- (b) in the case of a restraining order that covers the property of a person who is not the suspect—
 - (i) the person applies to the court to exclude the property; and
 - (ii) the person gives written notice of the application to the DPP; and
 - (iii) the person gives an undertaking concerning the person's property that is satisfactory to the court.

Division 4—Further orders

39—Court may order Administrator to take custody and control of property

The court that made a restraining order, or any other court that could have made the restraining order, may order the Administrator to take custody and control of property covered by a restraining order if the court is satisfied that this is required.

40—Ancillary orders

- (1) The court that made a restraining order, or any other court that could have made the restraining order, may make any ancillary orders that the court considers appropriate including (without limiting the generality of this subsection) any of the following orders—
 - (a) an order varying the property covered by the restraining order;
 - (b) an order varying a condition to which the restraining order is subject;
 - (c) an order relating to an undertaking required under section 26;

 - (e) if the Administrator is ordered under section 39 to take custody and control of property, an order—
 - (i) regulating the manner in which the Administrator may exercise its powers or perform its duties under the restraining order; or
 - (ii) determining any question relating to the property, including a question relating to the liabilities of the owner or the exercise of powers or the performance of duties of the Administrator; or

- (iii) directing any person to do anything necessary or convenient to enable the Administrator to take custody and control of the property;
 - (f) an order giving directions about the operation of the restraining order and—
 - (i) a forfeiture order that covers the same property as the restraining order; or
 - (ii) a pecuniary penalty order or a literary proceeds order that relates to the same serious offence as the restraining order;
 - (g) an order requiring a person whose property is covered by a restraining order to do anything necessary or convenient to bring the property within the State.
- (2) The court may only make an ancillary order on the application of—
- (a) the DPP; or
 - (b) the owner of the property covered by the order; or
 - (c) if the Administrator was ordered to take custody and control of the property—the Administrator; or
 - (d) any other person who has the leave of the court.
- (3) A person who applies for an ancillary order must give written notice of the application to all other persons entitled to make such an application.
- (4) A court may, if the DPP requests, consider the application without notice having been given under subsection (3).
- (5) An ancillary order may be made—
- (a) if made by the court that made the restraining order—when making the restraining order; or
 - (b) in any case—at any time after the restraining order is made.
- (6) An order that is ancillary to a restraining order does not cease to have effect merely because the restraining order, or part of it, ceases to be in force under section 46(4) or (5).

41—Contravening ancillary orders relating to foreign property

A person who knowingly or recklessly contravenes an order made under section 40(1)(g) is guilty of an offence.

Maximum penalty: $20 000 or imprisonment for 4 years.

Division 5—Duration of restraining orders

42—When a restraining order comes into force

A restraining order is in force from the time it is made.

43—Application to revoke a restraining order

- (1) A person who was not notified of the application for a restraining order may apply to the court that made the order to revoke the order—
- (a) within 28 days after the person is notified that the order was made; or

- (b) within such longer period (not exceeding 3 months after the person is notified that the order was made) as the court allows.
- (2) The applicant must give written notice to the DPP and, if a person other than the DPP is appointed to act as the Administrator under this Act, the Administrator of the application and the grounds on which the revocation is sought.
- (3) The court may revoke the restraining order if satisfied there are no grounds on which to make the restraining order at the time of considering an application under subsection (1).
- (4) However, the restraining order remains in force until the court revokes the order.
- (5) The DPP may adduce additional material to the court relating to the application to revoke the restraining order.

44—Giving security etc to revoke a restraining order

A court may revoke a restraining order that covers property if—

- (a) in the case of a restraining order that covers the property of the suspect—
 - (i) the suspect applies to the court to revoke the order; and
 - (ii) the suspect gives written notice of the application to the DPP; and
 - (iii) the suspect gives security that is satisfactory to the court to meet any liability that may be imposed on the suspect under this Act; or
- (b) in the case of a restraining order that covers the property of a person who is not the suspect—
 - (i) the person applies to the court to revoke the order; and
 - (ii) the person gives written notice of the application to the DPP; and
 - (iii) the person gives an undertaking concerning the person's property that is satisfactory to the court.

45—Notice of revocation of a restraining order

If a restraining order is revoked under section 43 or 44, the DPP must give written notice of the revocation to—

- (a) the owner of any property covered by the restraining order (if the owner is known); and
- (b) any other person the DPP reasonably believes may have an interest in the property, however, the DPP need not give notice to the applicant for the order.

46—Cessation of restraining orders

- (1) A restraining order that relates to one or more serious offences ceases to be in force 28 days after—
 - (a) all charges that relate to the restraining order are withdrawn; or
 - (b) the suspect is acquitted of all serious offences with which the suspect was charged; or

- (c) the convictions for the serious offences of which the suspect was convicted are quashed,
- unless—
- (d) there is a confiscation order that relates to the serious offences; or
 - (e) there is an application for a confiscation order that relates to the serious offences before the court; or
 - (f) there is an application under—
 - (i) section 64; or
 - (ii) section 83; or
 - (iii) section 125,for confirmation of a forfeiture, or a confiscation order, that relates to the serious offences; or
 - (g) the suspect is charged with a related offence.
- (2) A restraining order relating to property ceases to be in force if, not more than 28 days after the order was made—
- (a) the suspect has not been convicted of, or charged with, the serious offence, or at least one serious offence, to which the restraining order relates; and
 - (b) there is no confiscation order or application for a confiscation order that relates to the property.
- (3) A restraining order ceases to be in force in respect of property covered by the restraining order if—
- (a) one of the following occurs:
 - (i) the court refuses an application for a forfeiture order that would have covered the property and—
 - (A) the time for an appeal against the refusal has expired without an appeal being lodged; or
 - (B) an appeal against the refusal has lapsed; or
 - (C) an appeal against the refusal has been dismissed and finally disposed of;
 - (ii) the court excludes the property from a forfeiture order;
 - (iii) a forfeiture order that covers the property is discharged or ceases to have effect;
 - (iv) the court excludes the property under section 76 from forfeiture under Part 4 Division 2; and
 - (b) no application is yet to be determined for—
 - (i) another confiscation order relating to a serious offence to which the restraining order relates; or
 - (ii) another confiscation order relating to a related offence; and

- (c) no other confiscation order relating to an offence referred to in paragraph (b) is in force.
- (4) A restraining order ceases to be in force to the extent that property that it covers vests absolutely in the Crown under Part 4 Division 2 or Division 3.
- (5) A restraining order that relates to one or more serious offences ceases to be in force in respect of property covered by the restraining order if—
 - (a) a pecuniary penalty order or a literary proceeds order relates to the offence or offences; and
 - (b) one or more of the following occurs:
 - (i) the pecuniary penalty order or the literary proceeds order is satisfied;
 - (ii) the property is sold or disposed of to satisfy the pecuniary penalty order or literary proceeds order;
 - (iii) the pecuniary penalty order or the literary proceeds order is discharged or ceases to have effect.
- (6) Despite subsection (1), if—
 - (a) a restraining order covers property of a person who is not a suspect; and
 - (b) the property is an instrument of, but is not proceeds of, a serious offence to which the order relates; and
 - (c) the property is not subject to the effective control of another person who is a suspect in relation to the order, the restraining order ceases to be in force in respect of that property if the suspect has not been charged with the serious offence or a related offence within 28 days after the restraining order is made.

