5—Application of Act (prima facie) to all courts and enabling only

The provisions of this Act, unless an intention to the contrary is expressed, or appears or is implied by the context—

- (a) apply to every proceeding before any court whatever; and
- (b) are in addition to, and not in derogation of, any rules of evidence, or power, or right, or duty in relation to procedure or evidence, whether existing at common law, or provided for by any law, at any time, in force in the State.

Part 2—Witnesses

6—Oaths, affirmations etc

- (1) An oath shall be administered and taken as follows:
 - (a) the person taking the oath shall hold a copy of the Bible (being a book that contains the New Testament, the Old Testament or both) in his hand and, after the oath has been tendered to him, shall say "I swear"; or
 - (b) in any other manner and form which the person taking the oath declares to be binding on his conscience; or
 - (c) in any other manner or form authorised or permitted by law.
- (2) Where an oath has been lawfully administered and taken, the fact that the person taking the oath had no religious belief, or that the oath was not taken so as to be binding on his conscience, shall not affect, at law, the validity or effect of the oath.
- (3) A person is permitted, and should be offered the choice, to make an affirmation instead of an oath in all circumstances in which, and for all purposes for which, an oath is required or permitted by law.
- (4) An affirmation is to be administered to a person by asking the person "Do you solemnly and truly affirm" followed by the words of the appropriate oath (omitting any words of imprecation or calling to witness) after which the person must say "I do solemnly and truly affirm".
- (5) Every affirmation has, at law, the same force and effect as an oath.
- (6) No oath or affirmation is invalid by reason of a procedural or formal error or deficiency.

7—Oaths or affirmations taken before a court

- (1) Every court has authority to administer an oath or an affirmation.
- (2) Where an oath or affirmation is to be taken before a court, or in connection with proceedings before a court, it may be administered by—
 - (a) the court itself; or
 - (b) an officer of the court; or
 - (c) any person authorised by the court to administer the oath or affirmation; or
 - (d) any other person authorised by law to administer the oath or affirmation.

9—Unsworn evidence

- (1) A person is presumed to be capable of giving sworn evidence in any proceedings unless the judge determines that the person does not have sufficient understanding of the obligation to be truthful entailed in giving sworn evidence.
- (2) If the judge determines that a person does not have sufficient understanding of the obligation to be truthful entailed in giving sworn evidence, the judge may permit the person to give unsworn evidence provided that—
 - (a) the judge—

- (i) is satisfied that the person understands the difference between the truth and a lie; and
 - (ii) tells the person that it is important to tell the truth; and
- (b) the person indicates that he or she will tell the truth.
- (3) In determining a question under this section, the judge is not bound by the rules of evidence, but may inform himself or herself as the judge thinks fit.
- (4) If unsworn evidence is given under this section in a trial by jury, the judge—
 - (a) must explain to the jury the reason the evidence is unsworn; and
 - (b) may, and if a party so requests must, warn the jury of the need for caution in determining whether to accept the evidence and the weight to be given to it.
- (5) A justice to whom it appears that a person who desires to lay a complaint or information does not have sufficient understanding of the obligation to be truthful entailed in giving sworn evidence may ascertain by inquiry the subject matter of the complaint or information and reduce it into the appropriate form, and any action or proceedings may be taken on the complaint or information in all respects as if the complainant or informant had deposed to the truth of the contents on oath or affirmation.

12—Evidence of young children

- (4) A young child who is called as a witness is, while giving evidence, entitled to have present in the court, and within reasonable proximity, a person of his or her choice to provide emotional support (but the person must not interfere in the proceedings).
- (5) Unless the court otherwise allows, a witness or prospective witness in the proceedings cannot be chosen under subsection (4) to provide emotional support for a young child.

12A—Warning relating to uncorroborated evidence

There is no rule of law or practice obliging a judge in a criminal trial to warn the jury that it is unsafe to convict on the uncorroborated evidence of a child if the child gave sworn evidence.

13—Protection of witnesses

- (1) If it is practicable and desirable to make special arrangements for taking evidence from a witness in order to protect the witness from embarrassment or distress, to protect the witness from being intimidated by the atmosphere of a courtroom, or for any other proper reason, the court should, subject to subsections (3) and (4), order that special arrangements be made for taking the evidence of that witness.
- (2) The Court may, for example, make orders of the following kinds:
 - (a) an order that the evidence be given outside the courtroom and transmitted to the courtroom by means of closed circuit television;
 - (b) an order that a screen, partition or one-way glass be placed to obscure the witness's view of a party to whom the evidence relates or some other person;
 - (c) an order that the witness be accompanied by a relative or friend for the purpose of providing emotional support.

