payment shall not exceed the amount of the salary of the judge or master for a period equal to the period of the leave not so taken, calculated at the rate at which he was being paid at the time of the retirement or resignation.

(3) A direction under subsection (2) of this section may be given before or after the retirement or resignation of the judge or master and a payment under that subsection may be made before or after that retirement or resignation.

(4) If any judge or master dies before the commencement or during the currency of any leave granted or before such leave has been granted pursuant to subsection (1) of this section the Governor may, in respect of the period of the leave so granted or the unexpired portion thereof, or in respect of the period of the leave which might have been granted (according to the circumstances of the case), pay to the dependants (if any) of such judge or master the amounts of salary which would have been payable to such judge or master himself if he had survived. If the judge or master died without leaving any dependants the Governor may pay the said amounts of salary to his personal representatives.

Any question as to—

- I. Whether there are any dependants in any particular case, or who are the dependants:
 - II. What dependant or dependants shall be entitled to the benefit of payments made under this subsection, and in what proportions if more than one dependant,
- shall be settled by the Governor, as he deems proper.

In this subsection the terms—

“dependants” means those members of the family of a judge or master who were wholly or in part dependent upon his earnings at the time of his death:

“members of the family” includes wife or husband, parents, grandparents, step-parents, children, grandchildren, step-children, brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters.

(5) Where leave is granted to any judge or master under this section, that judge or master may, at the commencement of such leave, be paid the total salary which would be payable to him during the currency of the leave.

(6) This section shall not apply to a master who was, immediately before the commencement of the Statutes Amendment (Administration of Courts and Tribunals) Act, 1981, the master or a deputy master of the court.

Certain interests not to disqualify

14. A judge or master of the court shall not be incapable of acting in his judicial office in any proceeding by reason of his being one of several ratepayers or taxpayers or one of any other class of persons liable in common with others to contribute to or to be benefited by any rate or tax which may be increased, diminished or in any way affected by that proceeding.

Seal of court

15. (1) The court shall continue to have and use a seal bearing a device or impression of the Royal Arms, within an exergue or label surrounding the same, and with the following inscription:—“Supreme Court, South Australia”; and the said seal shall be kept in the custody of the registrar.

(2) There shall also be kept and used such other seals as are required for the business of the court, and such seals shall be in such form and kept in such custody as the Chief Justice directs.

(3) All documents and exemplifications and copies thereof purporting to be sealed with any such seal shall be receivable in evidence without further proof of the seal.

Councils of judges to consider procedure and administration of justice

16. The judges shall—

- (a) assemble once at least in every year for the purpose of considering the operation of this Act and of the rules of court for the time being in force, and also the working of the several offices, and the arrangements relative to the duties of the officers of the court respectively, and of inquiring and examining into any defects which appear to exist in the system of procedure or the administration of the law in the said court; and
- (b) report annually to the Attorney-General of the State what (if any) amendments it would, in their judgment, be expedient to make in this Act, or otherwise relating to the administration of justice, and what other provisions (if any) which cannot be carried into effect without the authority of Parliament, it would be expedient to make for the better administration of justice.

PART II
JURISDICTION AND POWERS OF THE COURT

Jurisdiction

General jurisdiction

17. (1) The court shall be a court of law and equity.
- (2) There shall be vested in the court—
- (a) the like jurisdiction, in and for the State, as was formerly vested in, or capable of being exercised by, all or any of the courts in England, following:—
 - (i) The High Court of Chancery, both as a common law court and as a court of equity:
 - (ii) The Court of Queen's Bench:
 - (iii) The Court of Common Pleas at Westminster:
 - (iv) The Court of Exchequer both as a court of revenue and as a court of common law:
 - (v) The courts created by commissions of assize:
 - (b) such other jurisdiction, whether original or appellate, as is vested in, or capable of being exercised by the court:
 - (c) such other jurisdiction as is in this Act conferred upon the court.