Part 4—Forfeiture

Division 1—Forfeiture orders

Subdivision 1—Forfeiture orders

47—Forfeiture orders

- (1) A court must, on application by the DPP, make an order (a forfeiture order) that property specified in the order is forfeited to the Crown if—
 - (a) a person has been convicted of one or more serious offences and the court is satisfied that the property to be specified in the order is proceeds of one or more of those offences; or
 - (b) the property to be specified in the order is covered by a restraining order made under section 24(1)(b) that has been in force for at least 6 months and the court is satisfied that the property is proceeds of one or more serious offences committed by the person whose conduct (or suspected conduct) formed the basis of the restraining order; or

- (c) the property to be specified in the order is covered by a restraining order made under section 24(1)(c) that has been in force for at least 6 months and the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the application for the order alleges that the property is proceeds of one or more serious offences; and
 - (ii) no application has been made under Part 3 Division 3 for the property to be excluded from the restraining order, or that any such application has been withdrawn; and
 - (iii) the DPP has taken reasonable steps to identify and notify persons with an interest in the property.
- (2) For the purposes of making an order under subsection (1)(b) or (c)—
 - (a) a finding of the court under either of those paragraphs need not be based on a finding as to the commission of a particular serious offence; and
 - (b) the fact that a person has been acquitted of a serious offence with which the person has been charged, or the raising of a doubt as to whether a person engaged in conduct constituting a serious offence, does not affect the court's power to make the order under either of those paragraphs in relation to the offence; and
 - (c) in relation to an order under subsection (1)(c)—a finding of the court under that paragraph need not be based on a finding that a particular person committed any offence.
- (3) A court may, on application by the DPP, make an order (a forfeiture order) that property specified in the order is forfeited to the Crown, if—
 - (a) a person has been convicted of one or more serious offences the court is satisfied that the property is an instrument of one or more of the offences or is subject to an instrument substitution declaration under section 48; or
 - (b) the property to be specified in the order is covered by a restraining order made under section 24(1)(b) that has been in force for at least 6 months and the court is satisfied that the property is an instrument of one or more serious offences committed by the person whose conduct (or suspected conduct) formed the basis of the restraining order; or
 - (c) the property to be specified in the order is covered by a restraining order made under section 24(1)(c) that has been in force for at least 6 months and the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the application for the order alleges that the property is an instrument of one or more serious offences; and
 - (ii) no application has been made under Part 3 Division 3 for the property to be excluded from the restraining order, or that any such application has been withdrawn; and
 - (iii) the DPP has taken reasonable steps to identify and notify persons with an interest in the property.

- (4) In considering whether it is appropriate to make a forfeiture order under subsection (3) in respect of particular property, the court may have regard to—
- (a) any hardship that may reasonably be expected to be caused to any person (other than the suspect) by the operation of the order; and
 - (b) the use that is ordinarily made, or was intended to be made, of the property; and
 - (c) the gravity of the offence or offences concerned; and
 - (d) any other matter the court thinks fit.
- (5) If evidence is given, at the hearing of an application for a forfeiture order under this section that relates to a person's conviction for a serious offence, that property was in the possession of a person at the time at which, or immediately after, the person committed a serious offence to which the application relates—
- (a) if no evidence is given that tends to show that the property was not used in, or in connection with, the commission of the offence—the court must presume that the property was used in, or in connection with, the commission of the offence; or
 - (b) in any other case—the court must not make a forfeiture order against the property unless it is satisfied that the property was used or intended to be used in, or in connection with, the commission of the offence.
- (6) An application for a forfeiture order under this section that relates to a person's conviction for a serious offence must be made before the end of the period of 6 months after the conviction day.
- (7) A court must not, if a person is taken under section 5(1)(d) to have been convicted of a serious offence, make a forfeiture order relating to the person's conviction unless—
- (a) the court is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the person has absconded; and
 - (b) either—
 - (i) the person has been committed for trial for the offence; or
 - (ii) the court is satisfied, having regard to all the evidence before the court, that a reasonable jury, properly instructed, or the Magistrates Court (as the case requires) could lawfully find the person guilty of the offence.

48—Instrument substitution declarations

A court determining an application for a forfeiture order relating to a person's conviction of a serious offence may, on the application of the DPP, declare property to be subject to an instrument substitution declaration if satisfied that—

- (a) the convicted person had, at the time of the offence, an interest in the property; and
- (b) the property is of the same nature or description as property that was an instrument of the offence (whether or not the property is of the same value); and

- (c) the property that was an instrument of the offence is not available for forfeiture or is not able to be made the subject of an order for forfeiture.

49—Additional application for a forfeiture order

- (1) The DPP cannot, unless the court gives leave, apply for a forfeiture order under section 47 in relation to a serious offence if—
 - (a) an application has previously been made under that section for the forfeiture of the property in relation to the offence; and
 - (b) the application has been finally determined on the merits.
- (2) The court must not give leave unless it is satisfied that—
 - (a) the property to which the new application relates was identified only after the first application was determined; or
 - (b) necessary evidence became available only after the first application was determined; or
 - (c) it is in the interests of justice to grant the leave.
- (3) To avoid doubt, the DPP may apply for a forfeiture order against property in relation to a serious offence even though an application has previously been made for a pecuniary penalty order or a literary proceeds order in relation to the offence.

50—Notice of application

- (1) The DPP must give written notice of an application for a forfeiture order—
 - (a) if the order is sought relating to a person’s conviction of a serious offence—to the person; and
 - (b) to any other person—
 - (i) who claims an interest in; or
 - (ii) who the DPP reasonably believes may have an interest in,the property covered by the application.
- (2) However, a court to which an application for a forfeiture order is made may, on the application of the DPP, dispense with the requirement to give notice to a person under subsection (1) if the court is satisfied that the person has absconded in connection with an offence.
- (3) The court may, at any time before finally determining an application for a forfeiture order—
 - (a) direct the DPP to give or publish notice of the application to a specified person or class of persons; and
 - (b) specify the time and manner in which the notice is to be given or published.

51—Procedure on application

- (1) A person who claims an interest in property covered by an application for a forfeiture order may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application.

- (2) If the application relates to a person's conviction of a serious offence, a court may, in determining the application, have regard to—
 - (a) the transcript of any proceedings against the person for—
 - (i) that offence; or
 - (ii) if the person is taken to be convicted of the offence because of section 5(1)(c)—the other offence referred to in that paragraph; and
 - (b) any evidence given in the proceedings.
 - (3) The court may make a forfeiture order if a person entitled to be given notice of the relevant application fails to appear at the hearing of the application.

52—Amending an application

- (1) The court hearing an application for a forfeiture order may, on the application or with the consent of the DPP, amend the application.
- (2) However, the court must not amend the application to include additional property in the application unless—
 - (a) the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the property was not reasonably capable of identification when the application was originally made; or
 - (ii) necessary evidence became available only after the application was originally made; or
 - (b) the forfeiture order applied for is an order to which section 47(1)(b) or (c) or (3)(b) or (c) applies and the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) including the additional property in the application for the order might have prejudiced the investigation of, or the prosecution of a person for, an offence; or
 - (ii) it is for any other reason appropriate to grant the application to amend.
- (3) The DPP must, on applying for an amendment to include additional property in the application, give written notice of the application to amend to any person whom the DPP reasonably believes may have an interest in the additional property.
- (4) However, the court may, on the application of the DPP, dispense with the requirement to give notice to a person under subsection (3) if the court is satisfied that the person has absconded in connection with an offence.
- (5) If the forfeiture order applied for is an order to which section 47(1)(a) or (3)(a) applies, any person who claims an interest in that additional property may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application to amend.

53—Forfeiture orders can extend to other interests in property

- (1) A court may, in specifying an interest in property in a forfeiture order, specify any other interests in the property (regardless of whose they are) if—
 - (a) the amount received from disposing of the combined interests would be likely to be greater than the amount received from disposing of each of the interests separately; or

- (b) disposing of the interests separately would be impracticable or significantly more difficult than disposing of the combined interests.
- (2) If a court specifies other interests under subsection (1), the court may make such ancillary orders as it thinks fit for the protection of a person having one or more of those other interests.
- (3) Without limiting the generality of subsection (2), an ancillary order may include—
 - (a) an order directing the Crown to pay the person a specified amount as the value of the person's interest in the property; or
 - (b) an order directing that specified other interests in the property be transferred to the person.
- (4) In deciding whether to make an ancillary order, the court must have regard to—
 - (a) the nature, extent and value of the person's interest in the property concerned; and
 - (b) if the court is aware that any other person claims an interest in the property—the nature, extent and value of the interest; and
 - (c) any other matter that the court considers relevant.

54—Forfeiture orders must specify the value of forfeited property

A court must specify the amount it considers to be the value, at the time the order is made, of the property (other than money) specified in the forfeiture order.

55—Declaration by court in relation to buying back interests in forfeited property

A court that makes a forfeiture order may, if satisfied that—

- (a) it would not be contrary to the public interest for a person's interest in the property to be transferred to the person; and
 - (b) there is no other reason why the person's interest should not be transferred to the person,
- by order—
- (c) declare the nature, extent and value (at the time when the order is made) of the person's interest; and
 - (d) declare that the interest may be excluded under section 72 from the operation of the forfeiture order.

56—Court may make supporting directions

- (1) A court that makes a forfeiture order may give any directions that are necessary or convenient for giving effect to the order.
- (2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), a direction may, for a forfeiture order specifying registrable property, include a direction to an officer of the court to do anything necessary and reasonable to obtain possession of any document necessary for the transfer of the property.

