injury, loss or damage, or both;
 - (h) the defendant's prospects of rehabilitation.
- (2) The matters referred to in subsection (1) are in addition to any other matter the court is required or permitted to take into account under this Act or any other Act or law.
- (3) The court must not have regard to any of the factors in sentencing if it would be contrary to an Act or law to do so (and the fact that any such factor is relevant and known to the court does not require the court to increase or reduce the sentence for the offence).
- (4) A court must determine the sentence for an offence without regard to—
- (a) the fact that this Act or another Act prescribes a mandatory minimum non-parole period in respect of the offence; or
 - (b) any consequences that may arise under the Child Sex Offenders Registration Act 2006; or
 - (c) the good character or lack of previous convictions of the defendant if—
 - (i) the offence is a class 1 or class 2 offence within the meaning of the Child Sex Offenders Registration Act 2006; and
 - (ii) the court is satisfied that the defendant's alleged good character or lack of previous convictions was of assistance to the defendant in the commission of the offence.
- (5) For the purposes of subsection (1)(a), the court must only have regard to the matters personal to the defendant that the court is satisfied are causally connected with, or have materially contributed to, the commission of the offence, including (for example) the defendant's motivation in committing the offence and the degree to which the defendant participated in its commission.
- (6) If a defendant has participated in an intervention program, a court may treat the defendant's participation in the program, and the defendant's achievements in the program, as relevant to sentence.
- (7) However, the fact that a defendant—
- (a) has not participated in, or has not had the opportunity to participate in, an intervention program; or
 - (b) has performed badly in, or has failed to make satisfactory progress in, such a program,
- is not relevant to sentence.

Division 2—General sentencing provisions

Subdivision 1—Procedural provisions

12—Determination of sentence

For the purpose of determining sentence, a court—

- (a) is not bound by the rules of evidence; and
- (b) may inform itself on matters relevant to the determination as it thinks fit; and
- (c) must act according to equity, good conscience and the substantial merits of the case without regard to technicalities and legal forms.

13—Prosecutor to provide particulars of victim's injury etc

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), the prosecutor must, for the purpose of assisting a court to determine sentence for an offence, provide the court with particulars (that are reasonably ascertainable and not already before the court in evidence or a pre-sentence report) of—
 - (a) injury, loss or damage resulting from the offence; and
 - (b) injury, loss or damage resulting from—
 - (i) any other offence that is to be taken into account specifically in the determination of sentence; or
 - (ii) a course of conduct consisting of a series of criminal acts of the same or a similar character of which the offence for which sentence is to be imposed forms part.
- (2) The prosecutor may refrain from providing the court with particulars of injury, loss or damage suffered by a person if the person has expressed a wish to that effect to the prosecutor.
- (3) If the offence is not an offence in relation to which a victim impact statement may be provided in accordance with section 14, the court must still allow particulars provided under this section to include a victim impact statement unless the court determines that it would not be appropriate in the circumstances of the case (and the other provisions of this Division relating to victim impact statements apply to such a statement as if it were provided under section 14).
- (4) The validity of a sentence is not affected by non-compliance or insufficient compliance with this section.

14—Victim impact statements

- (1) A person who has suffered injury, loss or damage resulting from an indictable offence or a prescribed summary offence committed by another may provide the sentencing court with a written personal statement (a victim impact statement) about the impact of that injury, loss or damage on the person and the person's family.
- (2) Before determining sentence for the offence, the court may, if the person so requested when providing the statement—
 - (a) allow the person an opportunity to read the statement aloud to the court; or

- (b) cause the statement to be read aloud to the court; or
 - (c) give consideration to the statement without the statement being read aloud to the court.
- (3) If the court considers there is good reason to do so, it may, in order to assist a person who wishes to read aloud a victim impact statement to the court—
 - (a) allow an audio visual record or audio record of the person reading the statement to be played to the court; or
 - (b) exercise any other powers that it has with regard to a vulnerable witness.
- (4) Subject to subsection (5) (but despite any other provision of this Act), the court must, if the person so requested when providing the statement, ensure that—
 - (a) the defendant; or
 - (b) if the defendant is a body corporate, a director or some other representative of the body corporate satisfactory to the court,is present when the statement is read aloud to the court.
- (5) Subsection (4) does not apply if the court is satisfied that special reasons exist which make it inappropriate for the defendant or other person to be present, or that the presence of the defendant or other person may cause a disturbance or a threat to public order and safety (however, in such a case, the court must ensure that the defendant or other person is present by means of an audio visual link or audio link, if such facilities are reasonably available to the court, or that arrangements are otherwise made for an audio visual record of the statement to be made and played to the defendant or other person).
- (6) The validity of a sentence is not affected by non-compliance or insufficient compliance with this section.
- (7) In this section—

prescribed summary offence means—

- (a) a summary offence that results in the death of a victim or a victim suffering total incapacity; or
- (b) a summary offence (other than a summary offence of assault) that results in a victim suffering serious harm;

serious harm means—

- (a) harm that endangers a person's life; or
- (b) harm that consists of loss of, or serious and protracted impairment of, a part of the body or a physical or mental function; or
- (c) harm that consists of serious disfigurement;

total incapacity—a victim suffers total incapacity if the victim is permanently physically or mentally incapable of independent function.

15—Community impact statements

- (1) Any person may make a submission to the Commissioner for Victims' Rights for the purpose of assisting the Commissioner to compile information which may be included in a statement under this section.
- (2) In proceedings to determine sentence for an offence, the prosecutor or the Commissioner for Victims' Rights may, if they think fit, provide the sentencing court with—
 - (a) a written statement about the effect of the offence, or of offences of the same kind, on people living or working in the location in which the offence was committed (a neighbourhood impact statement); or
 - (b) a written statement about the effect of the offence, or of offences of the same kind, on the community generally or on any particular sections of the community (a social impact statement).
- (3) Before determining sentence for the offence, the court will cause the statement to be read aloud to the court by the prosecutor, or such other person as the court thinks fit, unless the court determines that it is inappropriate or would be unduly time consuming for the statement to be so read.
- (4) The validity of a sentence is not affected by non-compliance or insufficient compliance with this section.

16—Statements to be provided in accordance with rules

- (1) A statement to be provided to a court under section 14 or 15 must comply with and be provided in accordance with rules of court.
- (2) Nothing prevents a statement to be provided to a court under section 14 or 15 from containing recommendations relating to the sentence to be determined by the court.
- (3) A copy of a statement to be provided to a court under section 14 or 15 must be made available for inspection by the defendant or the defendant's counsel in accordance with rules of court and the defendant is entitled to make submissions to the court in relation to the statement.

17—Pre-sentence reports

- (1) A court may, if of the opinion that it would assist in determining sentence, order the preparation of a pre-sentence report on any or all of the following matters:
 - (a) the physical or mental condition of the defendant;
 - (b) the personal circumstances and history of the defendant;
 - (c) any other matter that would assist the court in determining sentence.
- (2) However, the court should not order the preparation of a pre-sentence report—
 - (a) if the information sought by the court cannot be provided within a reasonable time; or
 - (b) if the penalty to be imposed is a mandatory penalty for which no other penalty can be substituted and a non-parole period is not in question.
- (3) A pre-sentence report may be given orally or in writing.

- (4) A copy of every written pre-sentence report received by a court must be provided to the prosecutor and to the defendant or the defendant's counsel.
- (5) The person by whom a pre-sentence report is given is liable to be examined or cross-examined on any of the matters contained in the report and, in the case of a written report, must appear before the court for that purpose if requested to do so.
- (6) If a statement of fact or opinion in a pre-sentence report is challenged by the prosecutor or the defendant, the court must disregard the fact or opinion unless it is substantiated on oath.

18—Expert evidence

- (1) If a defendant is to be sentenced for an indictable offence and expert evidence is to be presented to the court by the defendant or the defendant's counsel, written notice of intention to introduce the evidence must be given to the DPP—
 - (a) at least 28 days before the date appointed for submissions on sentence; or
 - (b) if the evidence does not become available to the defence until later—as soon as practicable after it becomes available to the defence.
- (2) The notice must—
 - (a) set out the name and qualifications of the expert; and
 - (b) describe the general nature of the evidence and what it tends to establish.
- (3) The court may, on application by a defendant, exempt the defendant from the obligation imposed by this section.
- (4) If the defence proposes to introduce expert psychiatric evidence or other expert medical evidence relevant to the defendant's mental state or medical condition at the time of an alleged offence, the court may, on application by the prosecutor, require the defendant to submit, at the prosecutor's expense, to an examination by an independent expert approved by the court.
- (5) If a defendant fails to comply with a requirement of or under this section, the evidence will not be admitted without the court's permission (but the court cannot allow the admission of evidence if the defendant fails to submit to an examination by an independent expert under subsection (4)).
- (6) If the DPP receives notice under this section of an intention to introduce expert evidence less than 28 days before the day appointed for submissions on sentence, the court may, on application by the prosecutor, adjourn the sentencing to allow the prosecution a reasonable opportunity to obtain expert advice on the proposed evidence.
- (7) The court should grant an application for an adjournment under subsection (6) unless there are good reasons to the contrary.
- (8) The court may, on application by the prosecution, require the defendant to provide to the prosecution a copy of any report obtained by the defendant from a person proposed to be called to give expert evidence at the sentencing.

19—Court to inform defendant of reasons etc for sentence

- (1) A court must, on sentencing a defendant who is present in court (whether in person or by audio visual link or audio link) for an offence or offences, state the sentence that it is imposing for the offence or offences and its reasons for imposing that sentence, including (for example) any reason why a sentence that would otherwise have been imposed for the offence or offences has been reduced.
- (2) Nothing in subsection (1) requires a court to state any information that relates to a person's cooperation, or undertaking to cooperate, with a law enforcement agency.
- (3) The validity of a sentence is not affected by non-compliance or insufficient compliance with this section.

20—Rectification of sentencing errors

- (1) A court that imposes, or purports to impose, a sentence on a defendant, or a court of coordinate jurisdiction, may, on its own initiative or on application by the DPP or the defendant, make such orders as the court is satisfied are required to rectify an error of a technical nature made by the sentencing court in imposing, or purporting to impose, the sentence, or to supply a deficiency or remove an ambiguity in the sentencing order.
- (2) The DPP and the defendant are both parties to proceedings under this section.

21—Presence of defendant during sentencing proceedings

- (1) Subject to the exceptions set out in subsection (2), a defendant who is to be sentenced for an indictable offence must be present when the sentence is imposed and throughout all proceedings relevant to the determination of sentence.
- (2) The following exceptions apply:
 - (a) the defendant may, with the court's consent, be absent during the whole or part of the proceedings;
 - (b) if a defendant is in custody prior to sentence and facilities exist for dealing with proceedings by means of an audio visual link or audio link, the court may, if of the opinion that it is appropriate in the circumstances to do so, deal with the proceedings by audio visual link or audio link without requiring the personal attendance of the defendant;
 - (c) the court may exclude the defendant from the courtroom if satisfied that the exclusion is necessary in the interests of safety or for the orderly conduct of the proceedings (however, if such an exclusion is made, the court should (if practicable) make arrangements to enable the defendant to see and hear the proceedings by audio visual link).
- (3) If the defendant is a body corporate, the requirement is satisfied by the presence of a director or some other representative of the body corporate satisfactory to the court (but, in that case, either the prosecutor or the court may waive the requirement).
- (4) A court may make any order necessary to secure compliance with this section and, if necessary, issue a warrant to have the defendant (or, if the defendant is a body corporate, a director or other representative of the defendant) arrested and brought before the court.