Probate jurisdiction

18. The court shall, in relation to probates and letters of administration, have the following jurisdiction, that is to say:—

- (a) The like voluntary and contentious jurisdiction and authority in and for the State in relation to the granting or revoking of probate of wills, and administration of the effects of deceased persons, as was vested in or exercisable by the Court of Probate established in England under the Court of Probate Act, 1857, together with full authority to hear and determine all questions relating to testamentary causes and matters:
- (b) The like jurisdiction and powers with respect to the real estate of deceased persons as it has with respect to the personal estate of deceased persons:
- (c) All probate jurisdiction which, under or by virtue of any enactment not repealed by this Act, is vested in or capable of being exercised by the court.

Matrimonial jurisdiction

19. There shall be vested in the court—
- (a) the like jurisdiction in relation to matrimonial causes and matters as was immediately before the commencement of the Matrimonial Causes Act, 1857, vested in or exercisable by any ecclesiastical court or person in England in respect of divorce a mensa et thoro, nullity of marriage, jactitation of marriage or restitution of conjugal rights, and in respect of any matrimonial cause or matter except marriage licences:
 - (b) all such jurisdiction in relation to matrimonial causes and matters as under or by virtue of any enactment not repealed by this Act, is vested in or capable of being exercised by the court.

*Law and EquityConcurrent administration of law and equity

20. In every civil cause or matter commenced in the court, law and equity shall be administered by the court according to the provisions of the seven sections of this Act next following.

Equities of plaintiff

21. If a plaintiff or petitioner claims to be entitled to any equitable estate or right, or to relief upon any equitable ground against any deed, instrument, or contract, or against any right, title, or claim whatsoever, asserted by any defendant or respondent in the cause or matter, or to any relief founded upon a legal right which formerly could only have been given by the court in its equitable jurisdiction, the court shall give to the plaintiff or petitioner the same relief as ought formerly to have been given by the court in its equitable jurisdiction in a suit or proceeding properly instituted for the like purpose.

Equitable defences

22. If a defendant claims to be entitled to any equitable estate or right, or to relief upon any equitable ground against any deed, instrument, or contract, or against any right, title, or claim asserted by any plaintiff or petitioner in the cause or matter, or alleges any ground of equitable defence to any such claim of the plaintiff or petitioner, the court shall give to every equitable estate, right, or ground of relief so claimed, and to every equitable defence so alleged the same effect by way of defence against the claim of the plaintiff or petitioner as the court in its equitable jurisdiction ought formerly to have given if the same or the like matters had been relied on by way of defence in a suit or proceeding instituted in that court for the like purpose.

Counter-claims and third parties

23. (1) The court shall have power to grant to any defendant, in respect of any equitable estate or right, or other matter of equity, and also in respect of any legal estate, right, or title claimed or asserted by him—

- (a) all such relief against any plaintiff or petitioner as the defendant has properly claimed by his pleading, and as the court or judge might have granted in any suit instituted for that purpose by the same defendant against the same plaintiff or petitioner; and
- (b) all such relief relating to or connected with the original subject of the cause or matter, and in like manner claimed against any other person, whether already a party to the same cause or matter or not, who has been duly served with notice in writing of such claim, pursuant to any rules of court, as might properly have been granted against that person if he had been made a defendant to a cause duly instituted by the same defendant for the like purpose.

(2) Every person served with any such notice shall thenceforth be deemed a party to the cause or matter with the same rights in respect of his defence against the claim, as if he had been duly sued in the ordinary way by the defendant.

Equities appearing incidentally

24. The court shall recognize and take notice of all equitable estates, titles, and rights, and all equitable duties and liabilities appearing incidentally in the course of any cause or matter pending before it, in the same manner in which the said court in its equitable jurisdiction would formerly have recognized and taken notice of the same in any suit or proceeding duly instituted therein.