Subdivision 2—Reducing the effect of forfeiture orders

57—Relieving certain dependants from hardship

- (1) A court making a forfeiture order specifying a person's property must make an order directing the Crown to pay a specified amount to a specified dependant, or dependants, of the person if—
 - (a) the forfeiture order is not one to which section 47(1)(a) applies; and
 - (b) the court is satisfied—
 - (i) the forfeiture order would cause hardship to the dependant; and
 - (ii) the specified amount would relieve that hardship; and
 - (iii) if the dependant is aged at least 18 years—the dependant had no knowledge (at the time of the conduct) of the person's conduct that is the subject of the forfeiture order.
- (2) The specified amount must not exceed the difference between—
 - (a) the amount the court considers likely to be received from disposing of the person's property under the forfeiture order; and
 - (b) the amount the court considers likely to be the costs of administering this Act (referred to in section 209(1)) in connection with the forfeiture order.

58—Making exclusion orders before forfeiture order made

- (1) A court that is hearing, or is to hear, an application for a forfeiture order, must make an order excluding property from forfeiture (an exclusion order) if—
 - (a) a person applies for the exclusion order in accordance with section 60; and
 - (b) the application for a forfeiture order specifies the applicant's property; and
 - (c) if the forfeiture order would be one to which section 47(1)(a) or (3)(a) applies, the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the applicant was not involved in the commission of a serious offence to which the application for a forfeiture order relates; and
 - (ii) the property to be specified in the exclusion order is neither proceeds nor an instrument of the offence; and
 - (d) if the forfeiture order would be one to which section 47(1)(b) or (c) or (3)(b) or (c) applies, the court is satisfied that the property to be specified in the exclusion order is neither proceeds nor an instrument of unlawful activity.
- (2) An exclusion order under subsection (1) must—
 - (a) specify the nature, extent and value (at the time of making the order) of the property concerned; and
 - (b) direct that the property be excluded from the operation of the forfeiture order.
- (3) An applicant for an exclusion order under subsection (1) must give written notice to the DPP of the application and the grounds on which the order is sought.
- (4) The DPP—
 - (a) may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application; and

- (b) must give the applicant notice of any grounds on which it proposes to contest the application.
- (5) However, the DPP need not give notice under subsection (4)(b) until it has had a reasonable opportunity to examine the applicant under Part 6 Division 1.
- (6) An application for an exclusion order under subsection (1) must not be heard until the DPP has had a reasonable opportunity to examine the applicant under Part 6 Division 1.

59—Making exclusion orders after forfeiture

- (1) A court that made a forfeiture order must make an order excluding property from forfeiture (an exclusion order) if—
 - (a) a person applies for the exclusion order in accordance with section 60; and
 - (b) the forfeiture order specifies the applicant’s property; and
 - (c) if the forfeiture order was one to which section 47(1)(a) or (3)(a) applies, the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the applicant was not involved in the commission of a serious offence to which the forfeiture order relates; and
 - (ii) the property to be specified in the exclusion order is neither proceeds nor an instrument of the offence; and
 - (d) if the forfeiture order was one to which section 47(1)(b) or (c) or (3)(b) or (c) applies, the court is satisfied that the property to be specified in the exclusion order is neither proceeds nor an instrument of unlawful activity.
- (2) An exclusion order under subsection (1) must—
 - (a) specify the nature, extent and value (at the time of making the order) of the property concerned; and
 - (b) direct that the property be excluded from the operation of the forfeiture order; and
 - (c) if the property has vested (in law or equity) in the Crown under this Division and is yet to be disposed of—direct the Crown to transfer the property to the applicant; and
 - (d) if the property has vested (in law or equity) in the Crown under this Division and has been disposed of—direct the Crown to pay the applicant an amount equal to the value specified under paragraph (a).
- (3) An applicant for an exclusion order under subsection (1) must give written notice to the DPP of the application and the grounds on which the order is sought.
- (4) The DPP—
 - (a) may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application; and
 - (b) must give the applicant notice of any grounds on which it proposes to contest the application.
- (5) However, the DPP need not give notice under subsection (4)(b) until it has had a reasonable opportunity to examine the applicant under Part 6 Division 1.

- (6) An application for an exclusion order under subsection (1) must not be heard until the DPP has had a reasonable opportunity to examine the applicant under Part 6 Division 1.

60—Applying for exclusion orders

- (1) A person may apply for an exclusion order if a forfeiture order that could specify the person's property has been applied for, but is yet to be made.
- (2) A person cannot, except with leave of the court, apply for an exclusion order after a forfeiture order specifying the person's property has been made if—
- (a) the person—
 - (i) appeared at the hearing of that application; or
 - (ii) was given notice of the application for the forfeiture order, but did not appear at the hearing of that application; or
 - (b) 6 months have elapsed since the forfeiture order was made.
- (3) The court may only give leave to apply under subsection (2) if satisfied that—
- (a) if subsection (2)(a)(i) applies—the person now has evidence relevant to the person's application that was not available to the person at the time of the hearing; or
 - (b) if subsection (2)(a)(ii) applies—the person had a good reason for not appearing; or
 - (c) if subsection (2)(b) applies—the person's failure to apply was not due to any neglect by the person; or
 - (d) in any case—there are special grounds for giving the leave.

61—Making compensation orders

- (1) A court that made a forfeiture order must make an order (a compensation order) if—
- (a) a person has applied for the compensation order; and
 - (b) the forfeiture order specifies the applicant's property as proceeds of a serious offence to which the forfeiture order relates; and
 - (c) the court is satisfied that, when the property first became proceeds of the serious offence, a proportion of the value of the property was not acquired using the proceeds of any unlawful activity.
- (2) A compensation order must—
- (a) specify the proportion of the value of the property not acquired using the proceeds of any offence referred to in subsection (1)(c); and
 - (b) direct the Crown to—
 - (i) if the property has not been disposed of—dispose of the property; and
 - (ii) pay the applicant an amount equal to that proportion of the difference between the amount received from disposing of the property and the total of any costs of administering this Act (of a kind referred to in section 209(1)) in connection with the forfeiture order.

- (3) An applicant for a compensation order must give written notice to the DPP of the application and the grounds on which the order is sought.
- (4) The DPP—
 - (a) may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application; and
 - (b) must give the applicant notice of any grounds on which it proposes to contest the application.

62—Applying for compensation orders

- (1) Subject to this section, a person whose property is specified in a forfeiture order may apply for a compensation order.
- (2) If a person was given notice of an application for a forfeiture order, the person cannot apply for a compensation order relating to that forfeiture order unless—
 - (a) the person applies for the compensation order within 6 months after the forfeiture order was made; and
 - (b) the court gives leave.
- (3) If a person was not given notice of an application for a forfeiture order, the person cannot apply for a compensation order relating to a forfeiture order unless—
 - (a) the person applies for the compensation order within 6 months after the forfeiture order was made; or
 - (b) the court gives leave.

Subdivision 3—The effect of acquittals and quashing of convictions

63—Certain forfeiture orders unaffected by acquittal or quashing of conviction

A forfeiture order made under section 47(1)(b) or (c) or (3)(b) or (c) against a person in relation to a serious offence is not affected if—

- (a) having been charged with the offence, the person is acquitted; or
- (b) the person is convicted of the offence and the conviction is subsequently quashed.

64—Discharge of conviction based forfeiture order on quashing of conviction

- (1) A forfeiture order made under section 47(1)(a) or (3)(a) in relation to a person's conviction of a serious offence is discharged if—
 - (a) the person's conviction of the offence is subsequently quashed (whether or not the order relates to the person's conviction of other offences that have not been quashed); and
 - (b) the DPP does not, within 14 days after the conviction is quashed, apply to the court that made the order for the order to be confirmed.
- (2) However, unless a court decides otherwise on an application under subsection (1), the quashing of the conviction does not affect the forfeiture order—
 - (a) for 14 days after the conviction is quashed; or

- (b) if the DPP makes an application under subsection (1).

65—Notice of application for confirmation of forfeiture order

- (1) The DPP must give written notice of an application for confirmation of the forfeiture order to—
- (a) the person whose conviction was quashed; and
 - (b) any person—
 - (i) who claims, or prior to the forfeiture claimed, an interest in property covered by the forfeiture order; and
 - (ii) whom the DPP reasonably believes may have had an interest in property covered by the forfeiture order before the forfeiture.
- (2) The court may, at any time before finally determining the application—
- (a) direct the DPP to give or publish notice of the application to a specified person or class of persons; and
 - (b) specify the time and manner in which the notice is to be given or published.

66—Procedure on application for confirmation of forfeiture order

 - (ii) if the person was taken to be convicted of the offence because of section 5(1)(c)—the other offence referred to in that paragraph, including any appeals relating to the conviction; and
 - (b) any evidence given in the proceeding.