- (5) This section—
- (a) does not prevent the passing of sentence in the absence of the defendant in a case where the defendant cannot be found; and
 - (b) does not invalidate a sentence passed in the absence of the defendant.

22—Sentencing of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander defendants

- (1) Before sentencing an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander defendant, the court may, with the defendant's consent, and with the assistance of an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Justice Officer—
- (a) convene a sentencing conference; and
 - (b) take into consideration views expressed at the conference.
- (2) Nothing in subsection (1) is to be taken to require the court to convene a sentencing conference if the court, after taking into account all relevant sentencing purposes, principles and factors, determines not to convene a sentencing conference.
- (3) A sentencing conference must comprise—
- (a) the defendant and, if the defendant is a child, the defendant's parent or guardian; and
 - (b) the defendant's legal representative (if any); and
 - (c) the prosecutor; and
 - (d) if the victim chooses to be present at the conference—the victim and, if the victim so desires, a person of the victim's choice to provide assistance and support; and
 - (e) if the victim is a child—the victim's parent or guardian.
- (4) A sentencing conference may also include (if the court thinks the person may contribute usefully to the sentencing process) 1 or more of the following:
- (a) a person regarded by the defendant, and accepted within the defendant's Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander community, as an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander elder;
 - (b) a person accepted by the defendant's Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander community as a person qualified to provide cultural advice relevant to sentencing of the defendant;
 - (c) a member of the defendant's family;
 - (d) a person who has provided support or counselling to the defendant;
 - (e) any other person.
- (5) A person will be taken to be an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person for the purposes of this section if—

- (6) In this section—

- (1) If a court finds a person guilty of an offence but finds the offence so trifling that it is inappropriate to impose a penalty, the court may—
 - (a) without recording a conviction—dismiss the charge; or
 - (b) on recording a conviction—discharge the defendant without penalty.
- (2) If a court finds a person guilty of an offence and—
 - (a) the defendant has spent time in custody in respect of the offence; and
 - (b) the court is satisfied there is good reason not to impose any further penalty on the defendant,the court may—
 - (c) without recording a conviction—dismiss the charge; or
 - (d) on recording a conviction—discharge the defendant without further penalty.
- (3) A court may exercise the powers conferred by this section despite any minimum penalty fixed by an Act or statutory instrument.

24—Imposition of penalty without conviction

If a court finds a person guilty of an offence for which it proposes to impose a fine, a sentence of community service, or both, and the court is of the opinion—

- (a) that the defendant is unlikely to commit such an offence again; and
- (b) that, having regard to—

- (i) the character, antecedents, age, or physical or mental condition, of the defendant; or
- (ii) the fact that the offence was trifling; or
- (iii) any other extenuating circumstances,

good reason exists for not recording a conviction,

the court may impose the penalty without recording a conviction.

25—Court may reduce, add or substitute certain penalties

- (1) Subject to this Act or any other Act that prohibits the substitution or mitigation of a penalty prescribed under the Act, if, on convicting a defendant or finding a defendant guilty of an offence and after having regard to—

- (a) the character, antecedents, age, or physical or mental condition, of the defendant; or
- (b) the fact that the offence was trifling; or
- (c) any other extenuating circumstances, the court thinks that good reason exists for reducing the penalty below the minimum, the court may so reduce the penalty.

- (2) Subject to this Act or any other Act that prohibits the substitution or mitigation of a penalty prescribed under the Act, if, on convicting a defendant or finding a defendant guilty of an offence, the court thinks that good reason exists for departing from the penalty provided for the offence under the Act, the court may—

- (a) impose another type of sentence for the sentence prescribed under the Act for the offence; or
- (b) impose more than 1 type of sentence as the court thinks appropriate in the circumstances.

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)—

- (a) if the Act prescribes a sentence of imprisonment only for the offence, the court may instead impose—
 - (i) a sentence of imprisonment (including a community based custodial sentence or a suspended sentence); or
 - (ii) a fine; or
 - (iii) a sentence of community service; or
 - (iv) both a fine and a sentence of community service; or
- (b) if the Act prescribes a sentence of both imprisonment and a fine for the offence, the court may instead impose—
 - (i) a sentence of imprisonment (including a community based custodial sentence or a suspended sentence) only; or
 - (ii) a fine only; or
 - (iii) a sentence of community service; or
 - (iv) both a fine and a sentence of community service; or

- (c) if the Act prescribes a sentence of imprisonment or a fine in the alternative for the offence, the court may instead impose—
 - (i) a sentence of community service; or
 - (ii) both a fine and a sentence of community service; or
- (d) if the Act prescribes a fine only for the offence, the court may instead impose a sentence of community service.

(4) In this section—

Act includes a statutory instrument;

community based custodial sentence means—

- (a) a sentence on home detention under a home detention order; or
- (b) a sentence to be served in the community while subject to intensive correction under an intensive correction order;

26—Sentencing for multiple offences

- (1) If a person is to be sentenced by a court for a number of offences, the court may sentence the person to the 1 penalty for all or some of those offences, but the sentence cannot exceed the total of the maximum penalties that could be imposed in respect of each of the offences to which the sentence relates.
- (2) However, if any of the offences for which the person is being sentenced is a prescribed designated offence, subsection (1) does not apply to the sentencing of the person for that offence (but nothing in this subsection affects the operation of subsection (1) in respect of the other offences).
- (3) In this section—

prescribed designated offence has the same meaning as in section 96.

27—Non-association or place restriction orders may be issued on sentence

- (1) A court may, on sentencing a person for a prescribed offence, exercise the powers of the Magistrates Court to issue against the defendant a non-association order or a place restriction order under the Criminal Procedure Act 1921 as if a complaint had been made under that Act against the defendant in relation to that conviction (and if the person is already subject to such an order, the court may vary or revoke that order as if an application for variation or revocation of the order had been made under that Act, regardless of whether the order was made by it or by some other court).
- (2) A non-association order or a place restriction order issued or varied under this section on sentencing a person for a prescribed offence—
 - (a) has effect as such an order under the Criminal Procedure Act 1921; and
 - (b) is not a sentence for the purposes of this Act but may be taken into account in determining the sentence for the prescribed offence.

- (3) In this section—

prescribed offence has the same meaning as in Part 4 Division 5 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1921.

28—Intervention orders may be issued on finding of guilt or sentencing

- (1) A court may, on finding a person guilty of an offence or on sentencing a person for an offence, exercise the powers of the Magistrates Court to issue against the defendant a restraining order under the Criminal Procedure Act 1921 or an intervention order under the Intervention Orders (Prevention of Abuse) Act 2009 as if an application had been made under the relevant Act against the defendant in relation to the matters alleged in the proceedings for the offence.
- (2) Before issuing an order under this section, the court must consider whether, if the whereabouts of the person for whose benefit the order would be issued are not known to the defendant, the issuing of the order would be counterproductive.
- (3) If a court, in accordance with this section, determines to exercise the powers of the Magistrates Court to issue a restraining order under section 99AAC of the Criminal Procedure Act 1921, section 99KA of that Act applies to proceedings relating to the restraining order as if—
- (a) the court were the Magistrates Court; and
 - (b) the proceedings were child protection restraining order proceedings within the meaning of that section.
- (4) An order issued under this section—
- (a) has effect—
 - (i) as a restraining order under the Criminal Procedure Act 1921; or
 - (ii) as a final intervention order issued by the court under the Intervention Orders (Prevention of Abuse) Act 2009,as the case may require; and
 - (b) is not a sentence for the purposes of this Act.
- (5) A court must, on finding a person guilty of a sexual offence or on sentencing a person for a sexual offence—
- (a) consider whether or not an order should be issued under this section; and
 - (b) if the court determines that an order should not be issued under this section—give reasons for that determination (and the determination is subject to appeal as if it were an order of the court made on sentence).
- (6) In this section—
- sexual offence* means—
- (a) rape; or
 - (b) compelled sexual manipulation; or
 - (c) indecent assault; or
 - (d) any offence involving unlawful sexual intercourse or an act of gross indecency; or

- (g) an offence of sexual exploitation of a person with a cognitive impairment under section 51 of the Criminal Law Consolidation Act 1935; or
- (h) an attempt to commit, or assault with intent to commit, any of the offences referred to in a preceding paragraph.

29—Deferral of sentence for rehabilitation and other purposes

- (1) A court may, on finding a person guilty of an offence (whether or not it proceeds to conviction), make an order adjourning proceedings to a specified date, and granting bail to the defendant in accordance with the Bail Act 1985—
 - (a) for the purpose of assessing the defendant's capacity and prospects for rehabilitation; or
 - (b) for the purpose of allowing the defendant to demonstrate that rehabilitation has taken place; or
 - (c) for the purpose of assessing the defendant's eligibility for participation in an intervention program; or
 - (d) for the purpose of allowing the defendant to participate in an intervention program; or
 - (e) for any other purpose the court considers appropriate in the circumstances.
- (2) As a general rule, proceedings may not be adjourned under this section (whether by a single adjournment or a series of adjournments) for more than 12 months from the date of the finding of guilt (the usual maximum).
- (3) A court may adjourn proceedings for a period exceeding the usual maximum if the defendant is, or will be, participating in an intervention program and the court is satisfied that—
 - (a) the defendant has, by participating in, or agreeing to participate in, the intervention program, demonstrated a commitment to addressing the problems out of which the defendant's offending arose; and
 - (b) if the proceedings were not adjourned for such a period—
 - (i) the defendant would be prevented from completing, or participating in, the intervention program; and
 - (ii) the defendant's rehabilitation would be prejudiced.
- (4) In considering whether to adjourn proceedings for a period exceeding the usual maximum, a court is not bound by the rules of evidence and may (in particular) inform itself on the basis of a written or oral report from a person who may be in a position to provide relevant information.
- (5) A person who provides information to the court by way of a written or oral report is liable to be cross-examined on any of the matters contained in the report.

- (6) If a statement of fact or opinion in a report is challenged by the prosecutor or the defendant, the court must disregard the fact or opinion unless it is substantiated on oath.
- (7) This section does not limit any power that a court has, apart from this section, to adjourn proceedings or to grant bail in relation to any period of adjournment.