- (3) An order must not be made under subsection (1) if the order would prejudice any party to the proceedings.
- (4) An order must not be made under subsection (1) if its effect would be—
 - (a) to relieve a witness from the obligation to give sworn evidence; or
 - (b) to relieve a witness from the obligation to submit to cross-examination; or
 - (c) to prevent the judge, or (in the case of a trial by jury) the jury, from seeing and hearing the witness while giving evidence.
- (5) If the effect of an order under subsection (1) would be to prevent the defendant in criminal proceedings from seeing and hearing a witness while giving evidence, the order may only be made if there is no other practicable way to protect the witness.
- (6) If a witness is accompanied by a relative or friend for the purpose of providing emotional support, that person must be visible to the parties, the judge and (in the case of a trial by jury) the jury while the witness is giving evidence.
- (7) If, on a trial by jury, a court makes special arrangements for taking the evidence of a witness, the judge must warn the jury not to draw from that fact any inference adverse to the defendant, and not to allow the special arrangements to influence the weight to be given to the evidence.
- (8) An order under this section may be made, varied or revoked on the court's own initiative, or on the application of a party or witness.
- (9) If evidence is to be given in criminal proceedings by a vulnerable witness, the court should, before evidence is taken in the proceedings from the witness, determine whether an order should be made under this section.
- (10) In subsection (9)—

vulnerable witness means—

 - (a) a witness who is under 16 years of age; or
 - (b) a witness who suffers from an intellectual disability; or
 - (c) a witness who is the alleged victim of a sexual offence to which the proceedings relate; or
 - (d) a witness who is, in the opinion of the court, at some special disadvantage because of the circumstances of the case, or the circumstances of the witness.

14—Entitlement of a witness to be assisted by an interpreter

- (1) Where—
 - (a) the native language of a witness who is to give oral evidence in any proceedings is not English; and
 - (b) the witness is not reasonably fluent in English,the witness is entitled to give that evidence through an interpreter.
- (1a) A person may only act as an interpreter—
 - (a) if the person takes an oath or makes an affirmation to interpret accurately; and

- (b) in a case where a party to the proceeding disputes the person's ability or impartiality as an interpreter, if the judge is satisfied as to the person's ability and impartiality.
- (2) An affidavit or other written deposition in a language other than English shall be received in evidence in the same circumstances as an affidavit or other written deposition in English if it has annexed to it—
- (a) a translation of its contents into English; and
 - (b) an affidavit by the translator to the effect that the translation accurately reproduces in English the contents of the original.

15—Witness not disqualified by interest or crime

No person shall be excluded from giving evidence on the ground—

- (a) that he has or may have an interest in the matter in question or in the event of the proceeding, or
- (b) that he has previously been convicted of any crime or offence.

16—Parties, their wives and husbands competent and compellable in civil proceedings

In any proceeding not being a criminal proceeding the parties thereto and the persons on whose behalf such proceeding is brought or defended, and the husbands and wives of such parties or persons respectively, shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be competent and compellable to give evidence on behalf of either or any of the parties to such proceeding.

18—Accused persons competent to give evidence

- (1) Every person charged with an offence shall be a competent witness for the defence at every stage of the proceedings, whether the person so charged is charged solely or jointly with any other person: Provided as follows:
- (a) a person so charged shall not be called as a witness in pursuance of this Act except upon his own application;
 - (b) the failure of any person charged with an offence to give evidence shall not be made the subject of any comment by the prosecution;
 - (c) a person charged and being a witness in pursuance of this Act may be asked any question in cross-examination notwithstanding that it would tend to criminate him as to the offence charged;
 - (d) a person charged and called as a witness in pursuance of this Act shall not be asked, and if asked, shall not be required to answer, any question tending to show that he has committed or been convicted of or been charged with any offence other than that wherewith he is then charged, or is of bad character, unless—
 - (i) the evidence to be elicited by the question is admissible as tending to show that he is guilty or not guilty of the offence with which he is charged; or