67—Court may confirm forfeiture order

A court may confirm a forfeiture order made under section 47(1)(a) or (3)(a) if satisfied that the court could, at the time it made that order, have instead made a forfeiture order under some other provision of section 47 (if the DPP had applied for an order under that other provision).

68—Effect of court's decision on confirmation of forfeiture order

- (1) If a court confirms the forfeiture order under section 67, the order is taken not to be affected by the quashing of the person's conviction of the serious offence.
- (2) If the court decides not to confirm the forfeiture order, the order is discharged.

69—Administrator must not deal with forfeited property before the court decides on confirmation of forfeiture order

The Administrator must not, during the period starting on the day after the person's conviction of the serious offence was quashed and ending when the court confirms, or decides not to confirm, the forfeiture order, do any of the things required under section 93 in relation to property covered by the order, or amounts received from the disposal of the property.

- (d) if the property is no longer vested in the Crown—cause an amount equal to the value of the interest held by the person immediately before the order was made in the property to be paid to the person.

- (2) The Minister may do or authorise the doing of anything necessary or convenient to effect a transfer, including—
- (a) executing any instrument; and

72—A person may buy back interest in forfeited property

- (1) The payment to the Crown, while the property is still vested in the Crown, of an amount declared under section 55(c) to be the value of the person's interest, discharges the forfeiture order to the extent to which it relates to the interest and the Minister must cause the interest to be transferred to the person in whom it was vested immediately before the property was forfeited.
- (2) The Minister may do or authorise the doing of anything necessary or convenient to effect a transfer, including—
- (a) executing any instrument; and
 - (b) applying for registration of an interest in the property on an appropriate register.

- (d) the person gives written notice to each other person who had an interest in the property immediately before the forfeiture that—
 - (i) the person intends to purchase that other interest from the Crown; and
 - (ii) the other person may, within 21 days after receiving the notice, lodge a written objection to the purchase of the interest with the Minister; and
- (e) no person served with a notice under paragraph (d) in relation to the interest lodges a written objection under that paragraph; and
- (f) the person pays to the Crown, while the property is still vested in the Crown, an amount equal to the value of the interest.

Division 2—Forfeiture on conviction of a serious offence

Subdivision 1—Forfeiture on conviction of a serious offence

74—Forfeiting restrained property without a forfeiture order if a person has been convicted of a serious offence

- (1) Property is forfeited to the Crown at the end of the relevant period if—

 - (b) either—
 - (i) at the end of the relevant period, the property is covered by a restraining order that relates to the offence; or
 - (ii) the property was covered by a restraining order that relates to the offence, but the property was excluded, or the order revoked, under section 38 or section 44; and
 - (c) the property is not subject to an order under section 76 excluding the property from forfeiture under this Division.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, it does not matter whether—
 - (a) the restraining order was made before or after the person’s conviction of the serious offence; or
 - (b) immediately before forfeiture, the property is the person’s property or another person’s property.
- (3) However, this section does not apply if the person is taken to have been convicted under section 5(1)(d).
- (4) A restraining order in relation to a related offence with which the person has been charged, or is proposed to be charged, is taken, for the purposes of this section, to be a restraining order in relation to the serious offence of which the person was convicted.
- (5) If—
 - (a) particular property is excluded from a restraining order under section 38, or a restraining order that covered particular property is revoked under section 44; and
 - (b) the security referred to in section 38(a)(iii) or section 44(a)(iii) (as the case requires) in connection with the exclusion or revocation is still in force,the security is taken, for the purposes of this section, to be the property referred to in subsection (1).
- (6) In this section—

relevant period means—

 - (a) the 6 month period starting on the day of the conviction; or
 - (b) if an extension order is in force at the end of that period—the extended period relating to the extension order.

75—Making an extension order extending the period before property is forfeited

- (1) The court that made the restraining order referred to in section 74(1)(b) may make an order (an extension order) specifying an extended period for the purposes of that section if—

 - (b) the applicant has also applied to the court under this Act to exclude property from the restraining order; and
 - (c) the court is satisfied that the applicant made the application to exclude property from the restraining order without undue delay, and has since diligently followed up that application.
- (2) The extended period must end not later than 15 months from the start of the day of the relevant conviction.
- (3) The extension order stops being in force if the application to exclude property from the restraining order is finally determined before the end of the 6 month period starting on the day of the relevant conviction.
- (4) The extended period ends if the application to exclude property from the restraining order is finally determined before the end of the extended period.

76—Excluding property from forfeiture under this Division

- (1) The court that made the restraining order referred to in section 74(1)(b) may make an order excluding particular property from forfeiture under this Division if—

 - (i) applies for the order; and
 - (ii) owns the property; and
 - (iii) has been convicted of a serious offence to which the restraining order relates; and
 - (b) the property is covered by the restraining order; and
 - (c) the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the property is not proceeds of unlawful activity; and
 - (ii) the defendant's interest in the property was lawfully acquired; and
 - (iii) it would not be contrary to the public interest for the property to be excluded from such forfeiture.
- (2) To avoid doubt, an order under this section cannot be made in relation to property if the property has already been forfeited under this Division.
- (3) The person must give written notice to the DPP of both the application and the grounds on which the order is sought.
- (4) The DPP—
 - (a) may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application; and

- (b) must give the applicant notice of any grounds on which it proposes to contest the application.

77—Court may declare that property has been forfeited under this Division

The court that made the restraining order referred to in section 74(1)(b) may declare that particular property has been forfeited under this Division if—

- (a) the DPP applies to the court for the declaration; and

Subdivision 2—Recovery of forfeited property

78—Court may make orders relating to transfer of forfeited property etc

If property is forfeited to the Crown under section 74, the court that made the restraining order referred to in section 74(1)(b) may, if—

- (a) a person who claims an interest in the property applies under section 80 for an order under this section; and
- (b) the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the person was not involved in the commission of the serious offence to which the forfeiture relates; and

 - (A) is not subject to the effective control of the person whose conviction caused the forfeiture; and
 - (B) is not proceeds of the serious offence or an instrument of the offence; and
- (c) the court is satisfied that—
 - (i) the property was not used in, or in connection with, an unlawful activity and was not derived or realised, directly or indirectly, by any person from an unlawful activity; and
 - (ii) the applicant acquired the property lawfully; and
 - (iii) the applicant is not the person convicted of the serious offence to which the forfeiture relates,

by order—

- (d) declare the nature, extent and value of the applicant's interest in the property; and
- (e) —
 - (i) if the interest is still vested in the Crown—direct the Crown to transfer the interest to the applicant; or
 - (ii) declare that there is payable by the Crown to the applicant an amount equal to the value declared under paragraph (d).

79—Court may make orders relating to buying back forfeited property

If property is forfeited to the Crown under section 74, the court that made the restraining order referred to in section 74(1)(b) may, if—

by order—

- (c) declare the nature, extent and value (as at the time when the order is made) of the interest; and

80—Applying for orders under sections 78 and 79

- (1) An application for an order under section 78 or 79 must be made before the end of the period of 6 months commencing on the day on which the property to which the application relates is forfeited to the Crown.
- (2) However, the court may give a person leave to apply after the end of that period if the court is satisfied that the delay in making the application is not due to neglect on the part of the person.
- (3) A person who was given notice of—
 - (a) proceedings for the application for the restraining order by virtue of which the property is forfeited; or
 - (b) the making of the restraining order, must not apply for an order under section 78 or 79 relating to the property.

- (4) However, the court may give a person leave to apply if the court is satisfied that the person's failure to seek to have the property excluded from the forfeiture by an order under section 76 was not due to any neglect on the part of the person.

81—A person may buy back interest in forfeited property

- (1) If—
 - (a) property is forfeited to the Crown under section 74; and
 - (b) a court makes an order under section 79 in respect of an interest in the property; and

- (e) no person served with notice under paragraph (d) in relation to the interest lodges a written objection under that paragraph; and
- (f) the purchaser pays to the Crown, while the interest is still vested in the Crown, an amount equal to the value of the interest.

Subdivision 3—The effect of acquittals and quashing of convictions

83—The effect on forfeiture of convictions being quashed

- (1) If, after forfeiture of property under section 74 in relation to a person's conviction of a serious offence—
- (a) the person's conviction is subsequently quashed; and
 - (b) the forfeiture does not also relate to the person's conviction of other offences that have not been quashed; and
 - (c) the DPP does not, within 14 days after the conviction is quashed, apply to the court that made the restraining order referred to in section 74(1)(b) for the forfeiture to be confirmed, the Administrator must, as soon as practicable after 14 days after the conviction is quashed have elapsed—

- (d) if the property is vested in the Crown—cause an interest in the property equivalent to the interest held by the person immediately before the order was made to be transferred to the person; or
- (e) if the property is no longer vested in the Crown—cause an amount equal to the value of the interest held by the person immediately before the order was made in the property to be paid to the person.