Defence instead of injunction or prohibition

25. No cause or proceeding at any time pending in the court shall be restrained by prohibition or injunction, but every matter of equity on which an unconditional injunction against the prosecution of any such cause or proceeding might formerly have been obtained, may be relied on by way of defence thereto:

Provided that—

- (a) nothing in this Act shall disable the court, if it thinks fit, from directing a stay of proceedings in any cause or matter pending before it; and
- (b) any person, whether a party or not to any such cause or matter, who would formerly have been entitled to apply to the court, in any of its jurisdictions, to restrain the prosecution thereof, or who may be entitled to enforce, by attachment or otherwise, any judgment, decree, rule, or order, in contravention of which all or any part of the proceedings in such cause or matter may have been taken, shall be at liberty to apply to the court, in a summary way, for a stay of proceedings in the cause or matter, either generally or so far as may be necessary for the purposes of justice, and the court shall thereupon make such order as is just.

Common law and statutory rights and duties

26. Subject to the provisions of this Act for giving effect to equitable rights and other matters of equity, the court shall recognize and give effect to all legal claims and demands, and all estates, titles, rights, duties, obligations, and liabilities, existing by the common law, or by any custom, or created by any statute, in the same manner as those matters would formerly have been recognized and given effect to by the court in any branch of its jurisdiction.

Court to do complete justice in cause so as to avoid multiplicity of suits

27. The court in every cause or matter pending before it shall have power to grant, and shall grant, either absolutely or on such reasonable terms and conditions as it deems just, all such remedies whatsoever as any of the parties thereto may appear to be entitled to in respect of every legal or equitable claim properly brought forward by them respectively, in such cause or matter, so that, as far as possible, all matters so in controversy between the parties may be completely and finally determined, and all multiplicity of legal proceedings concerning any of such matters avoided.

Rules of equity to prevail where in conflict with common law

28. Subject to the express provisions of any other Act, in questions relating to the custody and education of infants, and generally in all matters not particularly mentioned in this Act in which there was formerly any conflict or variance between the rules of equity and the rules of common law with reference to the same matter, the rules of equity shall prevail in all the courts of the State, so far as the matters to which those rules relate, are cognizable by those courts.

*Miscellaneous PowersCourt may make orders to have effect of mandamus or injunction, and may appoint receivers

29. (1) The court may grant a mandamus, or an injunction, or appoint a receiver, by an interlocutory order in all cases in which it appears to the court to be just or convenient so to do.

(2) Any such order may be made either unconditionally or upon such terms and conditions as the court thinks just.

(3) If an application is made (whether before, or at, or after the hearing of any cause or matter for an injunction) to prevent any threatened or apprehended waste or trespass, the injunction may be granted, if the court thinks fit, whether the person against whom the order is sought is or is not in possession under any claim of title or otherwise, or (if out of possession) does or does not claim a right to do the act sought to be restrained under any colour of title, and whether the estates claimed by both or by either of the parties are legal or equitable.

Damages in certain cases

30. In any action arising out of the breach of any covenant, contract, or agreement, or instituted to prevent the commission or continuance of any wrongful act or for the specific performance of any covenant, contract, or agreement, the court shall have power to award damages to the party injured either in addition to or substitution for the injunction or specific performance, and those damages may be assessed by the court or in such manner as it directs.

Power to direct payment to infant

30a. Where in any action the court determines that a party (being an infant) is entitled to recover damages from another party, the court may by final or declaratory judgment finally determining the question of liability between the parties order payment of any amount or amounts of damages, direct to the plaintiff. Any acknowledgment or receipt in writing of any moneys paid on account of any such amount or amounts pursuant to a judgment under this section shall not if the court so orders be invalid merely on the ground that the person giving the same was under the age of twenty-one years at the time of his signing or giving the same.

Power to make interim assessment of damages

30b. (1) Where in any action the court determines that a party is entitled to recover damages from another party, it shall be lawful for the court to enter declaratory judgment finally determining the question of liability between the parties, in favour of the party who is entitled to recover damages as aforesaid, and to adjourn the final assessment thereof.