30—Mental impairment

- (1) A court that finds a defendant guilty of a summary or minor indictable offence may release the defendant without conviction or penalty if satisfied—
 - (a) that the defendant—
 - (i) suffers from a mental impairment that explains and extenuates, at least to some extent, the conduct that forms the subject matter of the offence; and
 - (ii) has completed, or is participating to a satisfactory extent in, a suitable intervention program; and
 - (iii) recognises that the defendant suffers from the mental impairment and is making a conscientious attempt to overcome behavioural problems associated with it; and
 - (b) that the release of the defendant under this subsection would not involve an unacceptable risk to the safety of a particular person or the community.
- (2) A court may, at any time before a charge of a summary or minor indictable offence has been finally determined, dismiss the charge if satisfied—
 - (a) that the defendant—
 - (i) suffers from a mental impairment that explains and extenuates, at least to some extent, the conduct that forms the subject matter of the offence; and
 - (ii) has completed, or participated to a satisfactory extent in, a suitable intervention program; and
 - (iii) recognises that the defendant suffers from the mental impairment and is making a conscientious attempt to overcome behavioural problems associated with it; and
 - (b) that dismissal of the charge under this subsection would not involve an unacceptable risk to the safety of a particular person or the community; and
 - (c) that the court would not, if a finding of guilt were made, make an order requiring the defendant to pay compensation for injury, loss or damage resulting from the offence.
- (3) If the defendant is participating in, but has not completed, an intervention program, the court may, instead of dismissing the charge under subsection (2), release the defendant on an undertaking—
 - (a) to complete the intervention program; and
 - (b) to appear before the court for determination of the charge—
 - (i) after the defendant has completed the intervention program; or

- (ii) if the defendant fails to complete the intervention program.
- (4) In deciding whether to exercise its powers under this section, the court—
- (a) may act on the basis of information that it considers reliable without regard to the rules of evidence; and
 - (b) should, if proposing to dismiss a charge under subsection (2) or release a defendant on an undertaking under subsection (3), consider any information about the interests of possible victims that is before it (but is not obliged to inform itself on the matter).

- (5) In this section—

court means—

- (a) the Magistrates Court; or
- (b) the Youth Court; or
- (c) any other court authorised by regulation to exercise the powers conferred by this section;

- (a) supervised treatment; or
- (b) supervised rehabilitation; or
- (c) supervised behaviour management; or
- (d) supervised access to support services; or
- (e) a combination of any 1 or more of the above,

that is suited to address the particular behavioural problems of the defendant relating to the defendant's mental impairment.

Subdivision 3—Taking further offences into account

31—Definitions

For the purposes of this Subdivision—

further offence means an offence referred to in a list of additional charges;

list of additional charges means a document filed in court by the prosecutor as referred to in section 32;

principal offence means an offence the subject of proceedings referred to in section 32(1).

32—Prosecutor may file list of additional charges

- (1) In any proceedings for an offence (the principal offence), the prosecutor may file in the court a document that specifies other offences with which the defendant has been charged, but not convicted, being offences that the defendant has indicated are offences that the defendant wants the court to take into account when dealing with the defendant for the principal offence.
- (2) A list of additional charges may be filed at any time—
 - (a) after the court finds the defendant guilty of the principal offence, and
 - (b) before the court deals with the defendant for the principal offence.
- (3) A copy of the list of additional charges, as filed in the court, must be given to the defendant.
- (4) A list of additional charges—
 - (a) must be signed by the defendant; and
 - (b) must be signed by or on behalf of the DPP or by a person, or a person belonging to a class of persons, prescribed by the regulations.
- (5) A failure to comply with the requirements of this section does not invalidate any sentence imposed by the court for the principal offence.

33—Outstanding charges may be taken into account

- (1) When dealing with the defendant for the principal offence, the court must ask the defendant whether the defendant wants the court to take any further offences into account in dealing with the defendant for the principal offence.
- (2) The court may take a further offence into account in dealing with the defendant for the principal offence—
 - (a) if the defendant—
 - (i) admits guilt to the further offence; and
 - (ii) indicates that the defendant wants the court to take the further offence into account in dealing with the defendant for the principal offence; and
 - (b) if, in all of the circumstances, the court considers it appropriate to do so.
- (3) If the court takes a further offence into account, the penalty imposed on the defendant for the principal offence must not exceed the maximum penalty that the court could have imposed for the principal offence had the further offence not been taken into account.
- (4) A court may not take a further offence into account—
 - (a) if the offence is of a kind for which the court has no jurisdiction to impose a penalty; or
 - (b) if the offence is an indictable offence that is punishable with imprisonment for life.

- (5) For the purposes of subsection (4)(a), a court is taken to have jurisdiction to impose a penalty for an offence even if that jurisdiction may only be exercised with the consent of the defendant.
- (6) Despite subsection (4)(a), the Supreme Court, the Court of Criminal Appeal and the District Court may take a summary offence into account.

34—Ancillary orders relating to offences taken into account

- (1) If a court takes a further offence into account under this Subdivision, the court may make such ancillary orders as it could have made had it convicted the offender of the offence when it took the offence into account, but may not impose a separate penalty for the offence.
- (2) A defendant with respect to whom an ancillary order is made has the same rights of appeal as the defendant would have had if the order had been made on the conviction of the defendant for the further offence.
- (3) An ancillary order for an offence taken into account lapses, by force of this subsection, if the defendant's conviction for the principal offence is quashed or set aside.

- (4) In this section—

ancillary order means an order or direction with respect to restitution, compensation, costs, forfeiture, destruction, disqualification or loss or suspension of a licence or privilege.

35—Consequences of taking offences into account

- (1) If a further offence is taken into account under this Subdivision—
 - (a) the court is to certify, on the list of additional charges, that the further offence has been taken into account, and
 - (b) no proceedings may be taken or continued in respect of the further offence unless the conviction for the principal offence is quashed or set aside.
- (2) This section does not prevent a court that has taken a further offence into account when dealing with a defendant for a principal offence from taking the further offence into account if it subsequently imposes a penalty when sentencing or re-sentencing the defendant for the principal offence.
- (3) An admission of guilt made for the purposes of this Subdivision is not admissible in evidence in any proceedings relating to—
 - (a) the further offence in respect of which the admission was made; or
 - (b) any other offence specified in the list of additional charges.
- (4) An offence taken into account under this Subdivision is not, merely because it is taken into account, to be regarded for any purpose as an offence of which a defendant has been convicted.

- (5) In or in relation to any criminal proceedings, reference may lawfully be made to, or evidence may lawfully be given of, the fact that a further offence has been taken into account under this Subdivision in imposing a penalty for a principal offence of which a defendant has been found guilty if, in or in relation to those proceedings—
- (a) reference may lawfully be made to, or evidence may lawfully be given of, the fact that the defendant was found guilty or convicted of the principal offence; and
 - (b) had the defendant been found guilty or convicted of the further offence so taken into account, reference could lawfully have been made to, or evidence could lawfully have been given of, the fact that the defendant had been found guilty or convicted of that further offence.
- (6) The fact that a further offence has been taken into account under this Subdivision may be proved in the same manner as the conviction for the principal offence.

Subdivision 4—Sentencing reductions

36—Application of Subdivision

Except where the contrary intention expressly appears, this Subdivision is in addition to, and does not derogate from, a provision of this Act or any other Act—

- (a) that expressly prohibits the reduction, mitigation or substitution of penalties or sentences; or
- (b) that limits or otherwise makes special provision in relation to the way a penalty or sentence for a particular offence under that Act may be imposed.

37—Reduction of sentences for cooperation etc with law enforcement agency

- (1) A court may declare a defendant to be a defendant to whom this section applies if the court is satisfied that the defendant has cooperated or undertaken to cooperate with a law enforcement agency and the cooperation—
- (a) relates directly to combating serious and organised criminal activity; and
 - (b) is provided in exceptional circumstances; and
 - (c) contributes significantly to the public interest.
- (2) In determining sentence for an offence or offences to which a defendant has pleaded guilty or in respect of which a defendant has been found guilty, the court may, if the defendant is the subject of a declaration under subsection (1), reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by such percentage as the court thinks appropriate in the circumstances.
- (3) In determining the percentage by which a sentence is to be reduced under this section, the court must have regard to such of the following as may be relevant:
- (a) if the defendant has pleaded guilty to the offence or offences—that fact and the circumstances of the plea;
 - (b) the nature and extent of the defendant's cooperation or undertaking;
 - (c) the timeliness of the cooperation or undertaking;

- (d) the truthfulness, completeness and reliability of any information or evidence provided by the defendant;
- (e) the evaluation (if any) by the authorities of the significance and usefulness of the defendant's cooperation or undertaking;
- (f) any benefit that the defendant has gained or is likely to gain by reason of the cooperation or undertaking;
- (g) the degree to which the safety of the defendant (or some other person) has been put at risk of violent retribution as a result of the defendant's cooperation or undertaking;
- (h) whether the cooperation or undertaking concerns an offence for which the defendant is being sentenced or some other offence, whether related or unrelated (and, if related, whether the offence forms part of a criminal enterprise);
- (i) whether, as a consequence of the defendant's cooperation or undertaking, the defendant would be likely to suffer violent retribution while serving any term of imprisonment, or be compelled to serve any such term in particularly severe conditions;
- (j) the nature of any steps that would be likely to be necessary to protect the defendant on release from prison;
- (k) the likelihood that the defendant will commit further offences, and may have regard to any other factor or principle the court thinks relevant.

- (4) In this section—

serious and organised criminal activity includes any activity that may constitute a serious and organised crime offence within the meaning of the Criminal Law Consolidation Act 1935.

38—Reduction of sentences for cooperation with procedural requirements etc

- (1) If a defendant has not pleaded guilty to an indictable offence but the sentencing court is satisfied that the defendant complied with all statutory or court ordered requirements relating to pre-trial disclosure and procedures and has otherwise conducted the case in a cooperative and expeditious manner, the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 10%.
- (2) In determining the percentage by which a sentence for an offence is to be reduced in accordance with this section, the court must have regard to—
 - (a) the impact of the proceedings on any victim of the offence; and
 - (b) the utilitarian benefit to the community of the defendant's conduct in relation to the proceedings, and may have regard to any factor or principle the court thinks relevant.

39—Reduction of sentences for guilty plea in Magistrates Court etc

- (1) This section applies—
 - (a) if the offence is a summary offence; or

- (b) if the sentencing court is sentencing in relation to a minor indictable offence that has been tried in the same way as a summary offence; or
 - (c) in any other circumstances prescribed by the regulations.
- (2) Subject to this section, if a defendant has pleaded guilty to an offence or offences—
- (a) not more than 4 weeks after the defendant's first court appearance in relation to the relevant offence or offences—the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 40%;
 - (b) more than 4 weeks after the defendant's first court appearance in relation to the relevant offence or offences but—
 - (i) if a date has been set for a trial for the offence or offences—not less than 4 weeks before that day; or
 - (ii) in any other case—before the commencement of the trial for the offence or offences,the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 30%;
 - (c) less than 4 weeks before the day set for trial for the offence or offences, and if the defendant satisfies the sentencing court that the defendant could not reasonably have pleaded guilty at an earlier stage in the proceedings because of circumstances outside of the defendant's control—the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 30%;
 - (d) in circumstances other than those referred to in a preceding paragraph—the sentencing court may, if satisfied that there is good reason to do so, reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 10%.
- (3) If—
- (a) a maximum reduction available under subsection (2) does not apply in relation to a defendant's plea of guilty because the defendant did not plead guilty within the relevant period; and
 - (b) the court is satisfied that the only reason that the defendant did not plead guilty within the relevant period was because—
 - (i) the court did not sit during that period; or
 - (ii) the court did not sit during that period at a place where the defendant could reasonably have been expected to attend; or
 - (iii) the court did not list the defendant's matter for hearing during that period; or
 - (iv) the court was, for any other reason outside of the control of the defendant, unable to hear the defendant's matter during that period; or
 - (v) the prosecution was, for any reason outside of the control of the defendant, unable to finalise negotiations with the defendant in relation to the plea during that period, the court may nevertheless reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed as if the defendant had pleaded guilty during the relevant period.