- (2) If—
- (a) the DPP makes an application of the kind referred to in subsection (1)(c); and
 - (b) the court decides not to confirm the forfeiture,
- the Administrator must, as soon as practicable after the application is determined—

 - (i) who claims, or prior to the forfeiture claimed, an interest in the forfeited property; and
 - (ii) whom the DPP reasonably believes may have had an interest in the forfeited property before the forfeiture.
- (2) A court may, at any time before finally determining the application—
- (a) direct the DPP to give or publish notice of the application to a specified person or class of persons; and
 - (b) specify the time and manner in which the notice is to be given or published.

85—Procedure on application for confirmation of forfeiture

- (a) the transcript of any proceeding against the person for—
 - (i) the serious offence of which the person was convicted; or
 - (ii) if the person was taken to be convicted of that offence because of section 5(1)(c)—the other offence referred to in that paragraph,including any appeals relating to the conviction; and
 - (b) any evidence given in the proceeding.

86—Court may confirm forfeiture

The court may confirm the forfeiture if satisfied that it could make a forfeiture order under section 47 in relation to the serious offence in relation to which the person's conviction was quashed if the DPP were to apply for an order under that section.

87—Effect of court's decision on confirmation of forfeiture

If a court confirms the forfeiture under section 86, the forfeiture is taken not to be affected by the quashing of the person's conviction of the serious offence.

88—Administrator must not deal with forfeited property before the court decides on confirmation of forfeiture

The Administrator must not, during the period starting on the day after the person's conviction of the serious offence was quashed and ending when the court confirms, or decides not to confirm, the forfeiture, do any of the things required under section 93 in relation to the forfeited property, or amounts received from the disposal of the property.

89—Giving notice if forfeiture ceases to have effect on quashing of a conviction

- (1) If property was forfeited under section 74 but section 83(1) or (2) applies to the forfeiture, then the DPP—

- (2) If property specified in the forfeiture order, or forfeited under section 74, is registrable property—
 - (a) the property vests in equity in the Crown, but does not vest in the Crown at law until the applicable registration requirements have been complied with; and
 - (b) the DPP has power to do anything necessary or convenient to give notice of, or otherwise protect, the Crown's equitable interest in the property; and
 - (c) the Crown is entitled to be registered as the owner of the property; and

- (d) the Administrator has power to do, or authorise the doing of, anything necessary or convenient to obtain the registration of the Crown as the owner.
- (3) If a person—
- (a) was, immediately before his or her death, the joint owner of property specified in the forfeiture order; and
 - (b) died before the order was made, but—
 - (i) after the DPP applied for the order; or
 - (ii) while a restraining order covering the property was in force, that property is taken to have vested in the Crown immediately before the person's death (and any such restraining order is also taken to have continued to apply to the property as if the person had not died).
- (4) If—
- (a) a person who is convicted of a serious offence was, immediately before his or her death, the joint owner of property; and
 - (b) the period that would apply under section 74 if the property were subject to forfeiture under that section in relation to the conviction had not ended before the person's death; and
 - (c) the period had ended immediately before the person's death the property would have been forfeited under section 74,
- the property is taken to have vested in the Crown immediately before the person's death.

- (6) The Administrator's powers under subsection (2)(d) include executing any instrument required to be executed by a person transferring an interest in property of that kind.

91—When the Crown can begin dealing with property specified in a forfeiture order

- (1) The Crown may only dispose of, or otherwise deal with, property specified in a forfeiture order after, and only if the order is still in force—
- (a) —
 - (i) if an appeal has not been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the order—the end of the period; or

- whichever is the later.
- (2) However, the Crown may dispose of, or otherwise deal with, property specified in a forfeiture order at an earlier time with the leave of, and in accordance with any directions of, the court.
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (1)(b)—
 - (a) if the person is to be taken to have been convicted of the offence because of section 5(1)(b)—an appeal against the finding of the person guilty of the offence is taken to be an appeal against the conviction; and
 - (b) if the person is to be taken to have been convicted of the offence because of section 5(1)(c)—an appeal against the person’s conviction of the other offence referred to in that paragraph is taken to be an appeal against the conviction.

92—When the Crown can begin dealing with property forfeited under section 74

- (1) The Crown may only dispose of, or otherwise deal with, property forfeited under section 74 in relation to a person’s conviction of a serious offence if—
 - (a) the period applying under section 74(6) has come to an end; and
 - (b) the conviction has not been quashed by that time.
- (2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the Crown may dispose of or otherwise deal with the property—
 - (a) if the conviction is one in relation to which neither section 5(1)(b) nor (c) applies—
 - (i) if an appeal has not been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the conviction—after the end of the period; or
 - (ii) if an appeal against the conviction has been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the conviction—after the appeal lapses or is finally determined; or
 - (b) if the person is taken to have been convicted because of section 5(1)(b)—
 - (i) if an appeal has not been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the finding of the person guilty of the serious offence—after the end of the period; or
 - (ii) if an appeal has been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the finding of the person guilty of the serious offence—after the appeal lapses or is finally determined; or
 - (c) if the person is taken to have been convicted because of section 5(1)(c)—
 - (i) if an appeal has not been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the person’s conviction of the other offence referred to in that paragraph—after the end of the period; or

- (ii) if an appeal has been lodged within the period provided for lodging an appeal against the person's conviction of the other offence referred to in that paragraph—after the appeal lapses or is finally determined.
- (3) However, the Crown may dispose of, or otherwise deal with, the property earlier with the leave of, and in accordance with any directions of, the court.

93—How forfeited property must be dealt with

- (1) The Administrator must—
 - (a) in the case of a forfeiture order—if the order is still in force at the later time referred to in section 91(1); or as soon as practicable dispose of property (other than money) specified in the order or forfeited under section 74.

- (2) Any amounts received from the disposal of property in accordance with this section must, along with any monetary amounts specified in the forfeiture order or forfeited under section 74, then be dealt with in accordance with section 209.

A person is guilty of an offence if—

- (a) the person knows that a forfeiture order has been made in respect of registrable property; and
- (b) the person disposes of, or otherwise deals with, the property before the Crown's interest has been registered on the appropriate register (whether or not the person knows the Crown's interest has not yet been registered); and
- (c) the forfeiture order has not been discharged.

Maximum penalty: $20 000 or imprisonment for 4 years.

Part 5—Other confiscation orders

Division 1—Pecuniary penalty orders

Subdivision 1—Pecuniary penalty orders

95—Making pecuniary penalty orders

- (1) A court must, on application by the DPP, make an order (a pecuniary penalty order) requiring a specified person to pay an amount determined under Subdivision 2 to the Crown if satisfied that the person has been convicted of, or has committed, a serious offence and—
 - (a) the person has derived benefits from the commission of the offence; or
 - (b) an instrument of the offence is owned by the person or is under his or her effective control.

- (2) The court's power to make a pecuniary penalty order in relation to benefits derived from the commission of a serious offence is not affected by the existence of another confiscation order in relation to the offence.
- (3) The court cannot make a pecuniary penalty order in relation to an instrument of a serious offence if—
 - (a) a pecuniary penalty has been imposed in respect of the instrument under this Act or any other law; or
 - (b) the instrument has been forfeited, or an application has been made for a forfeiture order that would cover the instrument, under this Act or any other law in relation to the offence.
- (4) A literary proceeds amount is a pecuniary penalty for the purposes of subsection (3)(a).
- (5) An application for a pecuniary penalty order must be made—
 - (a) before the end of the period of 9 months commencing on the conviction day; or
 - (b) if an extension order is in force at the end of that period—before the end of the period of 3 months commencing on the day the extended period relating to the extension order ends.
- (6) An application for a pecuniary penalty order may be made in relation to one or more serious offences.
- (7) An application may be made for a pecuniary penalty order in relation to a serious offence even if—
 - (a) a forfeiture order in relation to the offence, or an application for such a forfeiture order, has been made; or
 - (b) Part 4 Division 2 applies to the offence.
- (8) A person who would be subject to a pecuniary penalty order if it were made may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application.

96—Additional application for a pecuniary penalty order

- (1) The DPP cannot, unless the court gives leave, apply for a pecuniary penalty order against a person in respect of benefits derived from the commission of a serious offence or an instrument of the offence if—
 - (a) an application has previously been made for a pecuniary penalty under this Division in respect of the benefits or instrument; and
 - (b) the application has been finally determined on the merits.
- (2) The court must not give leave unless it is satisfied that—
 - (a) the benefit or instrument to which the new application relates was identified only after the first application was determined; or
 - (b) necessary evidence became available only after the first application was determined; or
 - (c) it is in the interests of justice to grant the leave.