- (ii) he has personally or by his advocate asked questions of the witnesses for the prosecution with a view to establish his own good character or has given evidence of his good character; or
 - (iii) he forfeits the protection of this paragraph by virtue of subsection (2); or
 - (iv) he has given evidence against any other person charged with the same offence;
 - (e) every person called as a witness in pursuance of this Act shall, unless otherwise ordered by the court, give his evidence from the witness box or other place from which the other witnesses give their evidence;
 - (f) nothing herein contained shall affect the provisions of section 110 of the Justices Act 1921.
- (2) A defendant forfeits the protection of subsection (1)(d) if—
- (a) the nature or conduct of the defence is such as to involve imputations on the character of the prosecutor or a witness for the prosecution; and
 - (b) the imputations are not such as would necessarily arise from a proper presentation of the defence.
- (3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (2), a defendant does not forfeit the protection of subsection (1)(d) by reason of imputations on the character of the prosecutor or a witness for the prosecution arising from evidence of the conduct of the prosecutor or witness—
- (a) in the events or circumstances on which the charge is based; or
 - (b) in the investigation of those events or circumstances, or in assembling evidence in support of the charge; or
 - (c) in the course of the trial, or proceedings preliminary to the trial.

18A—Abolition of right to make unsworn statement

A person charged with an offence is not entitled to make at the trial for the offence any unsworn statement of fact in defence of the charge (except in the course of giving unsworn evidence under section 9).

21—Competence and compellability of witnesses

- (1) A close relative of a person charged with an offence shall be competent and compellable to give evidence for the defence and shall, subject to this section, be competent and compellable to give evidence for the prosecution.
- (2) Where a person is charged with an offence and a close relative of the accused is a prospective witness against the accused in any proceedings related to the charge (including proceedings for the grant, variation or revocation of bail, or an appeal at which fresh evidence is to be taken) the prospective witness may apply to the court for an exemption from the obligation to give evidence against the accused in those proceedings.
- (3) Where it appears to a court to which an application is made under subsection (2)—
 - (a) that, if the prospective witness were to give evidence, or evidence of a particular kind, against the accused, there would be a substantial risk of—

- (i) serious harm to the relationship between the prospective witness and the accused; or
 - (ii) serious harm of a material, emotional or psychological nature to the prospective witness; and
 - (b) that, having regard to the nature and gravity of the alleged offence and the importance to the proceedings of the evidence that the prospective witness is in a position to give, there is insufficient justification for exposing the prospective witness to that risk,
- the court may exempt the prospective witness, wholly or in part, from the obligation to give evidence against the accused in the proceedings before the court.
- (3a) If the prospective witness is a young child, or is mentally impaired, the court should consider whether to grant an exemption under subsection (3) even though no application for exemption has been made and, if of opinion that such an exemption should be granted, may proceed to grant the exemption accordingly.
 - (4) Where a court is constituted of a judge and jury—
 - (a) an application for an exemption under this section shall be heard and determined by the judge in the absence of the jury; and
 - (b) the fact that a prospective witness has applied for, or been granted or refused, an exemption under this section shall not be made the subject of any question put to a witness in the presence of the jury or of any comment to the jury by counsel or the presiding judge.
 - (5) The judge presiding at proceedings in which a close relative of an accused person is called as a witness against the accused must satisfy himself or herself that the prospective witness—
 - (a) is aware of his or her right to apply for an exemption under this section; or
 - (b) is incapable, by reason of age or mental impairment, of understanding his or her right to apply for an exemption under this section.
 - (6) This section does not operate to make a person who has himself been charged with an offence compellable to give evidence in proceedings related to that charge.
 - (7) In this section—

close relative of an accused person means a spouse, parent or child;

spouse includes a putative spouse within the meaning of the Family Relationships Act 1975.

22—Certain questions may be disallowed

In any proceeding in any court, whether civil or criminal, the judge may disallow any questions put in cross-examination of any party or other witness which may appear to him to be vexatious and not relevant to any matter proper to be inquired into in the proceeding.