- (4) In determining the percentage by which a sentence for an offence is to be reduced in respect of a guilty plea made within a particular period, a court must have regard to such of the following as may be relevant:
- (a) whether the reduction of the defendant's sentence by the percentage contemplated would be so disproportionate to the seriousness of the offence, or so inappropriate in the case of that particular defendant, that it would, or may, affect public confidence in the administration of justice;
 - (b) the stage in the proceedings for the offence at which the defendant first indicated the defendant's intention to plead guilty (including whether it would, in the opinion of the court, have been reasonable to expect the defendant to have done so at an earlier stage in the proceedings);
 - (c) whether the defendant was initially charged with a different offence in respect of the same conduct and whether (and at what stage in the proceedings) negotiations occurred with the prosecution in relation to the offence charged;
 - (d) in the case where the defendant has been charged with more than 1 offence—whether the defendant pleaded guilty to all of the offences;
 - (e) whether or not the defendant was made aware of any relevant matter that would have enabled the defendant to plead guilty at an earlier stage in the proceedings,
- and may have regard to any other factor or principle the court thinks relevant.
- (5) For the purposes of this section, a reference to a defendant appearing in a court will be taken to include a reference to a person appearing in a court on behalf of the defendant.

40—Reduction of sentences for guilty pleas in other cases

- (1) This section applies to a court sentencing a defendant for an offence other than an offence described in section 39(1).
- (2) If —
- (a) a defendant in any proceedings is pleading guilty to more than 1 offence; and
 - (b) this section applies to at least 1 of the offences,
- this section will be taken to apply to all of the offences (despite section 39(1)).
- (3) If a defendant has pleaded guilty to an offence or offences—
- (a) not more than 4 weeks after the defendant's first court appearance in relation to the relevant offence or offences—the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 40%;
 - (b) more than 4 weeks after the defendant's first court appearance in relation to the relevant offence or offences but on the day of, or before, the defendant's committal appearance in relation to the relevant offence or offences—the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 30%;

- (c) during the period commencing on the day after the defendant's committal appearance in relation to the relevant offence or offences and ending immediately before the defendant is committed for trial for the offence or offences—the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 20%;

Note—

See also section 110(3) of the Criminal Procedure Act 1921

- (d) during the period commencing immediately after the defendant is committed for trial for the relevant offence or offences and ending immediately after the arraignment appearance of the defendant in a superior court—the sentencing court may reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 15%;
 - (e) during the period commencing immediately after the defendant's arraignment appearance in a superior court in relation to the relevant offence or offences and ending at the commencement of the defendant's trial for the relevant offence or offences—the sentencing court may, if satisfied that there is good reason to do so, reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed by up to 10%.
- (4) If—
- (a) a maximum reduction available under subsection (3) does not apply in relation to a defendant's plea of guilty because the defendant did not plead guilty within the relevant period; and
 - (b) the court is satisfied that the only reason that the defendant did not plead guilty within the relevant period was because—
 - (i) the court did not sit during that period; or
 - (ii) the court did not sit during that period at a place where the defendant could reasonably have been expected to attend; or
 - (iii) the court did not list the defendant's matter for hearing during that period; or
 - (iv) the court was, for any other reason outside of the control of the defendant, unable to hear the defendant's matter during that period; or
 - (v) after the making of the charge determination (within the meaning of section 106 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1921)—the prosecution was, for any reason outside of the control of the defendant, unable to finalise negotiations with the defendant in relation to the plea during that period, the court may nevertheless reduce the sentence that it would otherwise have imposed as if the defendant had pleaded guilty during the relevant period.

- (5) In determining the percentage by which a sentence for an offence is to be reduced in respect of a guilty plea made within a particular period, a court must have regard to such of the following as may be relevant:
- (a) whether the reduction of the defendant's sentence by the percentage contemplated would be so disproportionate to the seriousness of the offence, or so inappropriate in the case of that particular defendant, that it would, or may, affect public confidence in the administration of justice;
 - (b) the stage in the proceedings for the offence at which the defendant indicated an intention to plead guilty (including whether it would, in the opinion of the court, have been reasonable to expect the defendant to have done so at an earlier stage in the proceedings);
 - (c) whether the defendant was initially charged with a different offence in respect of the same conduct and whether (and at what stage in the proceedings) negotiations occurred with the prosecution in relation to the offence charged;
 - (d) in the case where the defendant has been charged with more than 1 offence—whether the defendant pleaded guilty to all of the offences;
 - (e) if the defendant satisfies the court that the defendant could not reasonably have been expected to plead guilty at an earlier stage in the proceedings because of circumstances outside of the defendant's control—that fact;
 - (f) whether or not the defendant was made aware of any relevant matter that would have enabled the defendant to plead guilty at an earlier stage in the proceedings, and may have regard to any other factor or principle the court thinks relevant.

- (6) For the purposes of this section, a reference to a defendant appearing in a court will be taken to include a reference to a person appearing in a court on behalf of the defendant.
- (7) Where proceedings have been instituted in a superior court by the DPP laying an information ex officio in accordance with section 103 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1921, this section applies in relation to those proceedings with the modifications prescribed by the regulations.
- (8) In this section—
committal appearance has the same meaning as in section 109 of the Criminal Procedure Act 1921.

41—Application of sentencing reductions

- (1) For the purpose of applying section 37, 38, 39 or 40 in sentencing a defendant for a particular offence, the sentencing court must—
- (a) first determine the sentence that the court would apply but for the existence of those provisions; and
 - (b) then determine the maximum percentage reduction that is applicable to the sentencing in accordance with those provisions; and
 - (c) then determine the percentage reduction that is, in the opinion of the court, appropriate in the particular case (being not more than the maximum percentage determined in accordance with paragraph (b)); and

- (d) finally, apply the percentage reduction determined in accordance with paragraph (c) to the sentence determined in accordance with paragraph (a).
- (2) A sentencing court that wants to apply section 26 to sentence a defendant to a single penalty for more than 1 offence must, if the court would otherwise be required to apply section 37, 38, 39 or 40 in sentencing the defendant for any 1 or more of those offences (the discounted offences), determine, in accordance with subsection (1), the appropriate sentence for each discounted offence before applying section 26 to determine the total sentence (and for the purposes of section 26, a reference to the maximum penalty that could be imposed in respect of an offence will, in the case of each discounted offence, be a reference to the sentence determined, in accordance with subsection (1), for that discounted offence).
- (3) Nothing in this Subdivision affects the operation of sections 23, 24 or 25.

42—Re-sentencing for failure to cooperate in accordance with undertaking under section 37

- (1) This section applies if—
 - (a) a person is currently serving a sentence of imprisonment for an offence or offences that was reduced by the sentencing court under section 37 (the relevant sentence); and
 - (b) the person has failed to cooperate with a law enforcement agency in accordance with the terms of an undertaking given by the person under that section.
- (2) The DPP may, with the permission of the court that imposed the relevant sentence on the person, apply to the court to have the sentence quashed and a new sentence imposed, taking into account the person's failure to cooperate with the law enforcement agency in accordance with the terms of an undertaking given by the person under section 37.
- (3) The DPP, the chief officer of the law enforcement agency and the person are parties to the proceedings on the application.
- (4) Nothing in this section authorises a court to impose a new sentence that would exceed the sentence that would, but for the reduction given under section 37, have been imposed by the sentencing court under that section.

43—Re-sentencing for subsequent cooperation with law enforcement agency

- (1) This section applies to a person if—
 - (a) the person is currently serving a period of imprisonment for an offence or offences (the relevant sentence); and
 - (b) the person has cooperated with a law enforcement agency.
- (2) A person to whom this section applies may, with the permission of the court that imposed the relevant sentence, apply to the court to have the sentence quashed and a new sentence imposed, taking into account the person's cooperation with the law enforcement agency in accordance with this section.

- (3) The court may only grant permission to make an application under this section if the court is satisfied that the cooperation relates directly to an offence that is, in the opinion of the court, a serious offence that has been committed or may be committed in the future (whether in this or any other jurisdiction).
- (4) The chief officer of the law enforcement agency, the DPP and the applicant are parties to the proceedings on the application.
- (5) In determining a new sentence on an application under this section, the court must have regard to such of the following as may be relevant:
- (a) the nature and extent of the person's cooperation;
 - (b) the timeliness of the cooperation;
 - (c) the truthfulness, completeness and reliability of any information or evidence provided by the person;
 - (d) the evaluation (if any) by the authorities of the significance and usefulness of the person's cooperation;
 - (e) any benefit that the person has gained or is likely to gain by reason of the cooperation;
 - (f) the degree to which the safety of the person (or some other person) has been put at risk of violent retribution as a result of the person's cooperation;
 - (g) whether the cooperation concerns the offence for which the person is being sentenced or some other offence, whether related or unrelated;
 - (h) whether, as a consequence of the person's cooperation, the person would be likely to suffer violent retribution while serving any term of imprisonment, or be compelled to serve any such term in particularly severe conditions;
 - (i) the nature of any steps that would be likely to be necessary to protect the person on release from prison;
 - (j) the likelihood that the person will commit further offences,
- and may have regard to any other factor or principle the court thinks relevant.

- (6) Except as provided in this section, in determining a new sentence on an application under this section, the court must apply the law that was applicable in relation to the relevant sentence at the time that sentence was imposed (and this subsection applies to an application under this section, whether made or determined before or after the commencement of this subsection).
- (7) On an application by a person under this section, the court must not impose a sentence that is more severe than the relevant sentence, but the court may extend the non-parole period where the court passes a shorter sentence.

- (8) In this section—

chief officer of a law enforcement agency means—

- (a) in the case of SA Police—the Commissioner of Police;
- (b) in the case of the Independent Commissioner Against Corruption—the Independent Commissioner Against Corruption;

- (c) in any other case—the person for the time being occupying a position within the agency prescribed by the regulations.