(2) It shall be lawful for the court when entering declaratory judgment and for any judge of the court at any time or times thereafter—

(a) to make orders that the party held liable make such payment or payments on account of the damages to be assessed as to the court seems just;

and

(b) in addition to any such order or in lieu thereof, to order that the party held liable make periodic payments to the other party on account of the damages to be assessed during a stated period or until further order:

Provided, however, that where the declaratory judgment has been entered in an action for damages for personal injury, such payment or payments shall not include an allowance for pain or suffering or for bodily or mental harm (as distinct from pecuniary loss resulting therefrom) except where serious and continuing illness or disability results from the injury or except that, where the party entitled to recover damages is incapacitated or partially incapacitated for employment and being in part responsible for his injury is not entitled to recover the full amount of his present or continuing loss of earnings, or of any hospital, medical or other expenses resulting from his injury, the court may order payment or payments not to exceed such loss of earnings and expenses and such payment or payments may be derived either wholly or in part from any damages to which the party entitled to recover damages has, but for the operation of this proviso, established a present and immediate right or except where the judge is of opinion that there are special circumstances by reason of which this proviso should not apply.

(3) Any order for payment of moneys on account of damages made hereunder may be enforced as a judgment of the court.

(4) Where the court adjourns assessment of damages under this section, it may order the party held liable to make such payment into court or to give such security for payment of damages when finally assessed as it deems just.

(5) When damages are finally assessed credit shall be given in the final assessment for all payments which have been made under this section and the final judgment shall state the full amount of damages, the total of all amounts already paid pursuant to this section and the amount of damages then remaining payable, and judgment shall be entered for the last-named amount.

(6) Where the court adjourns assessment of damages under this section, any party to the proceedings may apply to any judge of the court at any time and from time to time—

(a) for an order that the court proceed to final assessment of the damages;

or

(b) for the variation or termination of any order which may have been made for the making of periodic payments.

On the hearing of any such application the judge shall make such order as he considers just: Provided that, in an action for damages for personal injury, upon an application for an order that the court proceed to final assessment of damages, the Judge to whom such application is made shall not refuse such order if the medical condition of the party entitled to recover damages is such that neither substantial improvement nor substantial deterioration thereof is likely to occur or if a period of four years or more has expired since the date of the declaratory judgment unless the judge is of opinion that there are special circumstances by reason of which such assessment should not then be made.

(7) If it appears to the court that a person in whose favour declaratory judgment has been entered has without reasonable cause failed to undertake such reasonable medical or remedial treatment as his case might have required or require, it shall not award damages for such disability, pain or suffering as would have been remedied but for such failure.

(8) If at any time it appears to a judge that a person in whose favour declaratory judgment has been entered and who is incapacitated or partially incapacitated for employment, is not sincerely or with the diligence which should be expected of him in the circumstances of his case, attempting to rehabilitate himself for employment any payment or payments under subsection (2) of this section shall not include by way of allowance for loss of earnings a sum in excess of seventy-five per centum of such person's loss of earnings.