- (3) An application for a literary proceeds order is not, for the purposes of this section, an application for a pecuniary penalty.

97—Pecuniary penalty orders made in relation to serious offence convictions

- (1) A court must not make a pecuniary penalty order in relation to a person's conviction of a serious offence until after the end of the period of 6 months commencing on the conviction day.
- (2) However, the court may make a pecuniary penalty order in relation to the person's conviction when it passes sentence on the person.
- (3) Subsection (1) does not apply if the person is taken to have been convicted of the serious offence because of section 5(1)(d).

98—Making of pecuniary penalty order if person has absconded

A court must not, if a person is taken under section 5(1)(d) to have been convicted of a serious offence, make a pecuniary penalty order relating to the person's conviction unless—

- (a) the court is satisfied, on the balance of probabilities, that the person has absconded; and
- (b) either—
- (i) the person has been committed for trial for the offence; or
 - (ii) the court is satisfied, having regard to all the evidence before the court, that a reasonable jury, properly instructed, or the Magistrates Court (as the case requires) could lawfully find the person guilty of the offence.

Subdivision 2—Pecuniary penalty order amounts

99—Determining penalty amounts

The amount that a person is ordered to pay under a pecuniary penalty order (the penalty amount) is determined by—

- (a) in the case of an application relating to benefits derived from the commission of a serious offence—
- (i) assessing under this Subdivision the total value of the benefits the person derived from—
 - (A) the commission of the serious offence; and
 - (B) the commission of any other offence that constitutes unlawful activity; and
 - (ii) subtracting from the total value the sum of the reductions (if any) in the penalty amount under sections 107 and 108; or
- (b) in the case of an application relating to an instrument of a serious offence—assessing the value of the instrument (as at the time of assessment) and subtracting from the value the sum of the reductions (if any) in the penalty amount under sections 107 and 108.

100—Evidence the court is to consider in assessing the value of benefits

In assessing the value of benefits that a person has derived from the commission of a serious offence or serious offences, the court must have regard to the evidence before it concerning—

- (a) the money, or the value of property other than money, that, in connection with the commission of the offence or offences, came into the possession or under the control of—
 - (i) the person; or
 - (ii) another person at the person's request or direction; and
- (b) the value of any other benefit that, in connection with the commission of the offence or offences, was provided to—
 - (i) the person; or
 - (ii) another person at the person's request or direction or in accordance with an arrangement entered into by the person; and
- (c) if any of the illegal activity consisted of doing an act or thing in relation to a drug—
 - (i) the market value, at the time of the offence, of similar or substantially similar drugs; and
 - (ii) the amount that was, or the range of amounts that were, ordinarily paid for the doing of a similar or substantially similar act or thing; and
- (d) the value of the person's property before, during and after the commission of the offence or offences; and
- (e) the person's income and expenditure before, during and after the commission of the offence or offences; and
- (f) any other matter the court considers relevant.

101—Value of benefits derived

- (1) If—
 - (a) an application is made for a pecuniary penalty order against a person in relation to a serious offence or serious offences; and
 - (b) at the hearing of the application, evidence is given that the value of the person's property during or after the commission of the offence or offences, or any other unlawful activity that the person has engaged in, exceeded the value of the person's property before the commission of the offence or offences, the court is to treat the value of the benefits derived by the person from the commission of the offence or offences as being not less than the amount of the greatest excess.

- (2) The amount treated as the value of the benefits under this section is reduced to the extent (if any) that the court is satisfied that the excess was due to causes unrelated to the commission of the serious offence or serious offences or any other unlawful activity that the person has engaged in.
- (3) If, at the hearing of the application, evidence is given of the person's expenditure during or after the commission of the serious offence or serious offences, or any other unlawful activity that the person has engaged in, the amount of the expenditure is presumed, unless the contrary is proved, to be the value of a benefit that was provided to the person in connection with the commission of the serious offence or serious offences.
- (4) Subsection (3) does not apply to expenditure to the extent that it resulted in the acquisition of property that is taken into account under subsection (1).

102—Value of benefits may be as at time of assessment

- (1) In quantifying the value of a benefit for the purposes of this Subdivision, a court may treat as the value of the benefit the value that the benefit would have had if derived at the time the court makes its assessment of the value of benefits.
- (2) Without limiting subsection (1), the court may have regard to any decline in the purchasing power of money between the time when the benefit was derived and the time the court makes its assessment.

103—Matters that do not reduce the value of benefits

In assessing the value of benefits that a person has derived from the commission of a serious offence or serious offences, the following must not be subtracted:

- (a) any expenses or outgoings the person incurred in relation to the offence or offences;
- (b) the value of any part of the benefits derived from the commission of the offence or offences that the person derives as agent for, or otherwise on behalf of, another person (whether or not the other person receives any of the benefits).

104—Benefits already the subject of pecuniary penalty

- (1) A benefit is not to be taken into account for the purposes of this Subdivision if a pecuniary penalty has been imposed in respect of the benefit under this Act or any other law.
- (2) A literary proceeds amount is a pecuniary penalty for the purposes of this section.

105—Property under a person's effective control

For the purpose of assessing the value of benefits that a person has derived from the commission of a serious offence, the court may treat as property of the person any property that is, in the court's opinion, subject to the person's effective control.

106—Effect of property vesting in an insolvency trustee

For the purpose of assessing the value of benefits that a person has derived from the commission of a serious offence, the person's property is taken to continue to be the person's property if it vests in any of the following:

- (a) in relation to a bankruptcy—the trustee of the estate of the bankrupt;
- (b) in relation to a composition or scheme of arrangement under Division 6 of Part IV of the Bankruptcy Act 1966 of the Commonwealth—the trustee of the composition or scheme of arrangement;
- (c) in relation to a deed of assignment, a deed of arrangement or a composition under Part X of the Bankruptcy Act 1966 of the Commonwealth—the trustee of the deed or the composition;
- (d) in relation to the estate of a deceased person in respect of which an order has been made under Part XI of the Bankruptcy Act 1966 of the Commonwealth—the trustee of the estate.

107—Reducing penalty amounts to take account of forfeiture and proposed forfeiture

If a pecuniary penalty order relates to benefits derived from the commission of a serious offence, the penalty amount under the order is reduced by an amount equal to the value, at the time of the making of the order, of any property that is proceeds of the serious offence if—

- (a) the property has been forfeited, under this Act or any other law, in relation to the offence to which the order relates; or
- (b) an application has been made for a forfeiture order that would cover the property.

108—Reducing penalty amounts to take account of fines etc

- (1) If a pecuniary penalty order relates to benefits derived from the commission of a serious offence, the court may, if it considers it appropriate, reduce the penalty amount under the order by an amount equal to a monetary sum payable by the person in relation to the offence.

- (2) In this section—

monetary sum means a monetary amount paid by way of fine, restitution, compensation or damages.

109—Varying pecuniary penalty orders to increase penalty amounts

- (1) A court may, on the application of the DPP, vary a pecuniary penalty order against a person—
 - (a) —
 - (i) if the penalty amount was reduced under section 107 to take account of a forfeiture of property or a proposed forfeiture order against property; and

- (ii) an appeal against the forfeiture or forfeiture order is allowed, or the proceedings for the proposed forfeiture order terminate without the proposed forfeiture order being made,
 - by increasing the penalty amount by an amount equal to the value of the property; and
- (b) —
 - (i) if the penalty amount was reduced under section 107 to take account of an amount of tax paid by the person; and
 - (ii) an amount is repaid or refunded to the person in respect of that tax,
 - by increasing the penalty amount by an amount equal to the amount repaid or refunded.
- (2) The DPP's application may deal with more than one increase to the same penalty amount.

Division 2—Literary proceeds orders

Subdivision 1—Literary proceeds orders

110—Meaning of literary proceeds

- (1) Literary proceeds are any benefit that a person derives from the commercial exploitation of—
 - (a) the person's notoriety resulting from the person committing a serious offence; or
 - (b) the notoriety of another person involved in the commission of the serious offence resulting from the first-mentioned person committing the offence.
- (2) The commercial exploitation may be by any means, including—
 - (a) publishing material in written or electronic form; or
 - (b) any use of media from which visual images, words or sounds can be produced; or
 - (c) any live entertainment, representation or interview.
- (3) A court may, in determining—
 - (a) whether a person has derived literary proceeds; or
 - (b) the value of literary proceeds that a person has derived, treat as property of the person any property that, in the court's opinion—
 - (c) is subject to the person's effective control; or
 - (d) was not received by the person, but was transferred to, or (in the case of money) paid to, another person at the person's direction.