Part 3—Custodial sentences

Division 1—Imprisonment

44—Commencement of sentences and non-parole periods

- (1) If a court imposes a sentence of imprisonment and does not suspend the sentence under Part 4 Division 2, the court must specify the date on which, or the time at which, the sentence is to commence or is to be taken to have commenced.
- (2) If a defendant has spent time in custody in respect of an offence for which the defendant is subsequently sentenced to imprisonment, the court may, when sentencing the defendant, take into account the time already spent in custody and—
 - (a) make an appropriate reduction in the term of the sentence; or
 - (b) direct that the sentence will be taken to have commenced—
 - (i) on the day on which the defendant was taken into custody; or
 - (ii) on a date specified by the court that occurs after the day on which the defendant was taken into custody but before the day on which the defendant is sentenced.
- (3) If a court imposes a sentence of imprisonment on a defendant who is not present in court, the court must direct that the sentence is to commence—
 - (a) on the day on which the defendant is taken into custody under the warrant of commitment issued in respect of the sentence; or
 - (b) if the defendant is subject to some other sentence of imprisonment—on the completion of that other sentence of imprisonment or at some earlier time fixed by the court.
- (4) If a court fixes a non-parole period, the court must specify the date on which the non-parole period is to commence or is to be taken to have commenced.
- (5) If a court directs that a sentence of imprisonment is to be taken to have commenced on the day on which the defendant was taken into custody, any non-parole period fixed by the court in respect of that sentence will be taken to have commenced on that day.
- (6) If, on imposing a sentence of imprisonment, the court fails to specify the date on which or the time at which the sentence is to commence or is to be taken to have commenced, the sentence will—
 - (a) in the case of a defendant not then in custody—commence on the day on which the defendant is subsequently taken into custody for the offence; or
 - (b) in the case of a defendant already in custody for the offence—be taken to have commenced on the day on which the defendant was last so taken into custody; or
 - (c) in the case of a defendant in custody for some other offence—commence on the day on which the sentence is imposed, unless the sentence is to be served cumulatively under this Act or any other Act.

45—Cumulative sentences

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), the court by which a sentence of imprisonment is imposed may direct that the sentence be cumulative on any other sentence, or sentences, of imprisonment or detention in a training centre then being served, or to be served, by the defendant.
- (2) If a sentence of imprisonment is imposed for an offence committed by the defendant—
 - (a) during a period of release on parole or conditional release; or
 - (b) while serving a period of imprisonment under an order of the Parole Board for breach of parole conditions, the sentence will (except where 1 of the sentences to which the defendant is subject is life imprisonment) be cumulative on the sentence, or sentences, in respect of which the defendant was on parole.

- (3) A direction may be given under subsection (1) irrespective of the number of cumulative sentences that the defendant is already serving or will, in consequence of the direction, be liable to serve.
- (4) This section does not apply in relation to a youth unless the youth is sentenced as an adult.

Division 2—Non-parole periods

46—Application of Division to youths

- (1) The following provisions of this Division do not apply in relation to a youth (whether or not the youth is sentenced as an adult, or is sentenced to detention to be served in a prison, or is otherwise transferred to or ordered to serve a period of detention in a prison):
 - (a) section 47(5)(b);
 - (b) section 47(5)(d);
 - (c) section 47(6);
 - (d) section 48.
- (2) The remaining provisions of this Division do not apply in relation to a youth unless the youth is sentenced as an adult, or is sentenced to detention to be served in a prison, or is otherwise transferred to or ordered to serve a period of detention in a prison.
- (3) Section 47 applies in relation to a person who is serving concurrent sentences of imprisonment and detention in a prison as if the person were serving concurrent sentences of imprisonment.

47—Duty of court to fix or extend non-parole periods

- (1) Subject to this section, when a court, on convicting a person of an offence, sentences the person to imprisonment, the court must—
 - (a) if the person is not subject to an existing non-parole period—fix a non-parole period; or

- (b) if the person is subject to an existing non-parole period—review the non-parole period and extend it by such period as the court thinks fit (but not so that the period of extension exceeds the period of imprisonment that the person becomes liable to serve by virtue of the sentence, or sentences, imposed by the court); or
 - (c) if the person is serving a minimum term imposed in respect of an offence under a law of the Commonwealth or is liable to serve such a term on the expiry of an existing non-parole period—fix a non-parole period in respect of the sentence, or sentences, to be served on the expiry of that minimum term.
- (2) If the sentence of imprisonment is imposed for an offence committed during a period of release on parole or conditional release from a previous sentence of imprisonment or detention, the court, in fixing a non-parole period under subsection (1)(a), must have regard to the total period of imprisonment (or detention and imprisonment) that the person is, by virtue of the new sentence and the balance of the previous sentence, liable to serve.
- (3) If a prisoner is serving a sentence of imprisonment but is not subject to an existing non-parole period, the sentencing court may, subject to subsection (5), fix a non-parole period, on application by the prisoner or the presiding member of the Parole Board.
- (4) The fact that the prisoner has completed a non-parole period previously fixed in respect of the same sentence of imprisonment, or that a court has previously declined to fix a non-parole period in respect of that sentence, does not preclude an application under subsection (3).
- (5) The above provisions are subject to the following qualifications:
 - (a) a non-parole period may not be fixed—
 - (i) in respect of a person who is liable to serve a total period of imprisonment (or detention and imprisonment) of less than 12 months; or
 - (ii) in respect of a person who is liable to serve a sentence in the community while subject to an intensive correction order;
 - (b) if fixing a non-parole period in respect of a person sentenced to life imprisonment for an offence of murder, the mandatory minimum non-parole period prescribed in respect of the offence is 20 years;
 - (c) if a person who is subject to a sentence of life imprisonment is further sentenced to imprisonment by the Magistrates Court or the Youth Court, the question of whether a non-parole period should be fixed or extended must be referred to the court by which the sentence of life imprisonment was imposed;
 - (d) if fixing a non-parole period in respect of a person sentenced to imprisonment for a serious offence against the person, the mandatory minimum non-parole period prescribed in respect of the offence is four-fifths the length of the sentence;
 - (e) a court may, by order, decline to fix a non-parole period in respect of a person sentenced to imprisonment if the court is of the opinion that it would be inappropriate to fix such a period because of—

- (i) the gravity of the offence or the circumstances surrounding the offence; or
 - (ii) the criminal record of the person; or
 - (iii) the behaviour of the person during any previous period of release on parole or conditional release; or
 - (iv) any other circumstance.
 - (6) If—
 - (a) a court sentences a person under section 26 to the 1 penalty for a number of offences; and
 - (b) a mandatory minimum non-parole period is prescribed (mandatory period) in respect of any of those offences, any non-parole period to be fixed by the court under that section—
 - (c) must be a period not less than the mandatory period prescribed in respect of the relevant offence; and
 - (d) if there is more than 1 such offence in respect of which a mandatory period is prescribed—must be a period not less than the greater of any such mandatory period; and
 - (e) must be commenced or be taken to have commenced on the date specified by the court (which may be the day on which the person was first taken into custody or a later date specified by the court that occurs after the day on which the defendant was taken into custody but before the day on which the person is sentenced).
- Note—
- See PNJ v The Queen [2009] HCA 6.
- (7) The DPP or the presiding member of the Parole Board or the Training Centre Review Board (as the case may require) may apply to the sentencing court for an order extending a non-parole period fixed in respect of the sentence, or sentences, of a prisoner, whether the non-parole period was fixed before or after the commencement of this Act.
 - (8) The DPP must be notified of an application made by the presiding member of the Parole Board or Training Centre Review Board under this section.
 - (9) In fixing or extending a non-parole period, the court—
 - (a) must, if the person in respect of whom the non-parole period is to be fixed or extended is in prison or a training centre serving a sentence of imprisonment or detention, take into account the period already served; and
 - (b) in the case of an application by the DPP or the presiding member of the Parole Board or Training Centre Review Board under subsection (7), must have regard to—
 - (i) the likely behaviour of the person the subject of the application should the person be released from custody; and
 - (ii) the necessity (if any) to protect some other person or persons generally should the person be released from custody; and

- (iii) the behaviour of the person while in custody (but only insofar as it may assist the court to determine how the person is likely to behave should the person be released); and
 - (iv) such other matters as the court thinks relevant.
- (10) This section does not apply in relation to a person who is serving, or is liable to serve, a sentence of indeterminate duration.
- (11) The Parole Board or the Training Centre Review Board (as the case may require) must, at the request of a sentencing court, make a report to the court on any person in respect of whom the court proposes to fix or extend a non-parole period.
- (12) For the purposes of this section—
 - (a) a court that orders a suspended sentence of imprisonment to be carried into effect will be taken to have sentenced the person to whom the order relates to imprisonment; and
 - (b) the person the subject of an application by the DPP or the presiding member of the Parole Board or Training Centre Review Board under this section is a party to the application and the DPP is a party to an application under subsection (3); and
 - (c) a reference to an offence of murder includes—
 - (i) an offence of conspiracy to murder; and
 - (ii) an offence of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of murder; and
 - (d) the sentencing court means—
 - (i) if the prisoner is subject to a single sentence of imprisonment, or a number of sentences imposed by the 1 court or by a number of courts of coordinate jurisdiction—that court, or a court of coordinate jurisdiction; or
 - (ii) if the prisoner is subject to a number of sentences of imprisonment imposed by courts of different jurisdiction—the court of the highest jurisdiction or a court whose jurisdiction is coordinate with the jurisdiction of that court; and
 - (e) a serious offence against the person means—
 - (i) a major indictable offence (other than an offence of murder) that results in the death of the victim or the victim suffering total incapacity; or
 - (ii) a conspiracy to commit an offence referred to in subparagraph (i); or
 - (iii) aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring the commission of an offence referred to in subparagraph (i); and
 - (f) a victim suffers total incapacity if the victim is permanently physically or mentally incapable of independent function.

48—Mandatory minimum non-parole periods and proportionality

- (1) If a mandatory minimum non-parole period is prescribed in respect of an offence, the period prescribed represents the non-parole period for an offence at the lower end of the range of objective seriousness for offences to which the mandatory minimum non-parole period applies.
- (2) In fixing a non-parole period in respect of an offence for which a mandatory minimum non-parole period is prescribed, the court may—
 - (a) if satisfied that a non-parole period that is longer than the prescribed period is warranted because of any objective or subjective factors affecting the relative seriousness of the offence, fix such longer non-parole period as it thinks fit; or
 - (b) if satisfied that special reasons exist for fixing a non-parole period that is shorter than the prescribed period, fix such shorter non-parole period as it thinks fit.
- (3) In deciding whether special reasons exist for the purposes of subsection (2)(b), the court must have regard to the following matters and only those matters:
 - (a) the offence was committed in circumstances in which the victim's conduct or condition substantially mitigated the offender's conduct;
 - (b) if the offender pleaded guilty to the charge of the offence—that fact and the circumstances surrounding the plea;
 - (c) the degree to which the offender has cooperated in the investigation or prosecution of that or any other offence and the circumstances surrounding, and likely consequences of, any such cooperation.
- (4) This section applies whether a mandatory minimum non-parole period is prescribed under this Act or some other Act.

50—Serious firearm offenders

- (1) A person will, by force of this section, be taken to be a serious firearm offender if the person is convicted of a serious firearm offence (whether the offence was committed as an adult or as a youth).
- (2) Subsection (1) does not apply in relation to a conviction of a serious firearm offence if—
- (a) the defendant was prosecuted and punished as a principal offender in respect of the offence under section 267 of the Criminal Law Consolidation Act 1935; or
 - (b) the defendant's liability in respect of the offence derives solely from the defendant's involvement in a joint criminal enterprise (however described).