- (9) (a) Notwithstanding anything in the Survival of Causes of Action Act, 1940, when damages are finally assessed under this section for the benefit of the estate of a deceased person where the deceased person died after action brought and declaratory judgment has been entered in favour of such person, the damages finally assessed may include such damages in respect of any of the matters referred to in section 3 of that Act as the court deems proper.
- (b) Where a party dies after declaratory judgment has been entered in his favour but before final assessment of his damages in circumstances which would have entitled any person to recover damages, solatium or expenses by action pursuant to Part II of the Wrongs Act, 1936-1959, it shall be lawful for the executor or administrator of the deceased to proceed in the same action for the recovery of such damages, solatium or expenses for the benefit of such person notwithstanding the declaratory judgment or that the deceased has received moneys thereunder, provided, however, that in any such proceedings all moneys paid to the deceased pursuant to the declaratory judgment in excess of any actual and subsisting pecuniary loss resulting to him from the wrongful act of the party held liable shall be deemed to have been paid towards satisfaction of the damages, solatium or expenses awarded pursuant to the Wrongs Act, 1936-1959, and no further damages shall be payable in respect of the injury sustained by the deceased. In any proceedings hereunder, the declaratory judgment and any finding of fact made in the course of proceedings consequent thereupon shall enure as between the party held liable and the executor or administrator of the deceased.
- (c) Where a party dies in the circumstances referred to in the preceding paragraph of this subsection except that the death of the deceased is not wholly attributable to the personal injury, the subject of the declaratory judgment, but was accelerated thereby, it shall be lawful for proceedings to be taken and for the court to assess damages, solatium or expenses as in the preceding paragraph but such damages, solatium or expenses shall be proportioned to the injury to the person for whom and for whose benefit the proceedings are taken resulting from such acceleration of death.
- (d) The court may, if the justice of a case so requires, assess damages under paragraph (a) of this subsection notwithstanding the commencement or prosecution of proceedings under paragraph (b) or (c) of this subsection and the damages so assessed shall be for the benefit of the estate of the deceased and no damages shall be awarded under paragraph (b) or (c) of this subsection.

(10) In the exercise of the powers conferred by this section the court shall have regard to the facts and circumstances of the particular case, as they exist from time to time, and any allowance, or the final assessment, as the case may be, shall be such as to the court may seem just and reasonable as compensation to the person actually injured or to his or her dependants as the case may be.

Power to award interest

30c. (1) Unless good cause is shown to the contrary, the court shall, upon the application of a party in favour of whom a judgment for the payment of damages, compensation or any other pecuniary amount has been, or is to be, pronounced, include in the judgment an award of interest in favour of the judgment creditor in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) The interest—

- (a) will be calculated at a rate fixed by the court; and
- (b) will be calculated in respect of a period fixed by the court (which must, however, in the case of a judgment given on a liquidated claim, be the period running from when the liability to pay the amount of the claim fell due to the date of judgment unless the court otherwise determines); and
- (c) is payable, in accordance with the court's determination, in respect of the whole or part of the amount for which judgment is given.

(3) Where a party to any proceedings before the court is entitled to an award of interest under this section, the court may, in the exercise of its discretion, and without proceeding to calculate the interest to which that party may be entitled in accordance with subsection (2) of this section, award a lump sum in lieu of that interest.

(4) This section does not—

- (a) authorize the award of interest upon interest;
- (ab) authorize the award of interest upon exemplary or punitive damages;
- (b) apply in relation to any sum upon which interest is recoverable as of right by virtue of an agreement or otherwise;
- (c) affect the damages recoverable upon the dishonour of a negotiable instrument;
- (d) authorize the award of any interest otherwise than by consent upon any sum for which judgment is pronounced by consent;

or

- (e) limit the operation of any other enactment or rule of law providing for the award of interest.

Declaratory orders

31. No action or proceeding shall be open to objection on the ground that a merely declaratory judgment or order is sought thereby, and the court shall have power to make binding declarations of right whether any consequential relief is or could be claimed or not.

Court may order mortgage instead of sale in certain cases

32. In any proceeding in which the court has power to order a sale of any real or personal property, the court shall have power, instead of ordering a sale, to make such order, as is just and convenient, for a mortgage of the property, with power of sale to the mortgagee; and, for the purpose of perfecting such mortgage, to order the execution of all deeds and documents in the same manner as in the case of a sale of property.

* * * * *

Court may direct sale of mortgaged property, etc.