111—Making literary proceeds orders

- (1) A court may, on application by the DPP, make an order (a literary proceeds order) requiring a person to pay an amount to the Crown if the court is satisfied that the person—
 - (a) has committed a serious offence (whether or not the person has been convicted of the offence); and
 - (b) has derived literary proceeds in relation to the offence.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, the literary proceeds must have been derived after the commencement of this Act.
- (3) More than one literary proceeds order may be made against a person in relation to the same serious offence.
- (4) The court's power to make a literary proceeds order in relation to a serious offence is not affected by the existence of another confiscation order in relation to the offence.
- (5) A person who would be subject to a literary proceeds order if it were made may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application.

112—Matters taken into account in deciding whether to make literary proceeds orders

In determining whether to make a literary proceeds order, the court may take into account any matter it thinks fit, and must take into account—

- (a) the nature and purpose of the product or activity from which the literary proceeds were derived; and
- (b) whether supplying the product or carrying out the activity was in the public interest; and
- (c) the social, cultural or educational value of the product or activity; and
- (d) the seriousness of the offence to which the product or activity relates; and
- (e) how long ago the offence was committed.

Subdivision 2—Literary proceeds amounts

113—Determining literary proceeds amounts

- (1) The amount that a person is ordered to pay under a literary proceeds order (the literary proceeds amount) is the amount that the court thinks appropriate.
- (2) However, the amount must not exceed the amount of the literary proceeds relating to the serious offence to which the order relates, less any deductions or reductions arising under section 114 or section 121.
- (3) In determining the amount, the court is to have regard to any matters it thinks fit, including—
 - (a) the amount of the literary proceeds relating to the serious offence; and
 - (b) if the person stood trial for the serious offence—the evidence adduced in the proceedings for the offence; and

- (c) if the person was convicted of the serious offence—the transcript of the sentencing proceedings.

114—Deductions from literary proceeds amounts

In determining the amount to be paid under a literary proceeds order against a person, the court must deduct, to the extent that the property is literary proceeds—

- (a) any expenses and outgoings that the person incurred in deriving the literary proceeds; and
- (b) the value of any property of the person forfeited under—
- (i) this Act; or
 - (ii) a recognised Australian forfeiture order; or
 - (iii) a foreign forfeiture order,
- relating to the serious offence to which the literary proceeds order relates; and
- (c) any amount payable by the person under—
- (i) a pecuniary penalty order; or
 - (ii) a recognised Australian pecuniary penalty order; or
 - (iii) a foreign pecuniary penalty order,
- relating to the serious offence to which the literary proceeds order relates; and
- (d) the amount of any previous literary proceeds order made against the person in relation to the same exploitation of the person's notoriety resulting from the person committing the serious offence in question.

115—Varying literary proceeds orders to increase literary proceeds amounts

- (1) A court may, on the application of the DPP, vary a literary proceeds order against a person—
- (a) —
- (i) if the value of property of the person forfeited under a forfeiture order, a recognised Australian forfeiture order or a foreign forfeiture order was deducted from the literary proceeds amount under section 114(b); and
 - (ii) an appeal against the forfeiture, or against the order, is allowed,
- by increasing the amount to be paid under the literary proceeds order by an amount equal to the value of the property; and
- (b) —
- (i) if an amount payable under a pecuniary penalty order, a recognised Australian pecuniary penalty order or a foreign pecuniary penalty order was deducted under section 114(c) from the amount to be paid under the literary proceeds order; and
 - (ii) an appeal against the amount payable, or against the order, is allowed,

by increasing the amount to be paid under the literary proceeds order by an amount equal to the amount that was payable; and

- (c) —
- (i) if, in determining the amount to be paid under the literary proceeds order, the court took into account, under section 121, an amount of tax paid by the person who is the subject of the order; and
 - (ii) an amount is repaid or refunded to the person in respect of that tax, by increasing the amount to be paid under the literary proceeds order by an amount equal to the amount repaid or refunded.

- (2) The DPP's application may deal with more than one increase to the amount to be paid under the literary proceeds order.

Subdivision 3—Literary proceeds amounts may cover future literary proceeds

116—Literary proceeds orders can cover future literary proceeds

- (1) A court may, on the application of the DPP, include in a literary proceeds order one or more amounts in relation to benefits that the person who is the subject of the order may derive in the future if the court is satisfied that—
- (a) the person will derive the benefits; and
 - (b) if the person derives the benefits, they will be literary proceeds in relation to the serious offence to which the order relates.
- (2) Each amount included in the order is to be an amount that the court considers would be a literary proceeds amount in relation to a benefit that the person may derive in the future, if the court were to make a literary proceeds order after the person derived the benefit.

117—Enforcement of literary proceeds orders in relation to future literary proceeds

If—

- (a) an amount is included in a literary proceeds order in relation to benefits that the person who is the subject of the order may derive in the future; and
- (b) the person subsequently derives the benefits,

then, from the time the person derives the benefits, Part 5 Division 3 Subdivision 4 applies to the amount as if it were a literary proceeds amount.

Division 3—Matters generally applicable to orders under this Part

Subdivision 1—Applications for confiscation orders under this Part

118—Notice of application

- (1) The DPP must give written notice of an application for a confiscation order under this Part to the person who would be subject to the order if it were made, and must include a copy of the application, and any affidavit supporting the application, with the notice.

- (2) However, if the DPP requests and the court considers it appropriate—
 - (a) in order to protect the integrity of any investigation or prosecution; or
 - (b) for any other reason,the DPP may delay giving a copy of an affidavit to the person.
- (3) The court may, at any time before finally determining an application for a confiscation order under this Part—
 - (a) direct the DPP to give or publish notice of the application to a specified person or class of persons; and
 - (b) specify the time and manner in which the notice is to be given or published.

119—Amending an application

- (1) The court hearing an application for a confiscation order under this Part may, on the application of the DPP or with the consent of the DPP, amend the application.
- (2) However, the court must not amend the application to include an additional benefit or instrument or additional literary proceeds (as the case requires) in the application unless the court is satisfied that—
 - (a) the benefit, instrument or literary proceeds were not reasonably capable of identification when the application was originally made; or
 - (b) necessary evidence became available only after the application was originally made.
- (3) The DPP must, on applying for an amendment to include an additional benefit or instrument or additional literary proceeds (as the case requires) in the application, give written notice of the application to amend to the person who would be subject to the confiscation order if it were made.

Subdivision 2—Ancillary orders

120—Ancillary orders

- (1) The court that made a confiscation order under this Part, or any other court that could have made the confiscation order, may make any ancillary orders that the court considers appropriate.
- (2) An ancillary order may be made—
 - (a) if made by the court that made the confiscation order under this Part—when making the order; or
 - (b) in any case—at any time after the confiscation order is made.

Subdivision 3—Reducing pecuniary penalty amount or literary proceeds amount

121—Reducing penalty amounts and literary proceeds amounts to take account of tax paid

- (1) A court making a pecuniary penalty order that relates to proceeds of a serious offence, or a literary proceeds order, against a person under this Part must reduce the penalty amount or literary proceeds amount under the order by an amount that, in the court's opinion, represents the extent to which tax that the person has paid is attributable to the benefits or literary proceeds (as the case requires) to which the order relates.
- (2) The tax may be tax imposed under a law of the Commonwealth, a State, a Territory or a foreign country.

Subdivision 4—Enforcement

122—Enforcement of confiscation orders under this Part

- (1) A confiscation order under this Part is enforceable under the Enforcement of Judgments Act 1991.
- (2) However, if a pecuniary penalty order was made under section 97(2) when sentence was being passed on the person for the serious offence to which the order relates, the order cannot be enforced against the person within the period of 6 months commencing on the day the order was made.
- (3) If a pecuniary penalty order is made against a person after the person's death, this section has effect as if the person had died on the day after the order was made.

123—Property subject to a person's effective control

- (1) If—
 - (a) a person is subject to a confiscation order made by a court under this Part; and
 - (b) the DPP applies to the court for an order under this section; and
 - (c) the court is satisfied that particular property is subject to the effective control of the person, the court may make an order declaring that the whole, or a specified part, of that property is available to satisfy the confiscation order.