51—Sentence of imprisonment not to be suspended

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), but despite any other provision of this Act or any other Act or law, the following provisions apply in relation to the sentencing of a person who is a serious firearm offender for a serious firearm offence (including where the offence is the serious firearm offence that resulted in the person being a serious firearm offender):
- (a) if the maximum penalty for the serious firearm offence includes a period of imprisonment—a sentence of imprisonment must be imposed on the person;
 - (b) the sentence of imprisonment cannot be suspended;
 - (c) section 25 does not apply in respect of the sentencing of the person.
- (2) A court sentencing a person who is a serious firearm offender for a serious firearm offence may declare that subsection (1)(b) does not apply to the person if the person satisfies the court, by evidence given on oath, that—
- (a) the person's personal circumstances are so exceptional as to outweigh the paramount consideration of protecting the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general) and personal and general deterrence; and
 - (b) it is, in all the circumstances, appropriate to suspend the sentence.

Note—

A person who acts as an accessory to the commission of an offence described in paragraph (d) is, by virtue of section 267 of the Criminal Law Consolidation Act 1935, guilty of the principal offence and has, therefore, committed a serious offence.

- (e) an offence that is committed in circumstances in which the offender uses violence or a threat of violence for the purpose of committing the offence, in the course of committing the offence, or for the purpose of escaping from the scene of the offence; or
- (f) a serious firearm offence; or
- (g) a serious and organised crime offence; or
- (h) an offence under the law of another State or a Territory that would, if committed in this State, be a serious offence; serious repeat offender means—

- (a) a person who is a serious repeat offender under section 53(1); or
- (b) a person declared to be a serious repeat offender under section 20B of the Criminal Law (Sentencing) Act 1988 as in force immediately before the commencement of section 17 of the Statutes Amendment (Serious Firearm Offences) Act 2012; or
- (c) a person declared to be a serious repeat offender under section 20B of the Criminal Law (Sentencing) Act 1988 as in force immediately before the repeal of that Act;

serious sexual offence means—

- (a) any of the following serious offences:
 - (i) an offence under section 48, 48A, 49, 50, 56, 58, 59, 60, 63, 63B, 66, 67, 68 or 72 of the Criminal Law Consolidation Act 1935;
 - (ii) an offence under a corresponding previous enactment substantially similar to an offence referred to in subparagraph (i);
 - (iii) an attempt to commit or an assault with intent to commit any of those offences; or
 - (b) an offence under the law of another State or a Territory corresponding to an offence referred to in paragraph (a).
- (2) For the purposes of this Division, an offence (other than a serious firearm offence) will not be regarded as a serious offence unless the maximum penalty prescribed for the offence is, or includes, imprisonment for at least 5 years.
- (3) An offence is one to which this Division applies if the offence is a serious offence and—
- (a) a sentence of imprisonment (other than a suspended sentence) has been imposed for the offence; or
 - (b) if a penalty is yet to be imposed—a sentence of imprisonment (other than a suspended sentence) is, in the circumstances, the appropriate penalty.

53—Serious repeat offenders

- (1) A person will, by force of this subsection, be taken to be a serious repeat offender if—
 - (a) the person (whether as an adult or as a youth)—
 - (i) has committed on at least 3 separate occasions a category A serious offence to which this Division applies (whether or not the same offence on each occasion); and
 - (ii) has been convicted of those offences; or
 - (b) the person (whether as an adult or as a youth)—
 - (i) has committed on at least 3 separate occasions an offence to which this Division applies (whether or not the same offence on each occasion); and
 - (ii) has been convicted of those offences; or
 - (c) the person (whether as an adult or as a youth)—
 - (i) has committed on at least 2 separate occasions a serious sexual offence against a person or persons under the age of 14 years (whether or not the same offence on each occasion); and
 - (ii) has been convicted of those offences; or
 - (d) the person (whether as an adult or as a youth)—
 - (i) has committed on at least 2 separate occasions a category A serious offence (whether or not the same offence on each occasion); and
 - (ii) has been convicted of those offences.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, when determining the number of occasions on which a person has committed a particular kind of offence, the offence for which the person is being sentenced is to be included if it is of the relevant kind.

54—Sentencing of serious repeat offenders

- (1) The following provisions apply in relation to the sentencing of a person who is a serious repeat offender for an offence (including an offence that resulted in the person being a serious repeat offender):
 - (a) the court sentencing the person is not bound to ensure that the sentence it imposes for the offence is proportional to the offence;
 - (b) any non-parole period fixed in relation to the sentence must be at least four-fifths the length of the sentence.
- (2) However, a court that is sentencing a person who is a serious repeat offender for an offence may declare that subsection (1) does not apply if the person satisfies the court, by evidence given on oath, that—
 - (a) the person's personal circumstances are so exceptional as to outweigh the paramount consideration of protecting the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general) and personal and general deterrence; and

- (b) it is, in all the circumstances, not appropriate that the person be sentenced as a serious repeat offender.

55—Declaration that youth is recidivist young offender

- (1) A youth is liable to be declared a recidivist young offender if—
- (a) the youth—
 - (i) has committed on at least 3 separate occasions an offence to which this Division applies (whether or not the same offence on each occasion); and
 - (ii) has been convicted of those offences; or
 - (b) the youth—
 - (i) has committed on at least 2 separate occasions a serious sexual offence against a person or persons under the age of 14 years (whether or not the same offence on each occasion); and
 - (ii) has been convicted of those offences.
- (2) If a court convicts a youth of a serious offence, and the youth is liable, or becomes liable as a result of the conviction, to a declaration that the youth is a recidivist young offender, the court—
- (a) must consider whether to make such a declaration; and
 - (b) if of the opinion that the youth's history of offending warrants a particularly severe sentence in order to protect the community—should make such a declaration.
- (3) If a court convicts a youth of a serious offence, and the youth is declared (or has previously been declared) to be a recidivist young offender—
- (a) the court is not bound to ensure that the sentence it imposes for the offence is proportional to the offence (but, in the case of the Youth Court, the limitations relating to a sentence of detention under section 23 of the Young Offenders Act 1993 apply to the sentence that may be imposed by the Youth Court on the recidivist young offender); and
 - (b) any non-parole period fixed in relation to the sentence must be at least four-fifths the length of the sentence.

Division 5—Offenders incapable of controlling, or unwilling to control, sexual instincts

56—Application of this Division

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), this Division does not apply in relation to a youth.
- (2) The Supreme Court may exercise its powers under section 57 in relation to a youth who is sentenced as an adult under the Young Offenders Act 1993.

- (b) an offence under section 23 of the Summary Offences Act 1953; or
- (c) an offence under a corresponding previous enactment substantially similar to an offence referred to in either of the preceding paragraphs; or
- (d) any other offence where the evidence indicates that the defendant may be incapable of controlling, or unwilling to control, the defendant's sexual instincts; or
- (e) an offence of failing to comply with a reporting obligation relating to reportable contact with a child without a reasonable excuse where the defendant is a registrable offender within the meaning of the Child Sex Offenders Registration Act 2006;

unwilling—a person to whom this section applies will be regarded as unwilling to control sexual instincts if there is a significant risk that the person would, given an opportunity to commit a relevant offence, fail to exercise appropriate control of the person's sexual instincts.

- (2) If, in proceedings before the District Court or Magistrates Court, a person is convicted of a relevant offence and—
- (a) the court is of the opinion that the defendant should be dealt with under this section; or
 - (b) the prosecutor applies to have the defendant dealt with under this section,
- the court will, instead of sentencing the defendant itself, remand the convicted person, in custody or on bail, to appear before the Supreme Court to be dealt with under this section.
- (3) If a person has been convicted of a relevant offence, the Attorney-General may, while the person remains in prison serving a sentence of imprisonment, apply to the Supreme Court to have the person dealt with under this section.

- (4) The Attorney-General may make an application under subsection (3) in respect of a person serving a sentence of imprisonment whether or not an application to the Supreme Court to have the person dealt with under this section has previously been made (but, if a previous application has been made, a further application cannot be made more than 12 months before the person is eligible to apply for release on parole).
- (5) The Supreme Court may, if the Attorney-General has made an application under subsection (3) in respect of a person who is in prison serving a sentence of imprisonment, make an interim order that the person is to remain in custody pending determination by the Supreme Court as to whether to make an order under this section that the person be detained in custody until further order.
- (6) The Supreme Court must, before determining whether to make an order that a person to whom this section applies be detained in custody until further order, direct that at least 2 legally qualified medical practitioners (to be nominated by a prescribed authority for the purpose) inquire into the mental condition of a person to whom this section applies and report to the Court on whether the person is incapable of controlling, or unwilling to control, the person's sexual instincts.
- (7) The Supreme Court may order that a person to whom this section applies be detained in custody until further order if satisfied that the order is appropriate.
- (8) The paramount consideration of the Supreme Court in determining whether to make an order that a person to whom this section applies be detained in custody until further order must be to protect the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).
- (9) The Supreme Court must also take the following matters into consideration in determining whether to make an order that a person to whom this section applies be detained in custody until further order:
 - (a) the reports of the medical practitioners (as directed and nominated under subsection (6)) provided to the Court;
 - (b) any relevant evidence or representations that the person may desire to put to the Court;
 - (c) any report required by the Court under section 61;
 - (d) any other matter that the Court thinks relevant.
- (10) A copy of a report provided to the Supreme Court under subsection (9) must be given to each party to the proceedings or to counsel for those parties.
- (11) If a person to whom this section applies refuses to cooperate with an inquiry or examination for the purposes of this section, the Supreme Court may, if satisfied that the order is appropriate, order that the person be detained in custody until further order having given—
 - (a) paramount consideration to protecting the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general); and
 - (b) consideration to any relevant evidence and representations that the person may desire to put to the Court.

- (12) If a person to whom this section applies has not been sentenced for a relevant offence, the Supreme Court will deal with the question of sentence at the same time as it deals with the question whether an order is to be made under this section and, if the Court decides to make such an order, the order may be made in addition to, or instead of, a sentence of imprisonment.
- (13) If the detention is in addition to a sentence of imprisonment, the detention will commence on the expiration of the term of imprisonment, or of all terms of imprisonment, that the person is liable to serve.
- (14) A person detained in custody under this section will be detained—
- (a) if the defendant is under 18 years of age—in such institution (not being a prison) as the Minister for Youth Justice from time to time directs;
 - (b) in any other case—in such institution as the Minister for Correctional Services from time to time directs.
- (15) The progress and circumstances of a person subject to an order under this section must be reviewed at least once in each period of 12 months—
- (a) if the person is detained in, or released on licence from, a training centre—by the Training Centre Review Board; or
 - (b) in any other case—by the Parole Board,
- for the purpose of making a recommendation about whether the person is—
- (c) if the person is in custody—suitable for release on licence under section 59; or
 - (d) if the person has been authorised to be released, or has been released, on licence under section 59—suitable to be so released.
- (16) The results of a review under subsection (15), including the recommendation of the relevant Board, must be embodied in a written report, a copy of which must be provided to the person the subject of the report, the Attorney-General and—
- (a) in the case of a report of the Training Centre Review Board—the Minister for Youth Justice;

- (2) The Supreme Court must, before determining an application under this section for the discharge of an order for detention under section 57, direct that at least 2 legally qualified medical practitioners (to be nominated by a prescribed authority for the purpose) inquire into the mental condition of the person subject to the order and report to the Court on whether the person is incapable of controlling, or unwilling to control, the person's sexual instincts.