23—Rules as to relevancy

In deciding whether a question affecting the credibility of a witness is relevant, or ought to be allowed, the judge shall have regard to the following considerations:

- (a) such questions are proper if they are of such a nature that the truth of the imputation conveyed by them would seriously affect the opinion of the court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies;
- (b) such questions are improper if the imputation which they convey relates to matters so remote in time, or of such a character, that the truth of the imputation would not affect, or would affect only in a slight degree, the opinion of the court as to the credibility of the witness on the matter to which he testifies;
- (c) such questions are improper if there is a great disproportion between the importance of the imputation made against the witness's character and the importance of his evidence.

24—Disallowance of certain questions in cross-examination

- (1) If any question put to a witness upon cross-examination relates to a matter not relevant to the proceeding, except in so far as it affects the credit of the witness by injuring his character, it shall be the duty of the court to decide whether or not the witness shall be compelled to answer it, and the court may, if it thinks fit, inform the witness that he is not obliged to answer it.
- (2) In exercising this discretion the court shall have regard to the considerations referred to in section 23.

25—Disallowance of scandalous and insulting questions

The court may forbid any question it regards as—

- (a) indecent or scandalous, although the question may have some bearing on the case before the court, unless the question relates to facts in issue, or to matters necessary to be known in order to determine whether or not the facts in issue existed; or
- (b) intended to insult or annoy, or needlessly offensive in form, notwithstanding that the question may be proper in itself.

26—Proof of previous conviction of witness may be given

A witness may, subject to any other provisions of this Act, be questioned as to whether he has been convicted of any offence, and upon being so questioned, if he either denies or does not admit the fact, or refuses to answer, it shall be lawful for the cross-examining party to prove such conviction.

27—How far a party may discredit his own witness

A party producing a witness shall not be allowed to impeach his credit by general evidence of bad character; but if the judge is of opinion that the witness is adverse, the party may—

- (a) contradict the witness by other evidence; or

- (b) by leave of the judge, prove that the witness has made, at any other time, a statement inconsistent with his present testimony: Provided that, before giving such last-mentioned proof, the circumstances of the supposed statement sufficient to designate the particular occasion, must be mentioned to the witness, and he must be asked whether or not he has made the statement.

28—Proof of contradictory statements of adverse witness

If any witness, upon cross-examination as to a former statement made by him, relative to the subject matter of the cause, and inconsistent with his present testimony, does not distinctly admit that he has made the statement, proof may be given that he did in fact make it; but before such proof can be given, the circumstances of the supposed statement, sufficient to designate the particular occasion, must be mentioned to the witness, and he must be asked whether or not he has made the statement.

29—Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing

A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing, or reduced into writing, relative to the subject matter of the cause, without the writing being shown to him; but if it is intended to contradict the witness by the writing, his attention must, before such contradictory proof can be given, be called to those parts of the writing which are to be used for the purpose of so contradicting him: Provided always, that the judge, at any time during the trial, may require the production of the writing for his inspection; and may thereupon make such use of it, for the purposes of the trial, as he thinks fit.

Part 3—Miscellaneous rules of evidence

30—As to comparison of disputed writing

Comparison of a disputed writing with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the judge to be genuine shall be permitted to be made by witnesses; and such writings, and the evidence of witnesses respecting the same, may be submitted to the court as evidence of the genuineness or otherwise of the writing in dispute.

31—Attesting witness need not be called in certain cases

It shall not be necessary to prove, by the attesting witness, any instrument to the validity of which attestation is not requisite; and such instrument may be proved by admission or otherwise, as if there had been no attesting witness thereto.

33—Discovery in action for defamation

- (1) A person who is required to answer a question, or to discover or produce a document or thing, in civil proceedings for defamation is not excused from answering the question or discovering or producing the document or thing on the ground that the answer to the question or the discovery or production of the document or thing might tend to incriminate the person of an offence.
- (2) However, any answer given to a question, or document or thing discovered or produced, by a natural person in compliance with the requirement is not admissible in evidence against the person in any other action or proceedings.

34—Admissions by accused persons

A person may admit on his trial any fact alleged or sought to be proved against him, and such admission shall be sufficient proof of the fact without other evidence: Provided that the admission shall be made by the accused either personally or by his counsel or solicitor in his presence, or, in the case of a body corporate, by its counsel or solicitor.

34A—Proof of commission of offence

Where a person has been convicted of an offence or found by a court exercising criminal jurisdiction to have committed an offence and the commission of the offence is in issue or relevant to an issue in a civil proceeding, the conviction or finding is evidence of the commission of the offence and admissible in the proceeding against the person or a party claiming through or under the person.