- (2) An order under subsection (1) may be enforced against the property as if the property were the person's property.
- (3) A restraining order may be made in respect of the property as if—
 - (a) the property were the person's property; and
 - (b) the person had committed a serious offence.
- (4) The DPP must, on applying for an order under subsection (1) relating to particular property, give written notice of the application to—
 - (a) the person who is subject to the confiscation order; and
 - (b) a person whom the DPP has reason to believe may have an interest in the property.

- (5) The person who is subject to the confiscation order, and any person who claims an interest in the property, may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application.

Subdivision 5—Effect of acquittals and quashing of convictions

124—Acquittals do not affect confiscation orders under this Part

The fact that a person has been acquitted of a serious offence with which the person has been charged does not affect the court's power to make a confiscation order under this Part in relation to the offence.

125—Discharge of confiscation order under this Part if made in relation to a conviction

- (1) A confiscation order under this Part made in relation to a person's conviction of a serious offence is discharged if—
- (a) the person's conviction of the offence is subsequently quashed (whether or not the order relates to the person's conviction of other offences that have not been quashed); and
 - (b) the DPP does not, within 14 days after the conviction is quashed, apply to the court that made the order for the order to be confirmed.
- (2) However, unless a court decides otherwise on an application under subsection (1), the quashing of the conviction does not affect the order—
- (a) for 14 days after the conviction is quashed; or
 - (b) if the DPP makes an application under subsection (1).

126—Confiscation order under this Part unaffected if not made in relation to a conviction

A confiscation order under this Part made in relation to a serious offence, but not in relation to a person's conviction of the offence, is not affected if the person is convicted of the offence and the conviction is subsequently quashed.

127—Notice of application for confirmation of confiscation order under this Part

The DPP must give written notice of an application for confirmation of a confiscation order under this Part to the person who is the subject of the order.

128—Procedure on application for confirmation of confiscation order under this Part

- (1) The person who is the subject of a confiscation order under this Part may appear and adduce evidence at the hearing of the application for confirmation of the order.
- (2) The court may, in determining the application, have regard to—
- (a) the transcript of any proceeding against the person for—
 - (i) the serious offence of which the person was convicted; or

- (ii) if the person was taken to be convicted of the serious offence because of section 5(1)(c)—the other offence referred to in that paragraph,
 - including any appeals relating to the conviction; and
- (b) any evidence given in the proceeding.

129—Court may confirm confiscation order under this Part

- (1) A court may confirm a confiscation order under this Part if satisfied that, when the DPP applied for the order, the court could have made the order—
 - (a) in the case of a pecuniary penalty order—on the ground that the person had committed the serious offence or some other serious offence; or
 - (b) in the case of a literary proceeds order—on the ground that the person had committed the serious offence in relation to which the person’s conviction was quashed or some other serious offence; or
 - (c) in any case—without relying on the person’s conviction of the serious offence.
- (2) A court that confirms a confiscation order under this Part may—
 - (a) make such variations to the confiscation order as the court thinks fit; and
 - (b) make such ancillary orders as the court thinks fit.

130—Effect of court’s decision on confirmation of confiscation order under this Part

- (1) If a court confirms a confiscation order under this Part in accordance with section 129, the order is taken not to be affected by the quashing of the person’s conviction of the serious offence.
- (2) If the court decides not to confirm the confiscation order, the order is discharged.

Part 6—Information gathering

Division 1—Examinations

Subdivision 1—Examination orders

131—Examination orders relating to restraining orders

- (1) If an application for a restraining order has been made or a restraining order is in force, a relevant court may, on the application of the DPP, make an order (an examination order) for the examination of any person, including—
 - (a) a person whose property is to be or is, or a person who has or claims an interest in property that is to be or is, the subject of the restraining order; or
 - (b) a person identified in the affidavit or other evidence submitted in support of the application for the restraining order as a suspect for the serious offence to which the restraining order relates; or

- (2) An examination order ceases to have effect if the restraining order to which it relates ceases to have effect.

- (3) In this section—

relevant court means—

- (b) if a restraining order is in force—the court that made the restraining order or any other court that could have made the restraining order.

132—Examination orders relating to applications for confirmation of forfeiture

- (1) If an application relating to the quashing of a person's conviction of a serious offence is made under section 64, 83 or 125, the court to which the application is made may, on the application of the DPP, make an order (an examination order) for the examination of any person, including—

- (a) the person whose conviction is quashed; or
- (b) a person whose property is, or a person who has an interest in property that is, the subject of the forfeiture, pecuniary penalty order or literary proceeds order (as the case may require) to which the application relates; or
- (c) a spouse of a person referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), about the affairs (including the nature and location of any property) of a person referred to in paragraph (a), (b) or (c).

- (2) The examination order ceases to have effect—

- (a) if the application is withdrawn; or
- (b) when the court finally determines the application.

Subdivision 2—Examination notices

133—Examination notices

- (1) The DPP may give to a person who is the subject of an examination order a written notice (an examination notice) for the examination of the person.
- (2) A person who is the subject of an examination order may be given more than one examination notice under this section.
- (3) However, the DPP must not give an examination notice if—
- (a) an application has been made under section 43 for the restraining order to which the notice relates to be revoked; and
- (b) the court to which the application is made orders that examinations are not to proceed.
- (4) The fact that criminal proceedings have been commenced (whether or not under this Act) does not prevent the DPP giving the examination notice.

134—Form and content of examination notices

- (1) An examination notice—
 - (a) must be in the prescribed form; and
 - (b) must require the person to attend the examination; and
 - (c) must specify the time and place of the examination; and
 - (d) must specify such further information as the regulations may require.
- (2) An examination notice may require the person to produce at the examination the documents specified in the notice.

Subdivision 3—Conducting examinations

135—Time and place of examination

- (1) The examination of a person subject to an examination order must be conducted—
 - (a) at the time and place specified in the examination notice; or
 - (b) at such other time and place as the DPP decides on the request of—
 - (i) the person being examined, or the legal practitioner representing the person; or
 - (ii) a person who is entitled to be present during an examination because of a direction under section 137(2).
- (2) If a person who is required by an examination notice to attend an examination refuses or fails to attend the examination at the time and place required in accordance with subsection (1), the DPP may apply to the Magistrates Court for the issue of a warrant to have the person arrested and brought before the DPP for the purpose of conducting the examination.
- (3) An examination of a person subject to an examination order may be conducted by video link or telephone in a manner determined by the DPP.
- (4) If, after the examination notice is given—
 - (a) an application has been made under section 43 for the restraining order to which the notice relates to be revoked; and
 - (b) the court to which the application is made orders that examinations are not to proceed,the DPP must—
 - (c) give the person a written notice withdrawing the examination notice; and
 - (d) if the examination of the person has started but not finished—stop the examination.
- (5) Nothing in this section prevents the DPP giving the person a further examination notice if the application for revocation of the restraining order is unsuccessful.
- (6) The fact that criminal proceedings have been commenced (whether or not under this Act) does not prevent the examination of a person.

136—Requirements made of person examined

- (1) A person subject to an examination order may be examined on oath by the DPP.
- (2) The DPP may, for that purpose—
 - (a) require the person to take an oath; and
 - (b) administer an oath to the person.
- (3) The oath to be taken by the person for the purposes of the examination is an oath that the statements that the person will make will be true.
- (4) An examination must not relate to a person's affairs—
 - (a) if the examination relates to a restraining order and the person is no longer a person whose affairs can, under section 131, be subject to the examination; or

- (5) The DPP may require the person to answer a question that—
 - (a) is put to the person at the examination; and
 - (b) is relevant to the affairs (including the nature and location of any property) of a person referred to in section 131(1)(a), (b) or (c) or section 132(1)(a), (b) or (c).

137—Examination to take place in private

139—Record of examination

- (1) The DPP—
 - (a) may cause a record to be made of statements made at an examination; and

 - (i) make a record of statements made at an examination; and
 - (ii) if the record is not a written record—cause the record to be reduced to writing.
- (2) If a record made under subsection (1) is in writing or is reduced to writing, the DPP must, if the person being examined makes a request in writing, provide without charge a copy of the written record.

140—Questions of law

- (1) The DPP may—
 - (a) on his or her own initiative; or
 - (b) at the request of the person being examined,give directions preventing or restricting disclosure to the public of—
 - (c) matters contained in answers given, or documents produced, in the course of the examination; or
 - (d) the whole or part of any written record of the examination.
- (2) In deciding whether or not to give a direction, the DPP must have regard to—

 - (i) an answer that has been or may be given; or
 - (ii) a document that has been or may be produced; or
 - (iii) a matter that has arisen or may arise,during the examination is of a confidential nature or relates to the commission, or to the alleged or suspected commission, of a serious offence; and
