(4a) If a person who has been returned to prison pursuant to this section commits an offence while in prison and a sentence of imprisonment is imposed for the offence, the person is liable to serve in prison the balance of the sentence, or sentences, unexpired as at the day on which the offence was committed.

(2) The Chief Executive Officer must, at the end of each month, consider the behaviour during that month of each prisoner to whom this section applies and may, if of the opinion that a prisoner has been of good behaviour, credit the prisoner with such number of days of remission, not exceeding 15, as the Chief Executive Officer considers appropriate.

(3) The fact that a prisoner has been, or is liable to be, punished under this Act or any other Act or law for behaviour while in prison does not preclude the Chief Executive Officer from taking that behaviour into account for the purposes of subsection (2).

(4) Where the Chief Executive Officer makes a decision under this section to credit, or not to credit, a prisoner with any days of remission, the Chief Executive Officer must notify the prisoner in writing of that decision and of the reasons for the decision.

(5) Where, at the end of a month, it appears that a prisoner, if credited with 15 days of remission at the end of the next month, would be entitled to be released from prison before the expiration of that next month, the Chief Executive Officer must thereupon credit the prisoner with 15 days of remission.

Release of prisoners on remission

80. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a prisoner, other than a prisoner to whom subsection (2) applies, will (unless released earlier under any other provision of this Act or any other Act or law) be released from prison when the total number of days of remission credited to the prisoner and the period he or she has served in prison together equal the term, or terms, of imprisonment to which he or she was sentenced.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a person returned to prison upon cancellation of parole will (unless released earlier under any other provision of this Act or any other Act or law) be released from prison when the total number of days of remission credited to the person after cancellation and the period the person has served in prison after cancellation together equal the period of imprisonment that the person was, upon that cancellation, liable to serve.