34C—Admissibility of documentary evidence as to facts in issue

- (1) In any civil proceedings where direct oral evidence of a fact would be admissible, any statement made by a person in a document and tending to establish that fact shall, on production of the original document, be admissible as evidence of that fact if the following conditions are satisfied, that is to say—
 - (a) if the maker of the statement either—
 - (i) had personal knowledge of the matters dealt with by the statement;
 - or

- (ii) where the document in question is or forms part of a record purporting to be a continuous record, made the statement (in so far as the matters dealt with thereby are not within his personal knowledge) in the performance of a duty to record information supplied to him by a person who had, or might reasonably be supposed to have, personal knowledge of those matters; and
 - (b) if the maker of the statement is called as a witness in the proceedings.
- (1a) However, the condition that the maker of the statement shall be called as a witness need not be satisfied if he is dead, or unfit by reason of his bodily or mental condition to attend as a witness, or if he is beyond the seas and it is not reasonably practicable to secure his attendance, or if all reasonable efforts to find him have been made without success.
- (2) In any civil proceedings, the court may at any stage of the proceedings, if having regard to all the circumstances of the case it is satisfied that undue delay or expense would otherwise be caused, order that such a statement as is mentioned in subsection (1) of this section shall be admissible as evidence or may, without any such order having been made, admit such a statement in evidence—
 - (a) notwithstanding that the maker of the statement is available but is not called as a witness;
 - (b) notwithstanding that the original document is not produced, if in lieu thereof there is produced a copy of the original document or of the material part thereof certified to be a true copy in such manner as may be specified in the order or as the court may approve, as the case may be.
- (3) Nothing in this section shall render admissible as evidence any statement made by a person interested at a time when proceedings were pending or anticipated involving a dispute as to any fact which the statement might tend to establish.
- (4) For the purposes of this section, a statement in a document shall not be deemed to have been made by a person unless the document or the material part thereof was written, made or produced by him with his own hand, or was signed or initialled by him or otherwise recognised by him in writing as one for the accuracy of which he is responsible.

Division 7—Select Committee evidence

67B—Evidence before the Parliamentary Select Committee of Inquiry into Prostitution

- (1) Where a person in evidence, or in a submission, to the Select Committee makes a statement tending to incriminate himself of an offence, no proceedings in respect of that offence shall be commenced against him in respect of that offence except upon the authorisation of the Attorney-General.
- (2) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary no Minister or other person shall have power to give an authorisation under subsection (1) of this section on behalf of or in place of the Attorney-General.
- (3) An apparently genuine document purporting to be under the hand of the Attorney-General and to authorise the commencement of proceedings in respect of an offence shall be accepted, in the absence of proof to the contrary, as proof of the authorisation required by subsection (1) of this section.
- (4) A person who, without the authority of the Select Committee, publishes—
 - (a) the name of any person who gives evidence, or makes a submission, to the Select Committee; or

- (b) any information or material tending to identify any person who gives evidence, or makes a submission, to the Select Committee,

- (5) In this section—

the Select Committee means the Parliamentary Select Committee of Inquiry into Prostitution.

Division 8—Evidence of settlement negotiations

67C—Exclusion of evidence of settlement negotiations

- (1) Subject to this section, evidence of a communication made in connection with an attempt to negotiate the settlement of a civil dispute, or of a document prepared in connection with such an attempt, is not admissible in any civil or criminal proceedings.
- (2) Such evidence is, however, admissible if—
- (a) the parties to the dispute consent; or
 - (b) the substance of the evidence has been disclosed with the express or implied consent of the parties to the dispute; or
 - (c) the substance of the evidence has been partly disclosed with the express or implied consent of the parties to the dispute, and full disclosure of the evidence is reasonably necessary to—
 - (i) enable a proper understanding of the other evidence that has already been adduced; or
 - (ii) avoid unfairness to any of the parties to the dispute; or
 - (d) the communication or document included a statement to the effect that it was not to be treated as confidential; or
 - (e) the proceeding in which the evidence is to be adduced is a proceeding to enforce an agreement for the settlement of the dispute or a proceeding in which the making of such an agreement is in issue; or
 - (f) the evidence tends to contradict or to qualify evidence that has already been admitted about the course of an attempt to settle the dispute; or
 - (g) the making of the communication, or the preparation of the document, affects the rights of a party to the dispute; or
 - (h) the communication was made, or the document was prepared, in furtherance of—
 - (i) the commission of a fraud or an offence; or
 - (ii) the doing of an act that renders a person liable to a civil penalty; or
 - (iii) the abuse of a statutory power.
- (3) Subsection (1) does not apply to parts of a document that do not concern attempts to negotiate a settlement of a dispute, if it would not be misleading to adduce evidence of only those parts of the document.