- (3) The paramount consideration of the Supreme Court when determining an application for the discharge of an order for detention under section 57 must be to protect the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).

 - (d) the reports resulting from the periodic reviews under section 57(15) on the progress and circumstances of the person tendered to the Court;
 - (e) any other report required by the Court under section 61;
 - (f) any other matter that the Court thinks relevant.
- (5) A copy of a report provided to the Supreme Court under subsection (4) must be given to each party to the proceedings or to counsel for those parties.

- (1) The Supreme Court may, on application by the DPP or the person, authorise the release on licence of a person detained in custody under this Division.
- (2) The Supreme Court must, before determining an application under this section for the release on licence of a person detained in custody under this Division, direct that at least 2 legally qualified medical practitioners (to be nominated by a prescribed authority for the purpose) inquire into the mental condition of the person and report to the Court on whether the person is incapable of controlling, or unwilling to control, the person's sexual instincts.
- (3) The paramount consideration of the Supreme Court when determining an application under this section for the release on licence of a person detained in custody under this Division must be to protect the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).

- (11) A board cannot exercise its powers under subsection (10) on its own initiative in relation to a person released on licence unless the person and the Crown have been afforded a reasonable opportunity to make submissions to the board on the matter, and the board has considered any submissions so made.
- (12) The appropriate board may only vary or revoke the conditions imposed by subsection (7) on the release of a person on licence if the board is satisfied that—
- (a) there are cogent reasons to do so; and

- (a) summon the person the subject of the proceedings to appear before the board; or
 - (b) in the case of proceedings for cancellation of release—

- (16) A magistrate must, on application under this section, issue a warrant for the apprehension and detention of a person or for the apprehension and return to custody of a person, as the case may require, unless it is apparent, on the face of the application, that no reasonable grounds exist for the issue of the warrant.

- (17) The appropriate board may, if it thinks good reason exists for doing so, cancel a warrant issued under this section at any time before its execution.
- (18) If a person who has been released on licence commits an offence while subject to that licence and is sentenced to imprisonment for the offence, the release on licence is, by virtue of this subsection, cancelled.
- (19) If a person has been subject to a licence under this section for a continuous period of 3 years, the order for the person's detention under this Division will, unless the Supreme Court, on application by the DPP, orders otherwise, be taken to have been discharged on the expiration of that period.

Division 7—Community based custodial sentences

69—Purpose of home detention

- (1) The purpose of a home detention order is to allow a court to impose a custodial sentence but direct that the sentence be served on home detention.

 - (b) the court considers that the sentence should not be suspended under Part 4 Division 2; and

- (c) the court considers that the defendant is a suitable person to serve the sentence on home detention, the court may order that the defendant serve the sentence on home detention (a home detention order).

- (2) The following provisions apply to a home detention order:
- (a) a home detention order must not be made if the court considers that the making of such an order would, or may, affect public confidence in the administration of justice;

 - (i) as an adult to a period of imprisonment with a non-parole period of 2 years or more for a prescribed designated offence; or

 - (d) a home detention order must not be made if the home detention is to be served concurrently with a term of imprisonment then being served, or about to be served, by the defendant;
 - (e) a home detention order should not be made unless the court is satisfied that adequate resources exist for the proper monitoring of the defendant while on home detention by a home detention officer.

- (a) whether the defendant's advanced age or infirmity means that the defendant no longer presents an appreciable risk to the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general);
 - (b) whether the interest of the community as a whole would be better served by the defendant serving the sentence on home detention rather than in custody.

- (5) In this section—

Subdivision 2—Intensive correction

79—Purpose of intensive correction order

- (1) The purpose of an intensive correction order is to provide a court with an alternative sentencing option for a defendant where the court—
 - (a) is considering imposing a sentence of imprisonment of 12 months or less; and
 - (b) considers there is a genuine risk that the defendant will re-offend if not provided with a suitable intervention program for rehabilitation purposes.
- (2) The court should not impose an intensive correction order on a defendant unless the court considers that, given the short custodial sentence that the court would otherwise have imposed, rehabilitation of the defendant is more likely to be achieved by allowing the defendant to serve the sentence in the community while subject to strict conditions of intensive correction.
- (3) Despite the preceding subsections, the paramount consideration of the court when determining whether to make an intensive correction order must be to protect the safety of the community (whether as individuals or in general).

80—Intensive correction not available for certain offences

- (1) The powers vested in a court by this Subdivision—
 - (a) are exercisable despite the fact that an Act prescribes a minimum penalty; but

- (2) In this section—

Act includes a statutory instrument.

81—Intensive correction orders

 - (a) a court has imposed a sentence of imprisonment on a defendant of a term that is 2 years or less; and
 - (b) the court considers that the sentence should not be suspended under Part 4 Division 2; and
 - (c) the court determines that there is good reason for the defendant to serve the sentence in the community while subject to intensive correction, the court may order that the defendant serve the sentence in the community while subject to intensive correction (an intensive correction order).

- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1)(c), the court may determine that, even though a custodial sentence is warranted and there is a moderate to high risk of the defendant re-offending, any rehabilitation achieved during the period that would be spent in prison is likely to be limited compared to the likely rehabilitative effect if the defendant were instead to spend that period in the community while subject to intensive correction.
- (3) The following provisions apply to an intensive correction order:
 - (a) an intensive correction order must not be made if the sentence is to be served concurrently with a term of imprisonment then being served, or about to be served, by the defendant;
 - (b) an intensive correction order should not be made if the court is not satisfied that adequate resources exist for the proper monitoring of the defendant while subject to an intensive correction order by a community corrections officer.
- (4) The court must take the following matters into consideration when determining whether to make an intensive correction order:
 - (a) the impact that the intensive correction order is likely to have on—
 - (i) any victim of the offence for which the defendant is being sentenced; and
 - (ii) any spouse or domestic partner of the defendant; and

- (5) Subject to subsection (6), the court may vary or revoke a condition imposed under this section.

- (2) Despite subsection (1), if the court is satisfied that the failure of the person to comply with the conditions of the intensive correction order was trivial or there are proper grounds on which the failure should be excused, the court—

 - (b) may vary the order (including by extending the term of the order but not so that the order would exceed in aggregate a period of 2 years or imposing a condition of home detention); and
 - (c) may impose a further condition on, or revoke or vary a condition of, the order.
- (3) If a court revokes an intensive correction order and orders that the balance of the sentence be served in custody under subsection (1), the court—

 - (b) may, if it considers that there are special circumstances justifying it in so doing, reduce the term of the sentence of imprisonment; and
 - (c) may direct that the sentence be cumulative on any other sentence, or sentences, of imprisonment then being served, or to be served, by the person.
- (4) If the court imposes a condition of home detention, the terms of the condition require the defendant to reside in a specified place and to remain at that place for a specified period (which may not exceed the balance of the term of the sentence), not leaving it except for 1 of the following purposes:
 - (a) remunerated employment;
 - (b) necessary medical or dental treatment for the defendant;

- (11) If a person subject to an intensive correction order is found guilty of an offence by a court of a superior jurisdiction to that of the court that made the order, being an offence committed during the period of the intensive correction order, any proceedings for breach of condition arising out of the offence are to be taken in the court of superior jurisdiction.

- (2) The powers vested in a court by this Part—
 - (a) are exercisable despite the fact that an Act prescribes a minimum penalty; but
 - (b) are not exercisable in relation to—
 - (i) murder or treason; or
 - (ii) any other offence in respect of which an Act expressly prohibits the reduction, mitigation or substitution of penalties or sentences.
- (3) In subsection (2)—

Act includes a statutory instrument.

Division 2—Bonds, community service and supervision in community

96—Suspension of imprisonment on defendant entering into bond

- (1) Subject to this section, if a court has imposed a sentence of imprisonment on a defendant, the court may, if it thinks that good reason exists for doing so, suspend the sentence on condition that the defendant enter into a bond—
 - (a) to be of good behaviour; and
 - (b) to comply with the conditions of the bond referred to in subsection (2); and
 - (c) to comply with any other conditions of the bond as the court thinks appropriate and specifies in the bond.
- (2) Subject to this Act, a bond under this section is subject to the following conditions:
 - (a) a condition prohibiting the defendant from possessing a firearm or ammunition or any part of a firearm;
 - (b) a condition requiring the defendant to submit to such tests (including testing without notice) for gunshot residue as may be reasonably required by a person or class of persons or body specified by the court.
- (3) A sentence of imprisonment may not be suspended under this section if the defendant is being sentenced—
 - (a) to a sentence of imprisonment that is to be served cumulatively on another term of imprisonment, or concurrently with another term of imprisonment then being served, or about to be served, by the defendant; or
 - (b) as an adult to a period of imprisonment of 2 years or more for a prescribed designated offence; or
 - (c) as an adult for a serious and organised crime offence or specified offence against police; or
 - (d) as an adult for a designated offence and, during the 5 year period immediately preceding the date on which the relevant offence was committed, a court has suspended a sentence of imprisonment or period of detention imposed on the defendant for a designated offence.

- (4) Despite subsection (3)(a), if the period of imprisonment to which a defendant is liable under 1 or more sentences is more than 3 months but less than 12 months, the sentencing court may, by order—
- (a) direct that the defendant serve a specified period (being not less than 1 month) of the imprisonment in prison; and
 - (b) suspend the remainder of the sentence on condition that the defendant enter into a bond of a kind described in subsection (1) that will have effect on the defendant's release from prison.
- (5) Despite subsection (3)(b), if a defendant is being sentenced as an adult to a period of imprisonment of 2 years or more for a prescribed designated offence, the sentencing court may, by order—
- (a) direct that the defendant serve a specified period of the imprisonment in prison (which, if a non-parole period has been fixed in respect of the defendant, must be a period that is one-fifth of the non-parole period fixed); and
 - (b) suspend the remainder of the sentence on condition that the defendant enter into a bond of a kind described in subsection (1) that will have effect on the defendant's release from prison.
- (6) Despite subsection (3)(c) and (d), the court may, if satisfied that exceptional circumstances exist for doing so—
- (a) suspend a sentence of imprisonment imposed on a defendant for a serious and organised crime offence or specified offence against police, or for a designated offence in the circumstances described in subsection (3)(d), on condition that the defendant enter into a bond of a kind described in subsection (1); or
 - (b) make an order under subsection (4) in respect of a defendant being sentenced for a serious and organised crime offence or specified offence against police, or for a designated offence in the circumstances described in subsection (3)(d), if the period of imprisonment to which the defendant is liable under 1 or more sentences is more than 3 months but less than 12 months.
- (7) If the court suspends a sentence of imprisonment under this section on the ground that, because of the defendant's ill health, disability or frailty, it would be unduly harsh for the defendant to serve any time in prison, the court may, in addition to any other conditions included in the bond, include a condition (a home detention condition) requiring the defendant to reside in a specified place and to remain at that place for a specified period of no more than 12 months, not leaving it except for 1 of the following purposes:
- (a) remunerated employment;
 - (b) necessary medical or dental treatment for the defendant;
 - (c) averting or minimising a serious risk of death or injury (whether to the defendant or some other person);

(and if the court includes a home detention condition it must also include a condition requiring the defendant to be under the supervision of a community corrections officer for at least the same period).

the Minister may, by instrument in writing, extend the period within which the person must complete the performance of the community service.

