- (ii) the addressee has become aware that the electronic communication has been sent to that address.
- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), unless otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee of the electronic communication, it is to be assumed that the electronic communication is capable of being retrieved by the addressee when it reaches the addressee's electronic address.
- (3) Subsection (1) applies even though the place where the information system supporting an electronic address is located may be different from the place where the electronic communication is taken to have been received under section 13B.

13B—Place of dispatch and place of receipt

- (1) For the purposes of a law of this jurisdiction, unless otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee of an electronic communication—
 - (a) the electronic communication is taken to have been dispatched at the place where the originator has its place of business; and
 - (b) the electronic communication is taken to have been received at the place where the addressee has its place of business.
- (2) For the purposes of the application of subsection (1) to an electronic communication—
 - (a) a party's place of business is assumed to be the location indicated by that party, unless another party demonstrates that the party making the indication does not have a place of business at that location; and
 - (b) if a party has not indicated a place of business and has only 1 place of business, it is to be assumed that that place is the party's place of business; and
 - (c) if a party has not indicated a place of business and has more than 1 place of business, the place of business is that which has the closest relationship to the underlying transaction, having regard to the circumstances known to or contemplated by the parties at any time before or at the conclusion of the transaction; and
 - (d) if a party has not indicated a place of business and has more than 1 place of business, but paragraph (c) does not apply—it is to be assumed that the party's principal place of business is the party's only place of business; and
 - (e) if a party is a natural person and does not have a place of business—it is to be assumed that the party's place of business is the place of the party's habitual residence.

- (3) A location is not a place of business merely because that is—
 - (a) where equipment and technology supporting an information system used by a party are located; or
 - (b) where the information system may be accessed by other parties.
- (4) The sole fact that a party makes use of a domain name or electronic mail address connected to a specific country does not create a presumption that its place of business is located in that country.

11—Amendment of section 14—Attribution of electronic communications

Section 14(3) and (4)—delete subsections (3) and (4)

12—Insertion of Part 2A

After Part 2 insert:

Part 2A—Additional provisions applying to contracts involving electronic communications

15	14A—Application and operation of Part
	This Part applies to the use of electronic communications in connection with the formation or performance of a contract between parties where the proper law of the contract is (or would on its formation be) the law of this jurisdiction, and so applies—
20	(a) whether some or all of the parties are located within Australia or elsewhere; and
	(b) whether the contract is for business purposes, for personal, family or household purposes, or for other purposes.
	14B—Invitation to treat regarding contracts
25	(1) A proposal to form a contract made through 1 or more electronic communications that—
	(a) is not addressed to 1 or more specific parties; and
	(b) is generally accessible to parties making use of information systems,
30	is to be considered as an invitation to make offers, unless it clearly indicates the intention of the party making the proposal to be bound in case of acceptance.
35	(2) Subsection (1) extends to proposals that make use of interactive applications for the placement of orders through information systems.

14C		automated message systems for contract on—non-intervention of natural person
	A cont	ract formed by—
5	(a)	the interaction of an automated message system and a natural person; or
	(b)	the interaction of automated message systems,
10	natural actions	nvalid, void or unenforceable on the sole ground that no person reviewed or intervened in each of the individual carried out by the automated message systems or the ng contract.
14D	-Error	in electronic communications regarding contracts
15	notice that the	ection applies in relation to a statement, declaration, demand, or request, including an offer and the acceptance of an offer, e parties are required to make or choose to make in connection e formation or performance of a contract.
(2) If—
	(a)	a natural person makes an input error in an electronic communication exchanged with the automated message system of another party; and
20	(b)	the automated message system does not provide the person with an opportunity to correct the error, the right	son, or the party on whose behalf the person was acting, has nt to withdraw the portion of the electronic communication in the input error was made if—
25	(c)	the person, or the party on whose behalf the person was acting, notifies the other party of the error as soon as possible after having learned of the error and indicates that he or she made an error in the electronic communication; and
30	(d)	the person, or the party on whose behalf the person was acting, has not used or received any material benefit or value from the goods or services, if any, received from the other party.
35	under t	the of withdrawal of a portion of an electronic communication his section is not of itself a right to rescind or otherwise ate a contract.

(4)	The consequences (if any) of the exercise of the right of withdrawal of a portion of an electronic communication under this section are be determined in accordance with any applicable rule of law

In some circumstances the withdrawal of a portion of an electronic communication may invalidate the entire communication or render it ineffective for the purposes of contract formation (see paragraph 241 of the UNCITRAL explanatory note for the United Nations Convention on the Use of Electronic Communications in International Contracts).

14E—Application of Act in relation to contracts

- (1) Subject to subsection (2), the provisions of sections 7, 13, 13A and 13B apply to—
 - (a) a transaction constituted by or relating to a contract; or
 - (b) an electronic communication relating to the formation or performance of a contract, in the same way as they apply to a transaction or electronic communication referred to in that Part, and so apply as if the words "For the purposes of a law of this jurisdiction" and "under a law of this jurisdiction" were omitted.

- (2) However, this Part (including subsection (1)) does not apply to or in relation to a contract to the extent that—
 - (a) Part 2 would of its own force have the same effect as this Part if this Part applied; or
 - (b) a law of another State or Territory (that is in substantially the same terms as Part 2) would of its own force have the same effect as this Part if this Part applied.

Note—

30This section applies provisions of Part 2 to contracts or proposed contracts to the extent (if any) that those provisions do not apply merely because they are expressed to apply in relation to "a law of this jurisdiction". This section also disapplies the provisions of Part 2A to the extent that Part 2 would apply of its own force. An example where Part 2 may not apply of its own force is where a contract is being negotiated in a State or Territory from a supplier located overseas.