Division 9—Protected communications

67D—Interpretation

In this Division—

committal proceedings means proceedings for the preliminary examination of a charge of an indictable offence; counsellor or therapist means a person whose profession or work consists of, or includes, providing psychiatric or psychological therapy to victims of trauma (and includes a person who works voluntarily in that field);

protected communication means a communication that is protected by public interest immunity under section 67E;

psychiatric or psychological therapy includes counselling;

therapeutic context—a communication relating to a victim or alleged victim of a sexual offence is made in a therapeutic context if—

- (a) the communication is made—
 - (i) to enable a counsellor or therapist to assess the nature and severity of the trauma suffered by the victim or alleged victim, or consequent psychiatric, psychological or emotional harm; or
 - (ii) for the purposes, or in the course, of psychiatric or psychological therapy provided to the victim or alleged victim; and
- (b) the communication is made in circumstances that give rise to a duty of confidentiality or a reasonable expectation of confidentiality.

67E—Certain communications to be protected by public interest immunity

- (1) A communication relating to a victim or alleged victim of a sexual offence is, if made in a therapeutic context, protected from disclosure in legal proceedings by public interest immunity.
- (2) However, the following communications are not subject to public interest immunity:
 - (a) a communication made for the purposes of, or in the course of, a physical examination of the victim or alleged victim of a sexual offence by a registered medical practitioner or registered nurse; or
 - (b) a communication made for the purposes of legal proceedings arising from the commission of the alleged offence or for commencing such legal proceedings; or
 - (c) a communication as to which reasonable grounds exist to suspect that the communication evidences a criminal fraud, an attempt to pervert the administration of justice, perjury or another offence.
- (3) A public interest immunity arising under this section cannot be waived by—
 - (a) the counsellor or therapist; or
 - (b) a party to the protected communication; or

- (c) the victim or alleged victim of the sexual offence or the guardian of the victim or alleged victim.

67F—Evidence of protected communications

- (1) Evidence of a protected communication—
- (a) is entirely inadmissible in committal proceedings; and
 - (b) cannot be admitted in other legal proceedings unless—
 - (i) the court gives leave to a party to the proceedings to adduce the evidence; and
 - (ii) the admission of the evidence is consistent with any limitations or restrictions fixed by the court; and
 - (c) is not liable to discovery or any other form of pre-trial disclosure.
- (2) On an application for leave to adduce evidence of a protected communication, the judge may make a preliminary examination of the relevant evidence if satisfied that—
- (a) the applicant has a legitimate forensic purpose for seeking leave to adduce the evidence; and
 - (b) there is an arguable case that the evidence would materially assist the applicant in the presentation or furtherance of his or her case.
- (3) For the purposes of a preliminary examination of evidence, the court may order the counsellor or therapist to do one or more of the following:
- (a) to provide written answers to questions;
 - (b) to produce written materials relating to the relevant protected communications;
 - (c) to appear for oral examination.

Exceptions—

- 1 If the counsellor or therapist who provided the counselling or therapy is an employee, answerable to another (the principal) in the organisation in which the counsellor or therapist is employed, an order under this subsection is to be addressed to the principal unless the court is satisfied that there are good reasons for not taking that course in the circumstances of the particular case.
- 2 An order requiring a person to appear for oral examination is not to be made unless the court is satisfied that the examination cannot otherwise be effectively conducted.

- (4) The following provisions govern the conduct of a preliminary examination:
- (a) the preliminary examination is to be conducted—
 - (i) in the absence of the jury (if any); and
 - (ii) in a room closed to the public; and
 - (b) the evidence taken at the preliminary examination is not to be disclosed to the parties or their legal representatives except to the extent determined by the court; and
 - (c) no record of the preliminary examination is to be available for public access.

