349. (1) The determination of any question before the Full Court under this Act shall be according to the opinion of the majority of the members of the court hearing the case.

(2) Unless the court directs to the contrary in cases where, in the opinion of the court, the question is a question of law on which it would be convenient that separate judgments should be pronounced by the members of the court, the judgment of the Court shall be pronounced by the Chief Justice, if present, or in his absence by the senior member of the Court, or by such other member of the court hearing the case as the Chief Justice or senior member directs, and no judgment with respect to the determination of any question shall be separately pronounced by any other member of the court.

Criminal Law Consolidation Act.—1935.

PART XI.

Cases Stated.

350. (1) If upon the trial of any person convicted on information, any question of difficulty in point of law has arisen, it shall be lawful for the presiding judge in his discretion to reserve the said question for the consideration and determination of the Full Court, and to respite execution of the judgment, or postpone judgment until the said question has been considered and decided.

Questions of law may be reserved.
38, 1876, s. 397.

(2) A case shall be stated as provided in the next succeeding section—

(a) if the Full Court, on motion, makes a rule or order for that purpose, which rule or order the Full Court is hereby authorised to make :

(b) if the Full Court, on an appeal involving a question of law alone, so requires, as hereinafter mentioned.

(3) When a question of law has been reserved, or the Full Court on motion orders a case to be stated, the said presiding judge may in his discretion commit the person convicted to gaol, or release him on recognizance of bail with one or two sufficient sureties, and in such sum as the said judge thinks fit, conditioned to appear at such time or times as the court directs, and receive judgment or render himself in execution as the case may be.

351. (1) In any of the cases mentioned in the last preceding section, the presiding judge shall state a case setting forth the question reserved, with the circumstances on which it has arisen, and shall sign the same and transmit it within a reasonable time to the Full Court.

(a) send the case back for amendment if it thinks necessary ;

(b) affirm, amend, reverse, or avoid any judgment which has been given on the information ;

(c) set aside the conviction ; or

(d) arrest the judgment, or if no judgment has been given, order judgment to be given at some other sessions of the court where the question arose ; or

(e) make such other order as justice may require :

Provided that—

- I. no judgment shall be reversed, avoided, or arrested upon the ground of the improper admission of evidence, if it appears to the said court that the evidence was merely of a formal character and not material, nor upon the improper admission of evidence adduced for the defence ;
- II. where any judgment has been reversed, avoided, or arrested, the said court may order a new trial ; and
- III. the said court may, notwithstanding that it is of opinion that the question or questions so reserved might be decided in favor of the person convicted, affirm the judgment, if it considers that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred.

(3) The judgment and order (if any) of the Full Court shall be certified under the hand of the Chief Justice or senior member of the court to the associate or clerk of arraigns, who shall enter the same on the original record in proper form, and a certificate of such entry in, or to the effect of, the form contained in Schedule 10 shall be transmitted to the Comptroller of Prisons, and shall be a sufficient warrant to all persons—

(a) to execute the said judgment as affirmed or amended ;
or

(b) to discharge the person convicted from custody,

as the case may be.

(4) If judgment is ordered to be given at some other sessions of the court where the question arose, it shall be given accordingly, and if the conviction is set aside in the case of a person released on bail, the recognizances of bail shall be vacated.

Right of Appeal and Determination of Appeals.

Right of appeal in criminal cases.
1613, 1924, s. 5.

352. A person convicted on information may appeal under this Act to the Full Court—

- (a) against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of law alone : Provided that the Full Court in any such case may, if it thinks fit, decide that the procedure with relation to cases reserved should be followed, and require a case to be stated accordingly in the same manner as if a question of law had been reserved, and thereupon the provisions of this Part relating to cases so reserved shall, with the necessary modifications, apply accordingly ;

Criminal Law Consolidation Act.—1935.

PART XI.

- (b) upon the certificate of the judge of the Supreme Court before whom he was tried that it is a fit case for appeal, against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of fact alone, or a question of mixed law and fact ;
- (c) with the leave of the Full Court, upon any such ground as is mentioned in subdivision (b) hereof or any other ground which appears to the Full Court to be a sufficient ground of appeal ; and
- (d) with the leave of the Full Court, against the sentence passed on his conviction, unless the sentence is one fixed by law.

353. (1) The Full Court on any such appeal against conviction shall allow the appeal if it thinks that the verdict of the jury should be set aside on the ground that it is unreasonable or cannot be supported having regard to the evidence, or that the judgment of the court before which the appellant was convicted should be set aside on the ground of a wrong decision of any question of law, or that on any ground there was a miscarriage of justice, and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal: Provided that the Full Court may, notwithstanding that it is of opinion that the point raised in the appeal might be decided in favour of the appellant, dismiss the appeal if it considers that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred.

Determination of appeals in ordinary cases.
1613, 1924, s. 6.

(2) Subject to the special provisions of this Act the Full Court shall, if it allows an appeal against conviction, quash the conviction and either direct a judgment and verdict of acquittal to be entered or direct a new trial to be had.

(3) Where a new trial is directed the Full Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the safe custody of the appellant or for admitting him to bail.

(4) On an appeal against sentence the Full Court shall, if it thinks that a different sentence should have been passed, quash the sentence passed at the trial and pass such other sentence warranted in law (whether more or less severe) in substitution therefor as it thinks ought to have been passed, and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal.

354. (1) If it appears to the Full Court that an appellant, though not properly convicted on some count or part of the information, has been properly convicted on some other count or part of the information, the court may either affirm the sentence passed on the appellant at the trial or pass such sentence in substitution therefor as it thinks proper and as may be warranted in law by the verdict on the count or part of the information on which the court considers that the appellant has been properly convicted.

Court in

PART XI.

Criminal Law Consolidation Act.—1935.

(2) Where an appellant has been convicted of an offence and the jury could on the information have found him guilty of some other offence, and on the finding of the jury it appears to the Full Court that the jury must have been satisfied of facts which proved him guilty of that other offence, the court may, instead of allowing or dismissing the appeal, substitute for the verdict found by the jury a verdict of guilty of that other offence and pass such sentence in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted in law for that other offence, not being a sentence of greater severity.

(3) Where on the conviction of the appellant the jury has found a special verdict and the Full Court considers that a wrong conclusion has been arrived at by the court before which the appellant has been convicted on the effect of that verdict the Full Court may, instead of allowing the appeal, order such conclusion to be recorded as appears to the court to be in law required by the verdict, and pass such sentence in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted in law.

(4) If on any appeal it appears to the Full Court that an appellant found guilty of the offence with which he was charged was insane at the time of the commission of such offence so as not to be responsible according to law for his actions, the court may quash the sentence passed at the trial and order the appellant to be kept in strict custody until the Governor's pleasure shall be known in the same manner as if the appellant had been found to be insane by the special verdict of the jury under this Act.

356. All jurisdiction and authority under any other Act in relation to questions of law arising in criminal trials which are vested in the judges of the Supreme Court or the Full Court of the Supreme Court as constituted by the Supreme Court Act, 1878, shall be vested in the Full Court for the purposes of this Act.

Such rules shall enable any convicted person to present his case and his argument in writing instead of by oral argument if he so desires. Any case or argument so presented shall be considered by the Full Court.

1613, 1924,
s. 10.

Except in the case of a conviction involving sentence of death the time within which notice of appeal or notice of an application for leave to appeal may be given may be extended at any time by the Full Court, notwithstanding that the application for extension was made after the time had expired.

(2) In the case of a conviction involving sentence of death or corporal punishment—