34. In any action for the foreclosure of the equity of redemption in any mortgaged property, and upon the request of the mortgagee, or of any subsequent encumbrancer, or of the mortgagor, or any person claiming under any such person, the court may direct a sale of the property, or a transfer of the mortgage debt and security, instead of a foreclosure of the equity of redemption, on such terms as the court thinks fit, and, if the court thinks fit, without previously determining the priorities of encumbrances, or giving the usual or any time to redeem: Provided that if the request is made by any subsequent encumbrancer, or by the mortgagor, or by any person claiming under such encumbrancer or mortgagor, no such sale shall be directed without the consent of the mortgagee or the persons claiming under him, unless the party making such request deposits in court a reasonable sum of money, to be fixed by the court, for the purpose of securing the performance of such terms as may be imposed on the party making such request.

* * * * *

Appointment of commissioners for taking affidavits

36. (1) Any two or more judges of the court of whom the Chief Justice shall be one, may by commission under the seal of the court from time to time empower such persons as they think fit and necessary, whether within or outside the State, to take all such affidavits as any person desires to make before any person so empowered in or concerning any cause, matter or thing pending in the court.

(2) Every person so appointed shall be a commissioner for taking oaths in all causes and matters whatsoever in every jurisdiction of the court.

* * * * *

Inspection of property in legal proceedings

38. (1) For the purpose of any proceeding therein, the court may order a view or inspection of any land or chattel, and any judge, juryman, or other person authorized by the order, may enter on any land or premises which it is necessary or convenient to enter on for the purpose of such inspection.

(2) Every person in possession of any such land or premises shall allow such entry for the purposes aforesaid, and in case of any obstruction or refusal of such entry, the person or persons so obstructing or refusing such entry, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of court, and be liable to punishment accordingly.

Vexatious proceedings

39. (1) If, on the application of the Attorney-General, the court is satisfied that a person has persistently instituted vexatious proceedings, the court may make either or both of the following orders:

- (a) an order prohibiting the person by whom the vexatious proceedings were instituted from instituting further proceedings, or further proceedings of a particular class, without leave of the court;
- (b) an order staying proceedings already instituted by that person.

(2) Where it appears to the Supreme Court or any other court of the State that there are proper grounds for an application under this section, it may refer the matter to the Attorney-General for consideration.

(3) An order under this section remains in force (subject to variation by the court)—

- (a) if a period for the operation of the order is fixed—until the expiration of that period or the revocation of the order (whichever first occurs);
- (b) if no such period is fixed—until revocation of the order.

(4) Where an order is made under this section, a copy of the order must be published in the Gazette.

(5) For the purposes of this section, proceedings are vexatious—

- (a) if instituted to harass or annoy, to cause delay, or for any other ulterior purpose;

or

- (b) if instituted without reasonable ground.

(6) A reference in this section to proceedings extends to both civil and criminal proceedings whether instituted in the court or some other court of the State.

Power of court with regard to costs

40. Subject to the express provisions of this Act, and to the rules of court, and to the express provisions of any other Act whenever passed, the costs of and incidental to all proceedings in the court, including the administration of estates and trusts, shall be in the discretion of the court or judge, and the court or judge shall have full power to determine by whom and to what extent such costs are to be paid.

(2) If—

- (a) an action for the recovery of damages or any other monetary sum is brought in the Court;
 - (b) the action might have been brought in the District Court;
- and
- (c) the plaintiff recovers less than an amount fixed by the rules for the purposes of this paragraph,

no order for costs will be made in favour of the plaintiff unless the Court is of the opinion that it is just, in the circumstances of the case, that the plaintiff should recover the whole or part of the costs of action.

Power to revive orders on abatement of cause

41. When any judgment or order for the payment of any costs or money has been made in any cause or matter, and the suit afterwards becomes abated, it shall be lawful for the court or a judge, upon the application of any person interested under the judgment or order, to make an order reviving the cause or matter, and permitting the applicant to prosecute and enforce the judgment or order, upon such terms (if any) as the court or judge thinks fit.