- (5) In deciding whether to grant leave to adduce evidence of a protected communication, the court is to weigh—
- (a) the public interest in preserving the confidentiality of protected communications;
- against—
- (b) the public interest in preventing a miscarriage of justice that might arise from suppression of relevant evidence.
- (6) In weighing the above considerations, the court is to have regard to—
- (a) the need to encourage victims of sexual offences to seek psychiatric or psychological therapy and the extent to which the effectiveness of such therapy is dependent on the maintenance of confidentiality between the counsellor or therapist and the victim;
 - (b) the probative value of the evidence and whether its exclusion may lead to a miscarriage of justice;
 - (c) the attitude of the victim or alleged victim to whom the communication relates (or the guardian of the victim or alleged victim) to the admission of the evidence;
 - (d) whether admission of the evidence is being sought on the basis of a discriminatory belief or bias;
 - (e) the extent to which admission of the evidence would infringe a reasonable expectation of privacy and the potential prejudice to any person who would otherwise be protected by public interest immunity.
- (7) The court is not to grant leave to adduce evidence of a protected communication unless satisfied that the public interest in preserving the confidentiality of protected communications is outweighed, in the circumstances of the case, by the public interest in preventing a miscarriage of justice that might arise from suppression of relevant evidence.
- (8) If the court decides to grant leave to adduce evidence of a protected communication, it may make ancillary orders—
- (a) to prevent further publication or dissemination of the evidence; or
 - (b) for any other purpose the court considers appropriate.

 - (ii) to a witness or potential witness in civil or criminal proceedings who is not a party to those proceedings; or
 - (iii) to a child,
- the court may, subject to this section, make such an order.
- (2) Where the question of making a suppression order (other than an interim suppression order) is under consideration by a court—
- (a) the public interest in publication of information related to court proceedings, and the consequential right of the news media to publish such information, must be recognised as considerations of substantial weight; and
 - (b) the court may only make the order if satisfied that the prejudice to the proper administration of justice, or the undue hardship, that would occur if the order were not made should be accorded greater weight than the considerations referred to above.
- (3) Where an application is made to a court for a suppression order, the court may, without inquiring into the merits of the application, make such an order (an interim suppression order) to have effect, subject to revocation by the court, until the application is determined; but if such an order is made the court must determine the application as a matter of urgency and, wherever practicable, within 72 hours after making the interim suppression order.

- (6) A suppression order may be varied or revoked by the court by which it was made, on the application of any of the persons entitled to make submissions by virtue of subsection (5)(a).
- (7) On an application for the making, variation or revocation of a suppression order—
- (a) a matter of fact is sufficiently proved if proved on the balance of probabilities;
- (b) if there appears to be no serious dispute as to a particular matter of fact, the court (having regard to the desirability of dealing expeditiously with the application) may—
- (i) dispense with the taking of evidence on that matter; and
- (ii) accept the relevant fact as proved.
- (8) An appeal lies against—
- (a) a suppression order or a decision by a court not to make a suppression order;
- (b) the variation or revocation of a suppression order or a decision by a court not to vary or revoke a suppression order.

- (b) a party to the proceedings in which the order or decision subject to appeal was made; or

- (d) a person who had, in the opinion of the primary court, a proper interest in the question of whether a suppression order should be made; or
- (e) a person who did not appear before the primary court but has, in the opinion of the appellate court, a proper interest in the subject matter of the appeal or proposed appeal,
- but a person who did not appear before the primary court may only bring an appeal, or be heard on an appeal, by leave of the appellate court (which will be granted if the appellate court is satisfied that that person's failure to appear before the primary court is not attributable to a lack of proper diligence).
- (10) Where a court makes a suppression order (other than an interim suppression order), the court must—
- (a) immediately forward to the Registrar a copy of the order; and
- (b) within 30 days forward to the Attorney-General a report setting out—

- (i) the terms of the order; and
 - (ii) the name of any person whose name is suppressed from publication; and
 - (iii) a transcript or other record of any evidence suppressed from publication; and
 - (iv) full particulars of the reasons for which the order was made.
- (11) Where a court varies or revokes a suppression order (other than an interim suppression order), the court must forward to the Registrar a written notification of the variation or revocation.
- (12) The Registrar will establish and maintain a register of all suppression orders (other than interim suppression orders).
- (13) The register will be made available for inspection by members of the public free of charge during ordinary office hours.