- (2) If the Minister increases the hours of community service to be performed under an order or a bond, the order or bond will be taken to have been amended accordingly.

- (4) If the Minister for Correctional Services is satisfied that a person has failed to comply with an order or a bond requiring performance of community service, the Minister may, by notice in writing served personally or by post, suspend the operation of the order or the relevant condition of the bond until proceedings for breach of the community service order or bond have been determined.

- (i) sentence the probationer for the offence, or convict and sentence the probationer for the offence, as the case may require; or
 - (ii) if the court is satisfied that the failure of the probationer to comply with the conditions of the bond was trivial or that there are proper grounds on which the failure should be excused, refrain from taking any action in respect of the failure; or
 - (d) if the probationer has been sentenced to imprisonment for the original offence and that sentence has been suspended—must, subject to subsection (3), revoke the suspension and order that the sentence be carried into effect.
- (2) The court may not order a person to pay an amount pursuant to subsection (1)(a) unless the court is satisfied that—
 - (a) the person has, or will within a reasonable time have, the means to pay the amount; and
 - (b) payment of the amount would not unduly prejudice the welfare of dependants of the person.
- (3) If a probationer is subject to a suspended sentence of imprisonment and the court is satisfied that the failure of the probationer to comply with the conditions of the bond was trivial or that there are proper grounds on which the failure should be excused, the court may refrain from revoking the suspension and—
 - (a) in the case of a bond requiring performance of community service—may—
 - (i) extend the term of the bond by such period (not exceeding 12 months) as the court thinks fit; or
 - (ii) extend the period within which any uncompleted hours of community service must be performed by not more than 6 months; or
 - (iii) if the period within which the community service must be performed has expired, impose a period of not more than 6 months within which any uncompleted hours of community service must be performed; or
 - (iv) cancel the whole or a number of any unperformed hours of community service; or
 - (v) revoke or vary any other condition of the bond; and
 - (b) in the case of any other bond—may—
 - (i) extend the term of the bond by such period (not exceeding 12 months) as the court thinks fit; or
 - (ii) impose a condition on the bond requiring the probationer to perform a specified number of hours of community service; or
 - (iii) revoke or vary any other condition of the bond; and
 - (c) if the bond has expired in any case—may require the probationer to enter into a further bond, the term of which must not exceed 12 months.
- (4) Section 105 applies in relation to a bond in respect of which a condition requiring the performance of community service is imposed under subsection (3)(b)(ii).

- (5) If a court revokes the suspension of a sentence of imprisonment, the court may make any of the following orders:
- (a) if it considers that there are special circumstances justifying it in so doing—an order reducing the term of the suspended sentence;
 - (b) an order directing that time spent by the probationer in custody pending determination of the proceedings for breach of condition be counted as part of the term of the suspended sentence;
 - (c) in the case of a probationer whose sentence of imprisonment was partially suspended under section 96(5) and even if the term of the sentence now to be served in custody is less than 12 months—an order fixing or extending a non-parole period taking into account the time spent in custody by the probationer before being released on the bond;
 - (d) in the case of a bond with a home detention condition—an order directing that the period of compliance by the probationer with that condition be counted as part of the term of the suspended sentence;
 - (e) an order directing that—
 - (i) in the case of a sentence partially suspended under section 96(4) or (5)—any part of the sentence that the probationer has not served in custody; or
 - (ii) in any other case—the suspended sentence,be cumulative on another sentence, or sentences, of imprisonment then being served, or to be served, by the probationer.
- (6) If a court other than the probative court sentences a probationer for the original offence, the court cannot impose a sentence that the probative court could not have imposed.

Subdivision 2—Community service orders and other orders of a non-pecuniary nature

115—Community service orders may be enforced by imprisonment

- (1) Subject to this section, an order requiring community service is enforceable by imprisonment in default of compliance.
- (2) The term of imprisonment to be served in default of compliance will be—
- (a) a term calculated on the basis of 1 day for each 7.5 hours of community service remaining to be performed under the order; or
 - (b) 6 months,
- whichever is the lesser.
- (3) If it appears to the court, by evidence given on oath, that a person has failed to comply with an order requiring performance of community service, the court may—
- (a) issue a notice requiring the person to appear before the court at the time and place specified in the notice to show cause why a warrant of commitment should not be issued against the person for the default; or
 - (b) issue a warrant for the person's arrest.

- (4) If a person fails to appear before the court as required by a notice issued under subsection (3), the court may issue a warrant for the person's arrest.
- (5) If the court is satisfied that the person has failed to comply with the order requiring performance of community service—
 - (a) the court may issue a warrant of commitment for the appropriate term of imprisonment fixed in accordance with subsection (2); but
 - (b) if the person is a youth, the court may, instead of taking action under paragraph (a), make an order for home detention for a period fixed on the same basis.
- (6) The court may, on issuing a warrant under subsection (5), direct that the imprisonment to which the person becomes liable by virtue of the warrant be cumulative on any other term of imprisonment being served, or to be served, by the person.
- (7) Despite subsection (5), if the court is satisfied that the failure of a person to comply with an order requiring performance of community service was trivial or that there are proper grounds on which the failure should be excused, the court—
 - (a) may refrain from issuing a warrant of commitment; and
 - (b) may—
 - (i) extend the term of the order by such period, not exceeding 6 months, as the court thinks necessary for the purpose of enabling the person to perform the remaining hours of community service (if any);
 - (ii) if the order has expired, impose a further order, for a term not exceeding 6 months, requiring the person to perform the number of hours of community service unperformed under the previous order;
 - (iii) cancel the whole or a number of the unperformed hours of community service under the order.
- (8) However, if the court is satisfied that the person who has failed to comply with the order requiring performance of community service has the means to pay a fine without the person or the person's dependants suffering hardship, the court may—
 - (a) revoke the community service order; and
 - (b) impose a fine not exceeding the maximum fine that may be imposed for the offence in respect of which the community service order was made (or, if the order was made in respect of more than 1 offence—the total of the maximum fines that may be imposed for the offences).
- (9) In imposing a fine under subsection (8), the court must take into account the number of hours of community service (if any) that the person performed under the revoked order.

116—Other non-pecuniary orders may be enforced by imprisonment

- (1) If it appears to the court, by evidence given on oath, that a person has failed to comply with an order requiring the person to do some act (other than the performance of community service or the payment of a pecuniary sum), the court may—
 - (a) issue a notice requiring the person to appear before the court at the time and place specified in the notice to show cause why the person should not be dealt with for the default; or
 - (b) issue a warrant for the person's arrest.
- (2) If a person fails to appear before the court as required by a notice issued under subsection (1), the court may issue a warrant for the person's arrest.
- (3) If the court is satisfied that the person has failed to comply with the order, the court may sentence the person to such term of imprisonment (not exceeding 6 months) as the court thinks fit and issue a warrant of commitment accordingly.
- (4) The court may, on issuing a warrant under subsection (3), direct that the imprisonment to which the person becomes liable by virtue of the warrant be cumulative on any other term of imprisonment being served, or to be served, by the person.

117—Registrar may exercise jurisdiction under this Division

- (1) Subject to rules of court or the regulations, the powers of a court under sections 115 and 116 are exercisable by—
 - (a) if the person in relation to whom the powers are to be exercised is a youth—the Registrar of the Youth Court;
 - (b) in any other case—a Registrar of the Magistrates Court.
- (2) Subject to rules of court or the regulations, a person who is aggrieved by a decision or order of a Registrar made under subsection (1) may apply in accordance with rules of court to the court for a review of the decision or order.
- (3) The court may, on completion of the review—
 - (a) confirm the decision or order;
 - (b) quash the decision or order and substitute any decision or order that could have been made in the first instance;
 - (c) make any ancillary order (including an order as to costs) the court thinks fit.

118—Detention in prison

- (a) where the youth is already in custody in a prison, the youth will serve the detention in a prison; or
- (b) where the youth has previously served a sentence of imprisonment or detention in a prison, the court may direct that the youth serve the detention in a prison, and the Correctional Services Act 1982 applies to and in relation to a youth serving detention in a prison under this section.

120—Order for payment of pecuniary sum not to be made in certain circumstances

- (1) The court must not make an order requiring a defendant to pay a pecuniary sum (other than a VIC levy) if the court is satisfied that the means of the defendant, so far as they are known to the court, are such that—
 - (a) the defendant would be unable to comply with the order; or
 - (b) compliance with the order would unduly prejudice the welfare of dependants of the defendant,(and in such a case the court may, if it thinks fit, order the payment of a lesser amount).
- (2) Subject to subsection (3), the court is not obliged to inform itself as to the defendant's means, but it should consider any evidence on the subject that the defendant or the prosecutor has placed before it.
- (3) In considering whether the defendant would be able to comply with the order, the court should have regard to any information available to the court as to other pecuniary sums that have been paid, or are payable, by the defendant.

121—Preference must be given to compensation for victims

If a court considers—

- (a) that it is appropriate—
 - (i) to make an order for compensation (under this Act or any other Act); and

- (b) that the defendant has insufficient means to pay both the compensation and the fine or other pecuniary sum, the court must give preference to compensation.

122—Court not to fix time for payment of pecuniary sums

- (1) If a court makes an order requiring a defendant to pay a pecuniary sum, the court is not empowered to make any order relating to the time or manner in which the sum is to be paid.

- the court must, if it does not make an order for compensation, give its reasons for not doing so.
- (4) Compensation under this section will be of such amount as the court considers appropriate having regard to any evidence before the court and to any representations made by or on behalf of the prosecutor or the defendant.
- (5) If property of which a person was dispossessed as a result of the offence is recovered, any damage to the property while it was out of the person's possession is to be treated for the purposes of this section as having resulted from the offence.

 - (c) the Magistrates Court may not award more than $20 000 (or if a greater amount is prescribed—the prescribed amount) by way of compensation.
- (7) Compensation may be ordered under this section in relation to an offence despite the fact that compensation may be ordered under some other statutory provision that relates more specifically to the offence or proceedings in respect of the offence.
- (8) The amount paid to a person pursuant to an order under this section for compensation for injury, loss or damage must be taken into consideration by a court or any other body in awarding compensation for that injury, loss or damage under any other Act or law.

- (2) On receiving a request under this section in relation to an order requiring the restitution of property, an authorised officer may—
- (a) enter any land (using such force as may be necessary) on which the officer reasonably suspects the property is situated and seize and remove the property; or