PART III

SITTINGS AND DISTRIBUTION OF BUSINESS

Abolition of terms

42. The division of the legal year into terms is abolished as far as relates to the administration of justice, and there shall be no terms applicable to any sitting or business of the court.

Reference to terms for computing time

43. In all cases in which the terms, into which the legal year was formerly divided, are used as a measure for determining the time at or within which any act is required to be done, those terms may continue to be referred to for the same or the like purpose, unless provision is otherwise made by law.

Sitting in vacation

44. Provision shall be made by rules of court for the hearing during vacation of all such applications as require to be immediately or promptly heard.

46. Subject to this Act and to the rules of court the civil sittings of the court for the trial of causes and questions or issues of fact shall be held in Adelaide, and such sittings shall, so far as is reasonably practicable, and subject to vacations, be held continuously throughout the year by as many judges as the business to be disposed of renders necessary.

Power to sit in several jurisdictions at one time

47. Any two or more of the judges may sit at the same time, as separate courts or divisions of the court, for the despatch of its business, either in the same jurisdiction or in different jurisdictions, and, in particular, the Full Court may sit in more than one division.

Cases or points of law reserved for Full Court

49. (1) Any judge of the court sitting in the exercise of any jurisdiction may reserve any case or any point in a case for the consideration of the Full Court, or may direct any case or point in a case to be argued before the Full Court, and the Full Court may hear and determine any such case or point so reserved or so directed to be argued.

(2) Subject to any express enactment the like powers may be exercised in relation to any appeal or matter whatsoever, which comes before a judge, under any enactment by which a judge of the court is designated as the judge, arbitrator, or person appointed to hear and determine the appeal or matter, notwithstanding that the determination of the judge is expressed to be final or without appeal.

Appeals against decisions of judges and masters

50. (1) Subject to the rules of court an appeal shall lie to the Full Court against every judgment, including every declaratory judgment entered pursuant to section 30b of this Act and any final assessment made thereon, order, or direction of a judge, whether in court or chambers, and also from the refusal of any judge to make any order:

Where by rules of court the registrar is authorized to make payments of money to persons entitled thereto upon their request by transmitting to them by post crossed cheques or other documents intended to enable them to obtain payment of the sums expressed therein, the posting of a letter containing the cheque or document and addressed to the person entitled thereto at the address given by him in his request shall, as respects the liability of the registrar and of the Treasurer respectively, be equivalent to the delivery of the cheque or document to that person himself.

(2) Such moneys shall not be afterwards claimable from the Treasurer unless the court otherwise orders.

Party subsequently claiming may petition the Supreme Court, etc.

129. (1) If at any time after any such money has been so paid to the Treasurer, any person applies to the court, by summons, for the payment to him of that money or any part thereof, and the court is satisfied upon affidavit or other sufficient evidence adduced that the applicant is entitled to the whole or any part of the money claimed by him, the court shall make an order for payment of the sum to which the applicant is entitled, with or without such additional amount as would have accrued (whether as interest or otherwise) had that sum been retained by the court from the time when it was paid to the Treasurer to the time of the court order.

(2) On any such order being served on the Treasurer he shall issue and pay the money mentioned in the order to the persons to whom it is payable by virtue of the order, and the receipt of any person to whom any such money is so paid shall be a full and valid discharge for the sum stated in the receipt to have been received.

Power to prescribe and provide for payment of court fees

130. (1) The Governor may, by regulation, prescribe and provide for the payment of fees in respect of proceedings in the court, or any step in such proceedings.

(2) Any rules made under section 72(1)VI and in force immediately before the commencement of the Supreme Court Act Amendment Act, 1983, shall be deemed to be regulations made under this section.

(3) Any rules (being rules prescribing or providing for the payment of fees in respect of proceedings in the testamentary causes jurisdiction of the court) made under section 122(1)(a) of the Administration and Probate Act, 1919, and in force immediately before the commencement of the Supreme Court Act Amendment Act (No. 2), 1983, shall be deemed to be regulations made under this section.
