Schedule 1—Transitional provision

1—Transitional provision

(1) On the commencement of this clause—

(a) despite the provisions of section 16B(1) of the Parliamentary Committees Act 1991, the Legislative Review Committee is not required to inquire into, consider or report on a relevant petition; and

(b) the House in which a relevant petition was tabled must refer the relevant petition to an appropriate Committee; and

(c) any evidence received by the Legislative Review Committee during an inquiry into a relevant petition—

(i) is, by force of this paragraph, referred to the Committee to which the relevant petition has been referred pursuant to paragraph (b) for its consideration; and

(ii) must be provided by the Legislative Review Committee to the Committee to which the relevant petition has been referred.

(2) In this clause—

eligible petition has the same meaning as in section 16B of the Parliamentary Committees Act 1991;

relevant petition means an eligible petition that has, on or after 5 May 2023, been referred to the Legislative Review Committee pursuant to section 16B of the Parliamentary Committees Act 1991 as in force before the commencement of this clause.
